LETTER OF TRANSMITTAL.

DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE,
BUREAU OF THE CENSUS,
Washington, D. C., February 28, 1919.

SIR:

I have the honor to transmit herewith Part I of a special report on religious bodies, in which are presented a summary of the results and general tables, representing conditions, as near as may be, at the close of the year 1916. Part II presents the statistics and a descriptive statement of the history, doctrine, polity, and work or general activities of each separate denomination.

The statistics presented in this report rest upon the returns for the local church organizations as collected by the Bureau of the Census under the authority of section 7 of the permanent census act as amended by an act approved June 7, 1906. This is the second collection and publication of the statistics of religious bodies under the permanent census organization, and it also constitutes the sixth collection of these statistics by the Federal Government.

The statistics for this report were collected mainly by correspondence, but partly by the employment of special agents. The work was conducted under the supervision of Mr. William C. Hunt, chief statistician for population, assisted by Dr. Edwin M. Bliss, expert special agent.

The delay in the completion of the report on religious bodies was due to numerous interruptions during its preparation on account of urgent war work.

Very respectfully,

SAM. L. ROGERS,
Director of the Census.

Hon. WILLIAM C. REDFIELD,
Secretary of Commerce.

INTRODUCTION.

SCOPE OF THE REPORT.

This report was prepared under the provisions of the permanent census act, approved March 6, 1902, as amended by the act of June 7, 1906. Its purpose is to present statistics of the number of organizations, members, etc., of the different religious denominations of the country and to give, in addition, a review of their historical origin and development, their doctrine, polity, and their missionary, educational, and philanthropic activities. The statistics relate, as near as may be, to the close of the calendar year 1916, and were collected for each local church organization; they include, in addition to membership, church edifices, value of church property and debt on same, value of parsonages, expenditures, and Sunday schools; languages used in conducting church services; and some special statistics regarding missionary activities and ministers and their compensation. There is no attempt to present or measure the intangible features of church life or to estimate their value; nor does the report touch, except incidentally, those activities which, although conducted by church people and having sympathetic relation with church organizations, are not under the direct control of those organizations. Among these are such organizations as the Young Men's Christian Association, the Young Women's Christian Association, the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, and others; the American Bible Society, the American Tract Society, etc. These have been omitted, not from any failure to recognize the character of their work, but because the scope of the report is specifically limited, as in 1906, to organizations for religious worship, each of which has a separate and distinct membership.

There are certain cults which, while claiming a number of adherents, are not so organized as to make their presentation as religious bodies permissible. Among these the strongest is undoubtedly what is known as "New Thought," which has an international association, with headquarters at Washington, D. C., and claims large numbers of adherents. There are a number of local "centers," but neither these nor the general body have any distinctive membership, most if not all of the individuals connected with them being identified, more or less closely, with existing church organizations. Another body, known as the "Millenial Dawn," has a number of "meetings" in different parts of the country, as have also the "Russellites," or followers of Pastor Russell, but in neither case was it feasible to obtain any definite statistics. Inquiries have been made of the bureau in regard to the "Holy Rollers," and an effort was made to identify them with specific organizations. It seems probable that the term applies to certain congregations whose members display physical manifestations in their services, similar to those exhibited by some religious bodies in the latter part of the eighteenth and early part of the nineteenth centuries, and which attract public notice for a time, but gradually subside into more normal ways of church life.

The investigation for 1916 was limited to continental United States, and does not include statistics of organizations in outlying possessions or in foreign lands.

In connection with the preparation of the schedules to be used in this religious census, conferences were held with a special committee of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, appointed to cooperate with the bureau, and with a representative of the Roman Catholic Church, and the suggestions made at these conferences were most helpful to the bureau in determining the extent and form of the inquiries to be made. Two schedules were used, as follows:

SCHEDULE FOR LOCAL CHURCH ORGANIZATIONS.

1. Denomination.
2. Division (conference, diocese, district, etc.).
3. Local name of church (in full).
4. Location (state, county, city, town, village, or township, etc.).
5. Members (total number, males and females; under 13 years of age).
6. Date of organization of local church.
7. Language or languages used in church services.
8. Number of church edifices.
9. Other buildings used for church work.
10. Value of church property (church edifices, residence of pastor, and other buildings, if owned and used by church).
11. Debt on church property (church edifices, other buildings).
12. Expended by church during past year (running expenses, repairs or improvements, benevolences, all other expenses).
13. Sunday schools conducted by local church (schools, officers and teachers, scholars, male, female; scholars who are church members).

(Instructions for filling the schedule were printed on the reverse side and space was provided for the name, official title, and address of the person filling it out.)

SCHEDULE FOR MINISTERS.

1. Name of minister, priest, or rabbi.
2. Denominational connection.
3. Location (state, county, city, town, village, or township, etc.; post-office address, if different).
4. Name, location, and denomination of the churches which you are now serving.
5. State whether pastor, associate or assistant pastor, supply, emeritus, retired, etc.
6. Total amount of salary received during the past year for church service.
7. If in other than pastoral or preaching service, state occupation and position.
8. Date of ordination.
9. Date of entrance on present pastorate.
10. Age at last birthday.
11. State whether graduate of college or of theological school.

The schedule inquiries of 1916 did not differ greatly from those of 1906, the first census of religious bodies taken under the permanent census organization. Inquiries were added in 1916 as to the number of members under 13 years of age; the sex of Sunday school scholars, and the number who were church members; the number of buildings other than church edifices used for church work, with their value and debt; and the amount of church expenditures for the year. The inquiry as to the seating capacity of church edifices was omitted in 1916, and, as specified above, a separate schedule was used for ministers.

The two censuses of 1916 and 1906 were much more comprehensive than that of 1890, with which comparisons, so far as available, are made in this report. The inquiries in 1890 were as follows: Organizations; church edifices and seating capacity; halls, schoolhouses, etc., and seating capacity; value of church property; and communicants or members. A statement was also requested in 1890 as to the number of ministers in each denomination as a whole. No statistics are available for 1880, as the tabulations made of church and Sunday school statistics collected at that census were not completed. At the censuses of 1850, 1860, and 1870 a few inquiries were made concerning churches by denominations, and the results are presented in a summary on page 24.

METHODS OF COLLECTING DATA.

Statistics of churches.—The statistics of churches for this report were gathered mainly by correspondence with the local church organizations, generally through the pastor or clerk. The lists of church organizations were obtained, wherever possible, from yearbooks, minutes, almanacs, or other denominational publications; or, lacking these, from officials or other persons well acquainted with the denominations for which lists were being sought. For independent churches, including federated or union churches, the list of 1906 was used as a basis, and further investigation was made by examining city directories, and through requests to pastors of churches or to denominational officers for the names and addresses of such churches.

A card schedule, containing the various items of inquiry, was sent to each church organization on the lists, together with brief instructions concerning it, a general circular letter, and a return penalty envelope which required no payment of postage. When, through faulty address or for other cause, these schedules were returned unclaimed, other means, varying according to conditions, were employed to reach the churches. If after a reasonable time no reply was received, a reminder was sent, followed, in case of necessity, by a second reminder inclosing a second schedule. Where these failed, special letters were sent to denominational officers, home missionary superintendents, or others, and as a last resort such published statistics as were available were accepted. If all means of securing the desired information failed, the churches were dropped from the lists.

In the case of some loosely organized denominations or denominations largely foreign in their membership, special agents were appointed, who, through official position or personal familiarity with conditions, were able to supplement the correspondence or conduct the entire work of collecting the statistics.

The statistics were collected by special agents for 68 denominations, including 4 bodies of Plymouth Brethren, Churches of Christ, 6 Eastern Orthodox Churches, Jewish congregations, Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, the Mennonite bodies, Salvation Army, Volunteers of America, and a number of minor Baptist bodies. For 10 denominations the statistics were collected partly by correspondence and partly by special agents. Among these were the Southern Baptist Convention, the Pentecostal Church of the Nazarene, Synod for the Norwegian Lutheran Church, Colored Methodist Episcopal Church, and the United Brethren in Christ (Old Constitution). For certain of the Negro bodies, also, the returns were finally completed through a personal canvass by clerks sent out from the Census Bureau.

Of the 227,487 schedules secured from all churches, 62.7 per cent were secured through correspondence, 30 per cent partly through correspondence and partly through special agents, and 7.3 per cent through special agents alone.

Statistics of ministers.—The statistics of ministers were gathered by sending a card schedule to the ministers direct. The lists of ministers, with addresses, were obtained in most cases, as in the case of the churches, from various denominational publications.

Statistics of undenominational and union Sunday schools.—These statistics were compiled for the Bureau of the Census by the International Sunday School Association, of Chicago, Ill.

Statistics of activities.—The statistics for the missionary, educational, and philanthropic activities of the churches were obtained partly by correspondence and partly from published reports of the denominational societies, and are thus on a different basis from the statistics of benevolences included in the item of expenditures on the church schedule. It was found necessary to limit the sources of information to the organized societies and in some instances to combine the returns for two or more of these societies. Questionnaires were sent out and these returns were frequently supplemented by further correspondence and by the examination of published reports.

History, doctrine, etc.—The statements of history, doctrine, polity, and work for those denominations that have come into existence since 1906 were furnished for the most part by prominent persons, usually officials in the denominations, in accordance with a general outline covering the specific points to be set forth under each head. They were reviewed in the office and supplemented, when necessary, by further correspondence and investigation. For those denominations included in the census of 1906, the statements published at that census were submitted to some persons in the respective denominations who were competent to pass upon them, for correction or such additional statement as was needed to indicate the development during the decade.

CONDUCT OF THE WORK.

For the collection of the statistics of religious bodies there was prepared a card catalogue of churches (about 230,000) and one of ministers (over 150,000). There were printed 800,000 schedules (450,000 for churches and 350,000 for ministers), 700,000 circular letters, over 1,500,000 envelopes (outgoing and return), and several hundred thousand special notices and letters used for different denominations, forms for reminders and subordinate inquiries, and questionnaires, etc., for special agents.

The schedules, when received, were checked to the card catalogue and then examined as to fullness or consistency of report, and, where necessary, correspondence was had with those making incomplete or inconsistent reports, due often, in the latter case, to a misinterpretation of the inquiry. Schedules for each denomination, when ready for tabulation, were classified by geographical area (states, counties, cities) under each ecclesiastical division, and the transcription sheets, to which the answers on each schedule were finally transferred, form the basis of the tables presented in this report. The first church schedules were mailed on January 4, 1917, and at the end of June completed schedules had been received for more than half (56.7 per cent) of all the church organizations; at the end of October for more than four-fifths, and at the end of the calendar year 1917 for all but about 3 per cent; but, because of the desire to have a full and correct census of religious bodies, the collection was continued until the end of March, 1918. As a result of this effort, although some churches failed to make returns as requested, the statistics herein presented may be said to constitute a substantially complete report for each and all of the denominations represented.

DIFFICULTIES ENCOUNTERED.

In the conduct of the work, both in the collection of the statistics and the interpretation of the schedules, certain difficulties were encountered which deserve special mention.

First, was the lack of accurate and complete lists of churches or ministers. In even the best-organized bodies published lists were not infrequently found to be unreliable, churches that had become dead or dormant were still carried on the rolls, while changes of address were innumerable.

Second, the failure of pastors or clerks and even of denominational officers to reply promptly. The situation in this respect was better than in 1906, but the fact that over 175,000 reminders were sent out to churches and to ministers, and that the collection of the schedules covered a period of 15 months, as just explained, indicates the extent to which dilatoriness in reply hampered the work of the bureau.

Third, the unwillingness of many to make replies to the inquiries. A considerable number of churches protested against the inquiries, claiming that the United States Government had no constitutional authority to make any investigation in regard to religious matters, and one denomination refused to furnish any figures, whatever. In most cases an explanation of the situation brought a response, but this required considerable correspondence and involved no little delay.

Fourth, failure to answer some of the inquiries, and inconsistencies in the answers to others, which had to be supplied or corrected before the transcription work could be done. This omission or inconsistency was due in some cases to a misunderstanding of the inquiry or to a misinterpretation of the instruction concerning it, but in either event it necessitated a comparison with published statistics whenever available, or if not, correspondence concerning it. The returns as to the "date of organization of local church," "other buildings used for church work" (number, value, and debt), and the "number of Sunday school scholars who are church members" showed considerable misapprehension as to the meaning of the questions, and, as they were of somewhat minor importance, they are not included in the tabular presentations. The returns for sex distribution of Sunday school scholars were also too incomplete to be presented.

PLAN OF THE REPORT.

The report on religious bodies is published in 2 volumes. Part I consists of 14 general tables, of which 10 present statistics by denominations for the United States, states, counties, and cities, and 4 present statistics for those denominations composed wholly or in part of Negro organizations. These general tables are preceded by a textual discussion of the various items of inquiry, such as church organizations, church members, value of property, etc., by denominations; also, the statistics of ministers in their relation to church work and their compensation; a presentation of the languages used in church services; and a summary of the work or general missionary, educational, and philanthropic activities of the denominations. It also contains summarized statistics of all denominations for states, counties, and cities and a summary of the statistics of Negro organizations. Part II presents, for each denomination separately, a statement of its history, doctrine, polity, and work, a brief summary and review of the principal statistics of the denomination, and a full presentation of the statistics by states, and by ecclesiastical divisions where they exist.

CLASSIFICATION OF RELIGIOUS BODIES.

Any satisfactory classification of religious bodies is extremely difficult if not impossible. A strictly alphabetical arrangement is impracticable. The grouping by denominational families, so far as is possible, is convenient for reference, but is misleading statistically, as there are many Baptist bodies which do not bear the name Baptist, and the terms Catholic, Methodist, Presbyterian, etc., are by no means inclusive; also, new affiliations or separations are constantly taking place, while names formerly accepted become inappropriate and even those most widely used are challenged.

It has seemed best in this report to retain the arrangement of single denominations and denominational families adopted in previous reports and in practical use by religious bodies, but to omit from the tables all family totals and to present statistics for each body independently.

The total number of denominations listed in this report is 202. The Church of Christ (Scientist) refused to furnish any statistics and, although a few individual organizations responded, it was decided to omit the body from the list of denominations. Of the 202 denominations, 158 are grouped in 24 families and 44 are listed as separate denominations. Contrasted with the 188 denominations reported in 1906 (counting the 3 Baptist conventions as separate denominations), this represents a net gain of 14 denominations, there being a loss of 17 and an addition of 31 denominations. Changes in families have resulted in the dropping of 5 family names and the addition of 2. Statistics are presented for only 200 denominations, as it was impossible to obtain from the Chinese temples satisfactory reports either as to number of organizations or members, and for the "Universal Brotherhood and Theosophical Society," reported as one organization, no statistics could be obtained.

SUMMARY OF RESULTS.

GENERAL SUMMARY.

This volume of the report on religious bodies presents statistical tables with textual discussion of the same. As stated in the Introduction, these statistics were collected from the local church organizations of the different denominations and present facts concerning the number of such organizations, their membership, church edifices, value of church property, debt on church property, parsonages, expenditures, and Sunday schools. Additional information, not comprised in the general tables, is presented concerning the languages used in church services, the status and compensation of ministers, and the general missionary and benevolent activities of the denominations.

The investigation relates to continental United States only, and does not extend to any outlying possessions. The figures in general represent conditions at the close of the year 1916. In some cases, however, where the financial or ecclesiastical year covered a portion of both 1916 and 1917, report for such period was accepted. For the most part the figures are from definite church records, though where, as in loosely organized bodies, such records were not available, persons making the reports were permitted to give estimates.

It will be noted that the tables present no totals for the family groups. As stated in the Introduction, the classification by families is made for convenience of reference and on account of its acceptance and general use by denominations, but the constituent bodies of a family are not regarded as having the organic or corporate unity that would give the totals statistical significance.

Table 1 gives a summary of the more important items reported for the different denominations. It shows the total number of local church organizations in each body, the total membership, the number of church edifices, the value of church property, and the debt, the value of parsonages, the amount of expenditures reported by local organizations, and the number of Sunday schools and Sunday-school scholars. Certain items, as sex distribution of membership, number of places of worship other than church edifices, number of Sunday-school officers and teachers, and the number of organizations reporting each item, are not presented in this table, but will be found in Table 60, page 142.

[1] For number of organizations reporting, in each principal denomination, see Table 2; for all denominations, see Table 60, p. 142. [2] No statistics available.

Although the figures in this table are derived from schedules returned by each separate church organization, a complete return for every item on the schedule was not made for all organizations reported in the first column. This was due in some cases to direct failure to answer the question, but in most cases it was due to the fact that the question was not applicable to that particular organization. Thus, every organization has members, but not every one keeps an accurate roll of membership. Every organization conducts services, but some of them in a hall, schoolhouse, etc., instead of a church edifice, in which case the inquiries concerning value and debt would not be applicable. Similarly, a report concerning value of parsonages and Sunday schools would not be expected of every organization, as it is well known that some organizations, or whole denominations, do not make use of either. Every organization has some expenditures but does not necessarily keep a careful record of them.

These variations are brought out in Table 2, which shows, for each denomination having 10,000 or more members in 1916, the total number of organizations reported and the number and per cent of such organizations reporting under each statistical item shown in Table 1.

TABLE 2.—NUMBER AND PER CENT OF ORGANIZATIONS MAKING REPORT FOR EACH SPECIFIED INQUIRY, BY PRINCIPAL DENOMINATIONS: 1916.

[1] Per cent not shown where base is less than 100.

The table shows that for all denominations combined 99.7 per cent of the organizations reported number of members, the balance of three-tenths of 1 per cent representing, of course, failure to report, as all organizations must have members. The other items in the table probably have some small fraction of a per cent representing failure to report, but, with the exception of "expenditures," a full report was not to be expected. Only 89.6 per cent of the organizations reported expenditures, which would indicate that a large number of organizations do not keep financial records in such shape that the census inquiry could be properly answered. As stated above, some organizations do not own church edifices, but hold their services in halls, schoolhouses, etc., and such organizations represented about 12 per cent of the total number returned by all denominations. The table shows that practically the same percentage of organizations reported value of church property as reported edifices, but that in some denominations the former exceeded the latter, due to the fact that some organizations owned lots on which they had not erected church edifices in 1916, and others owned church furnishings, such as organs, etc., without owning the buildings. Of the total number of organizations, 18.9 per cent reported debt on church property, 28.7 per cent reported value of parsonages, and 81.8 per cent made report concerning Sunday schools.

In the textual discussion of each of the various items of inquiry and the summary tables relating thereto, comparisons are limited to the last three censuses of religious bodies—1916, 1906, and 1890. Limited inquiries concerning churches were made at the decennial censuses of 1870, 1860, and 1850, the results of which are embodied in the following summary.

As stated in the report for 1906, although the completeness of these earlier returns is somewhat doubtful, the figures may be regarded as indicating roughly the probable growth of religious bodies during the two decades.

CHURCH ORGANIZATIONS.

The source of the presentation of statistics of religious bodies is the church organization, local or general. The local church organization is a gathering of individuals for religious services or worship; the general church organization is a combination in a general body of a number of local organizations. In each case the form of organization may be complete, with officers and an enrolled membership, or it may be little more than an association or fellowship. The local church organization is variously termed church, congregation, meeting, society, mission, station, chapel, etc.; its essential feature is that its purpose is religious, and that its membership is distinctive; the members of one such organization can not be members of another similar organization. The general church organization may be an assembly, convention, council, church, synod, etc., but is, in this report, called a denomination, not that the term is regarded as exact, but because no other term descriptive of a general organized body of local churches seems to be available for the purpose of statistical presentation. In some bodies there are subdivisions of the general organization, termed variously associations, conferences, dioceses, presbyteries, etc., and statistics for these subdivisions, whenever available, are presented in connection with the separate denominations in Part II.

In default of an enumeration of the population according to religious affiliation, the local church organization forms the only practical basis for collecting statistics of the religious bodies of the country. Virtually every individual who has any religious affiliation is connected, more or less formally, with some church organization, and the number of these persons can best be learned through it. This organization also is best qualified to give information as to the church edifices and their number and value, its financial status, its Sunday school, etc. It is in fact the ultimate source for all the information that it is desired to set forth, and must be reached if the information is to be secured.

In studying the tables showing the number of local organizations in the denominations, it must be remembered that the number of organizations in any body does not constitute an accurate measure of the strength of that body. In the Roman Catholic Church it is not uncommon to find several thousand members in an organization, while the number reporting less than 100 is very small. In the Protestant bodies, on the other hand, the tendency is to a much smaller membership. In the Jewish communities, again, the congregation or synagogue varies greatly in its constitution.

Some years before the last census of religious bodies (1906) there was a general movement for church extension throughout the country, participated in by many of the denominations. "A church of our order in every town and village" was the slogan. The result was that there sprang up on every hand a number of church organizations with very little substantial basis, and which lasted for a time and then disbanded, so that the large increase in the number of organizations in the 16 years from 1890 to 1906 was not maintained in the decade from 1906 to 1916.

The total number of organizations in each denomination in 1916 is presented in Table 60, page 142, and for three censuses in Table 67, page 526. Diagram I on page 27 presents a comparison in the number of organizations for the principal denominations, that is, those reporting at least 2,000 organizations in 1916.

Table 4 gives, for 1916, 1906, and 1890, the number of organizations reported by denominations having a membership of 10,000 or more in 1916, with the increase for the 10-year, 16-year, and 26-year periods. It also shows what percentage of the whole number of organizations in the United States was comprised by the respective denominations.

As already noted, the table shows that the first period (1890–1906) was one of expansion as regards the number of organizations, and the second (1906–1916) was one of consolidation and elimination. In interpreting the table, however, it must be borne in mind that the first period extends over 16 years and the latter over 10, and that the returns at the two censuses of 1906 and 1916, having been collected under a permanent census organization, and by practically uniform methods, are more nearly complete and accurate.

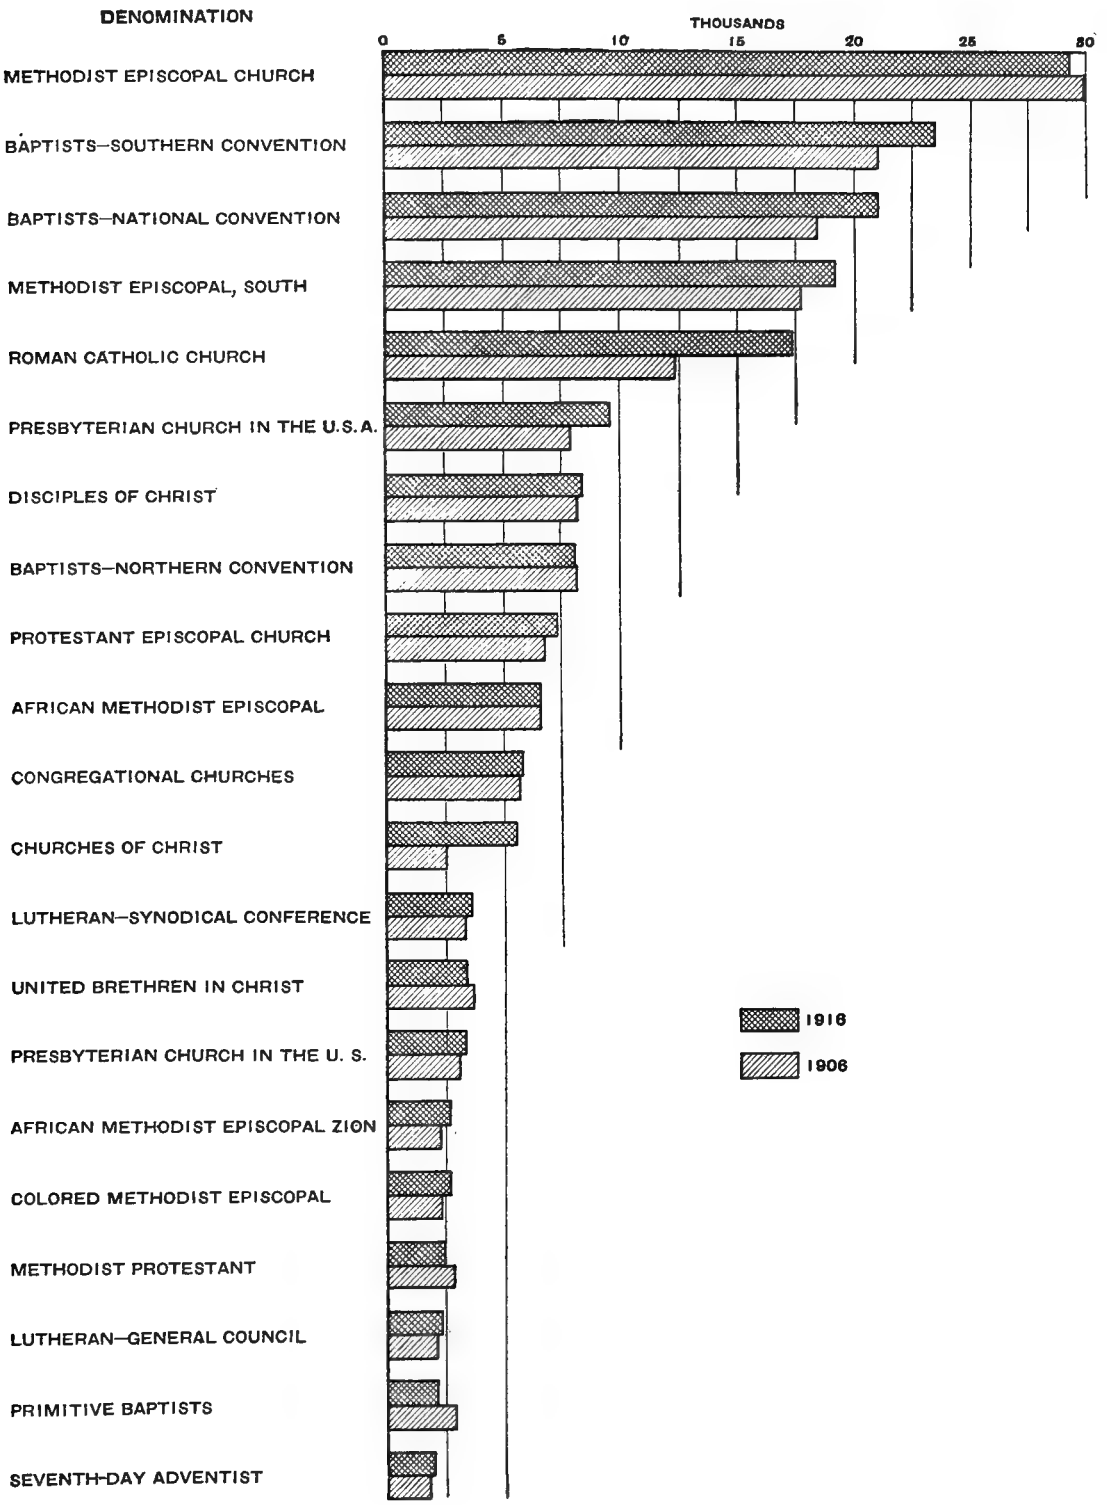
In the period 1890 to 1916 there was a general increase in all denominations combined of 62,336 organizations, or 37.7 per cent. In the period 1890 to 1906 the increase was 47,079, or 28.5 per cent; and from 1906 to 1916 it was 15,257, or 7.2 per cent. These large differences bear testimony to what appears to be a general characteristic of church life during the second period, viz, consolidation of church work with a view to greater efficiency. They do not indicate any weakening of the actual working strength of the churches. For instance, some of the Methodist bodies presented in the table show large gains in number of organizations in the first period, and greatly diminished gains, or even losses, in the second period. The Methodist Episcopal Church in 1906 reported 4,082 more organizations than in 1890, but 601 fewer organizations in 1916 than in 1906, while, as is evident from the reports on membership, the denomination gained in both periods, the gain in the second being only at a somewhat lower rate. The explanation appears to be that in 1890 the number of organizations reported probably included all churches in a circuit as one organization, while in 1906 and 1916 the plan was to report them as separate organizations. This, however, was not always done, especially in 1916, and to this failure is probably due the decrease reported for that year. The situation is similar in other bodies.

During the second period the great majority of the Free Baptist churches were united with the Northern Baptist Convention, yet the total number of organizations reported by that body was less by 113 than in 1906 before the addition of the Free Baptist churches. During this period also the union between the Cumberland Presbyterian Church and the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America was effected, by which the Cumberland Presbyterian Church lost 1,533 organizations, while the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America gained 1,725, a net gain of 192 as against 1,282 reported for the previous period.

Similar illustrations might be given of other denominations whose returns for the second period showed a much lower rate of increase than for the first period, and in many cases showed a decrease.

Of the denominations shown in the table, less than 50 showed an increase during both periods, but in practically every case at a lower rate for the second period, even taking into consideration that the number of years covered by the second period was less than the number in the first. Of the larger denominations, the Roman Catholic Church, the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, and 2 Lutheran synods reported an increased rate of gain in the second period over the first; while the Southern

DIAGRAM 1.—NUMBER OF ORGANIZATIONS IN PRINCIPAL DENOMINATIONS: 1916 AND 1906.



Baptist Convention, the National Baptist Convention, the Congregational Churches, the Disciples of Christ, the other Lutheran bodies, the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, the Presbyterian Church in the United States, and the Reformed bodies reported the greater gain in the first period.

With regard to some bodies, as the United Baptists and the Mennonite Church, the bases of reports at the three periods were so different that comparison is impracticable.

As in 1906, the largest number of organizations in 1916 were reported by the large Baptist and Methodist bodies. The Methodist Episcopal Church led with 29,342 organizations while the Southern Baptist Convention reported 23,627, and the National Baptist Convention (Negro), 21,113. The Methodist Episcopal Church, however, showed a loss since 1906 of 601 organizations, while the 2 Baptist bodies showed a gain of 2,523 and 2,579, respectively. The Methodist Episcopal Church, South reported 19,220 organizations, a gain of 1,389, and the Roman Catholic Church, 17,487 organizations, a gain of 5,005.

The increase in the number of organizations reported by the Pentecostal Church of the Nazarene, 767 per cent, is in line with the development of similar bodies, as the Pentecostal Holiness Church, and the Christian and Missionary Alliance. These all drew from the body of churches reported in 1906 as Independent, as well as from other bodies in general sympathy with their principles.

A number of bodies show a decrease in number of organizations. The Christian Church shows a falling off during each period, probably explained, at least in good measure, by a somewhat inaccurate enumeration; this body, the Disciples of Christ, and the Churches of Christ all use frequently the same name "Christian Church," or "Church of Christ" for the local organizations. This fact creates confusion in the tabulation, but at each census the list was made more nearly complete, and organizations became identified more exactly with the body to which they really belonged.

Special interest attaches to the figures for organizations in the Greek Orthodox Church, and some of the Mennonite bodies and Lutheran synods, as these have been affected by immigration. The Greek Orthodox Church shows a loss of 247 organizations, but this is due to a plan of enumeration adopted in 1916 which differed materially from that in 1906. In 1906 every Greek community was reported, while in 1916 only those communities were included where there was a regularly organized religious society or church. The result was that instead of 334 organizations as reported in 1906, only 87 were listed.

The situation in regard to the Jewish congregations is so uncertain that comparison between the reports for these 2 periods is not satisfactory. In 1906 there were 1,769 organizations reported, and in 1916 the number had increased to 1,901, but those who furnished the figures expressed uncertainty as to whether or not the figures covered the entire number of Jewish congregations at either census. The situation is more fully set forth in the denominational statement concerning this body in Part II.

The "Independent churches" do not represent any homogeneous body, but simply an aggregation of individual organizations, with nothing in common except the fact that they are not ecclesiastically identified with any regularly organized denomination. As is natural in such organizations, there are numerous changes. A church wearies of independency and enters—often reenters—into relations with some synod, presbytery, association, or other similar body. On the other hand, an organization becomes weary of ecclesiastical restraint and proclaims itself independent. In some cases two or more churches, even of different denominations, federate or unite, and then are listed as one church whereas formerly they were distinct. Three fully organized denominations reported in 1916 are composed chiefly of organizations listed with the Independent churches in 1906. The loss of 500 churches, therefore, is not particularly significant.

Reviewing the situation as indicated by the marked reduction in the rate of increase in the total number of organizations reported for the period 1906 to 1916, as compared with that for the period 1890 to 1906, it seems clear, as stated above, that there has been a decided check upon the development of local church organizations. From the specific instances noted, as well as from others not mentioned in the text, it would appear also that this is due largely to three facts: A more careful enumeration; the elimination of organizations practically lifeless; and the consolidation of organizations in the interest of efficient church work.

CHURCH MEMBERS.

TOTAL MEMBERS.

The members of a local church organization and thus of the denomination to which the church belongs are those individual persons who are recognized as constituent parts of the organization. The application of the term, therefore, to any one organization depends upon the constitution of that church or denomination. The Roman Catholic and Eastern Churches, orthodox or independent, consider as members all persons, including infants, who have been baptized according to the rites of the church. A Baptist church considers as members only those who, having formally applied for membership at an age when mature decision is possible, are then baptized and enrolled as members. Between these two there is every variety of interpretation. The broad Catholic application of the term is made by many, perhaps most, Anglican or Episcopal churches; a somewhat modified form by Lutheran churches. Presbyterian churches in general consider that the baptized infant, while not a full member, is a ward of the church and only needs a public acceptance of the relation to become a full member. The Methodist Episcopal Church classes all baptized children as preparatory members, who as soon as they come to years of discretion are to be gathered into classes, instructed in the doctrine and government of the church, and then admitted to full membership. In such bodies as the Bahais, Spiritualist associations, etc., there is simply a formal enrollment and in some cases even that seems to be lacking, and the membership is merely the aggregate of the number of persons who habitually meet for conference or services. The membership of Jewish congregations varies. In some congregations it is limited to seat holders, in others to heads of families, in others to contributors, etc.

This situation made it evident that there was no accurate basis for comparison, and at the census of 1890, the first at which any effort to report membership was undertaken, the term "members" was limited by the term "communicant," and included in Christian bodies only those who were entitled to partake of the Lord's Supper, and in other bodies those who were definitely enrolled and could participate in the conduct of the organization. In order to put the figures for all the different bodies on a comparable basis, the number who had been confirmed to full membership was called for in bodies that included baptized children as members. For most of the bodies it was fairly easy to obtain this information. With regard to the Roman Catholic Church, however, there were no records available. It was learned that in general a Roman Catholic child partook of the first communion when about 9 years of age. Recurring to the United States census tables of age distribution, and making some allowance for the preponderance of adults in immigration from Roman Catholic countries, it was decided to accept the figures for the Roman Catholic population, deduct 15 per cent, and take the remainder as virtually constituting the communicant membership of that church. The same method was followed at the census of 1906, although its disadvantages were recognized.

In preparing for the census of 1916 it became evident that the conditions on which the 15 per cent deduction were based were no longer existent. The average age of confirmation in the Roman Catholic Church had dropped, in many cases, from 9 years to 8 or 7, and there had been an influx of members of the Eastern Orthodox and other Oriental Churches, which had to be recognized. It appeared also that the trend in the Protestant Episcopal Church and in many Lutheran synods was toward the classification of all baptized persons as members, and also that there was considerable divergence, even in the same body, in the use of the term "communicant." In addition to these differences a query arose as to whether the Census Bureau has a right arbitrarily to define a term used variously by different bodies. Accordingly it was decided to drop the term "communicant" and accept from each body its own report of members so far as the general presentation was concerned. This decision necessitates the restoration in comparative tables of the 15 per cent deducted from the membership reported for the Roman Catholic Church in 1906 and in 1890, and the number of members for the Roman Catholic Church and for "all denominations" will differ to that extent from the published reports of those two censuses.

The following table shows the total membership of the denominations reporting 10,000 members or over in 1916, together with the per cent distribution, by denominations, for 1916, 1906, and 1890, and the increase and rate of increase for the three periods. For a full report of membership for all denominations in 1916, see Table 60, page 142, and for a comparison with the two preceding censuses, see Table 67, page 526.

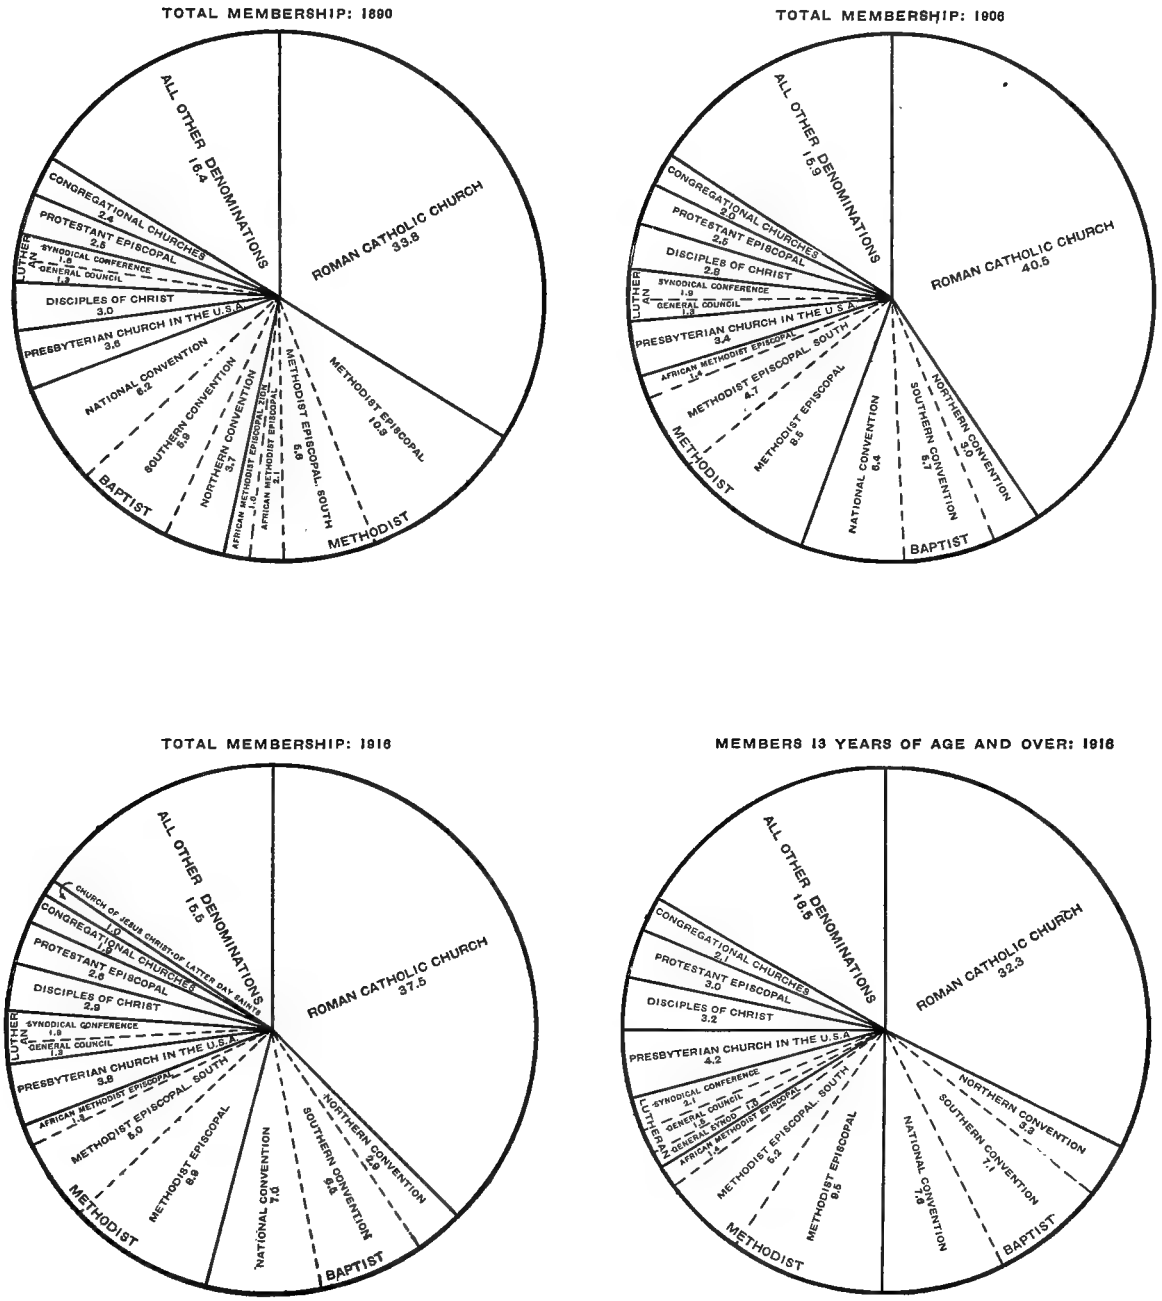
DIAGRAM 2.—DISTRIBUTION OF TOTAL MEMBERSHIP BY PRINCIPAL DENOMINATIONS: 1890, 1906, AND 1916. MEMBERSHIP 13 YEARS AND OVER: 1916.



The total number of church members reported in 1916 was 41,926,854, as compared with a total of 35,068,058 for 1906, and of 21,699,432 for 1890. The increase for the 26-year period 1890 to 1916 was 20,227,422, or 93.2 per cent; for the 10-year period 1906 to 1916 it was 6,858,796, or 19.6 per cent; and for the 16-year period 1890 to 1906 it was 13,368,626, or 61.6 per cent. In noting these comparisons it is to be remembered that the periods covered are not uniform; also, that the method adopted in 1890 for collecting the statistics was essentially different from that adopted in 1906 and 1916. In 1890 the returns were furnished by the denominational authorities; in 1906 and 1916 they were furnished by the individual church organizations. The proportion of organizations in the different denominations reporting membership was higher in 1916 than in 1906. In 1916, as shown in Table 2, page 22, out of 227,487 organizations, only 769 organizations, or 0.3 per cent, failed to report membership, while in 1906, out of 212,230 organizations, 1,812 organizations, or 0.9 per cent, failed to make such report. This was characteristic of practically all the denominations, though a very few showed an increase in the number of organizations failing to report members. For the Southern Baptist Convention the record was 47 in 1916 against 29 in 1906; for the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, 21 against 8; for the Roman Catholic Church, 112 in 1916 against 10 in 1906. On the other hand, in the Methodist Episcopal Church the number that failed to report dropped from 201 in 1906 to 27 in 1916, in the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, from 148 to 36, and in the Protestant Episcopal Church from 120 to 47. In general, thus, the returns are more satisfactory.

Any presentation of the relation of the total membership of the religious bodies in the United States to the total population of the country at the three periods when these religious censuses have been taken is of very uncertain value, on account of the variety of interpretation of the term "members," by the different bodies; and because of the fact that the returns for membership do not represent a specific date, and the further fact that while the figures for population for 1890 are those of the Federal census, those for the other two periods are estimates.

The relative standing of the larger bodies, as indicated in Table 5 by the per cent of the total membership contributed by each, has not materially changed during the periods under review. The Lutheran bodies contributed a very nearly uniform percentage at the three years, as did also the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, the Protestant Episcopal Church, and others. The percentage in the Southern Baptist Convention advanced from 5.9 in 1890 to 6.5 in 1916, with an intermediate drop to 5.7 per cent in 1906; the Roman Catholic Church increased its percentage from 33.8 in 1890 to 40.5 in 1906, falling off in 1916 to 37.5. The proportions of the larger bodies at the three censuses are also shown by Diagram 2 on page 31, for the denominations reporting at least 1 per cent of the total church membership.

Comparing the increases during the two periods, much the same situation appears as was noted in regard to church organizations, though in a less degree. The period 1890 to 1906 was one of expansion, the period 1906 to 1916 was one of consolidation. There was growth in each period, but that in the second was at a less rate than that in the first, even though allowance be made for the longer time covered. Aside from the two denominations which were largely consolidated with other bodies—the Free Baptists with the Northern Baptist Convention, and the greater part of the Cumberland Presbyterian with the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America—there were very few that showed a loss in membership. Some of these suffered from the war and the generally disturbed economic conditions, so that complete reports were not received. Among these were the Primitive Baptists, the Congregational Methodist Church, the Colored Cumberland Presbyterian Church, and the United Brethren in Christ (Old Constitution). In some cases, as the Evangelical Protestant Church, Hauge's Norwegian Lutheran Synod, and the United Norwegian Lutheran Church, there appeared to have been withdrawal to other bodies in connection with the consolidation that took place in those denominations.

The Serbian Orthodox Church probably sent a number to the homeland in its defense. The Independent churches contributed largely to the formation and development of the Christian and Missionary Alliance and the Holiness bodies. A few bodies, as the Hicksite Friends and the Spiritualists' Association, seem to have been losing ground steadily.

The Evangelical Association lost in the first period through the separation from it of the United Evangelical Church, but showed a considerable gain in the second period. The African Methodist Episcopal Zion Church lost in the first period through error in the figures reported for 1890, but gained in the second period.

The variations noted in the number of members in the Jewish congregations are due to lack of uniformity in returns. As stated in the consideration of organizations, some congregations report only seat holders, others heads of families, others contributors, or shareholders; some include women, some include only men. The returns for the three periods were furnished by different persons and covered different phases. In 1916 an effort was made to learn the number of adults connected with each synagogue, but the great divergence in the constitution of the synagogues created confusion, and the figures as given for the three periods can not be regarded as comparable. The Independent churches, too, are so heterogeneous as scarcely to furnish a fair basis for comparison.

In view of the fact that the methods adopted for collecting the statistics in 1916 and 1906 differed from those used in 1890 the comparison of figures for 1916 and 1906 is more significant than that between either of those years and 1890. The following table gives the membership in 1916 of those denominations reporting more than 50,000 members, the increase over the figures reported for 1906, and the rank of each denomination as indicated by the total membership, by the increase in number of members, and by the per cent of increase. The Independent churches and Jewish congregations are omitted.

[1] A minus sign (−) denotes decrease.

The table shows that for the denominations reporting over 1,000,000 members there were only very slight variations in rank as regards members and numerical increase, but that there were great variations as regards per cent of increase. Thus, the Roman Catholic Church ranks first in number of members and in numerical increase, but in per cent of increase its rank is 36, due in part to the falling off in immigration and possibly to the emigration of Italians, Austrians, French, and others who returned to Europe for the war. The Methodist Episcopal Church ranks 2 in number of members and in numerical increase, but 21 in per cent of increase, while the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, ranking 5 in members and numerical increase, is 16 in per cent of increase. The Presbyterian Church in the United States of America ranks 9 in per cent of increase, which is the highest rank in any of the 9 denominations reporting over 1,000,000 members.

In order of per cent of increase, the Russian Orthodox Church stands first, followed by the Churches of Christ, both bodies of Latter Day Saints, the Colored Methodist Episcopal Church, the African Methodist Episcopal Zion Church, the Church of the Brethren, and the Lutheran General Synod. The Russian Church gained heavily through immigration. The high mark of the Churches of Christ and the two Negro Methodist bodies mentioned above is probably due to a more complete enumeration in 1916. This is also true of the Free Will Baptists, which rank tenth in per cent of increase, and the National Baptist Convention (Negro), which ranks fifteenth.

In the discussion as to the increase or decrease of the number of church organizations reported by different denominations (p. 32), it was stated that the period 1906 to 1916 as compared with the period 1890 to 1916 was a period of consolidation and elimination of weak or dormant churches, and that the record of membership showed a constant, if not uniform, increase during the period under special review (1906 to 1916). This is borne out by the following comparison in Table 7 of the percentages of increase or decrease in membership and in number of organizations for those denominations shown in Table 6.

Of the denominations included in the table and representing a membership of 40,374,127 or 96.3 per cent of the entire church membership, 14 showed a decrease in number of organizations and only 4 a decrease in church membership, due in 2 denominations to consolidation, and in 1 to generally disturbed conditions resulting in incomplete returns. The decrease in number of church organizations in the Greek Orthodox Church was due to a different basis of reporting, but in the others no special reason could be assigned, and a comparison in each case with the per cent of increase in membership shows that the latter rather than the former may fairly be regarded as the measure of the denomination's strength. Thus, the United Evangelical Church shows a decrease of 2.1 per cent in number of organizations, but an increase of 28.5 per cent in membership; the Methodist Episcopal Church a decrease of 2 per cent in organizations, but an increase of 24.5 per cent in membership. The situation is similar in other bodies.

[1] A minus sign (−) denotes decrease.

Comparing also the percentages for other bodies, it appears that in the great majority of cases the per cent of increase in membership is much larger than the per cent of increase in organizations. Thus, the Lutheran General Synod reports an increase of 6.5 per cent in number of organizations, but of 37.2 per cent in membership; the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, an increase of 21.7 per cent in number of organizations and of 36.6 per cent in membership. There are only 3 bodies—the Churches of Christ, the Roman Catholic Church, and the Synod for the Norwegian Lutheran Church—for which the table shows a higher per cent of increase for organizations than for membership.

ADULT MEMBERS.

In view of the diversity in the methods of reporting members by different bodies, as noted on page 32, it was felt when preparing for the census of 1916 that some fair basis of membership for comparative purposes should be found.

At a conference with representatives of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, the suggestion was made that there be introduced into the schedule a question as to the number of members under a certain age, which might be regarded as a basis of determining adult or responsible membership. This was approved and various ages were suggested, that of 13 being finally adopted; and this age limit was also approved in a conference with a representative of the Roman Catholic Church. An inquiry was therefore introduced into the church schedule calling for the number of members under 13 years of age.

The intent of this inquiry was that total membership of all ages should be reported, and also the number of members under 13 years of age, so that if the latter were deducted, the balance would represent for each church, as near as may be, its adult membership. In the reports from the churches in those denominations which include all baptized persons as members this method was very uniformly observed. In a number of cases, however, the inquiry was misunderstood and from the reports for the item "members under 13 years of age" it was evident that the children of the church, whether enrolled as full members or not, were included; and not infrequently the number reported practically coincided with the Sunday school membership. This confusion necessitated very careful scrutiny of the reports, and a number of cases were referred to persons well acquainted with the custom in the denominations under consideration.

Schedules from a considerable number of churches contained no answer at all to the question. To ignore these or to assume that such churches had no membership under 13 years of age did not seem justifiable, and it was decided to apply to the total membership of each denomination the proportion of members under 13 shown for those churches of the same denomination reporting none or one or more members under 13. The results of this computation were referred in many cases to persons well acquainted with the situation in the denomination and received their cordial approval.

The following table shows, by denominations, the total membership with the number of organizations reporting; the membership of those organizations reporting as to members under 13, and the number of such members actually reported; it also shows the total number of members under 13 years of age as computed, the adult membership obtained by subtracting those under 13 from the members of all ages, and the per cent which each of these classes constitutes of the total membership. A graphic presentation of these proportions (adults and children), for denominations reporting 10,000 members or more and having at least 1 per cent of children under 13 years of age, is given in Diagram 3 on page 35.

The reports from 63 denominations included no figures at all for members under 13 years of age, and the adult membership coincides with the full membership as reported. Among the bodies so reported were the Lutheran bodies, several of the minor Baptist bodies, most of the Mennonite bodies, the Christian Reformed and Hungarian Reformed bodies, the Theosophical societies, the Unitarians, and others. For 32 denominations, the figures reported for members under 13 years were accepted without any addition for churches not reporting, the denominational conditions indicating that all members of this age group had been included in the reports.

For 35 denominations the adult membership was less than 90 per cent of the total membership, the Lithuanian National Catholic Church reporting the lowest percentage, 57.4. The Jacobite (Assyrian) Church reported 60.2 per cent; the Old Roman Catholic Church, 63.1 per cent; the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, 66.3 per cent; and the Metropolitan Church Association, 66.8 per cent. The smallest percentages for members under 13 years of age were shown largely for the minor Baptist bodies, and in general for those denominations reporting a large membership in rural districts; the tendency toward the inclusion in full membership of those under that age being more manifest in those denominations with a considerable urban element. The small percentage of members under 13 in some of the Eastern Orthodox Churches, as contrasted with the Roman Catholic, the Lithuanian, Polish, and other similar bodies, is probably explained by the nature of the immigration which is to a considerable degree adult, while in the Polish and similar churches the family element is stronger.

That the figures shown in this table are exact is not claimed, but as a comparative presentation of the membership of the denominations they are believed to be reasonably accurate. Taking as an illustration the first denomination shown in the table, the Advent Christian Church, it is seen that of the 534 organizations, reporting 30,597 members, 373 organizations, with 22,694 members, reported 571 children under 13 years of age. Applying the proportion existing between the 571 and 22,694 to the total number of members (30,597), the total membership under 13 for this denomination would be 770, or 2.5 per cent of the total membership. Subtracting the number under 13, thus computed, from the total membership reported gives an adult membership of 29,827, or 97.5 per cent of the total. The same method is applied to each single denomination where there was any membership reported under 13, except in a few cases where, as has been stated, it was the judgment of denominational authorities that the number under 13 actually reported on the schedules represented the entire number for that denomination.

The general accuracy of the method may be tested by comparing the number of members under 13 in the Roman Catholic Church, where the membership represents population, with the population of that age as reported in the general census tables. In this church the percentage of members under 13 represented 25 per cent of the total membership, and the percentage of the total population in 1910 represented by persons under 13 was 28.1, the smaller proportion under 13 in that church, as compared with the general population, being readily accounted for by the preponderance in the Roman Catholic Church of adult immigrants, especially Italians.

The following table gives, for each denomination reporting over 10,000 members in 1916, the total membership as reported and the total adult membership as computed, with the per cent which the number in each denomination forms of the total number in each class:

[1] Less than one-tenth of 1 per cent.

Of the denominations shown in this table there were only three—the Roman Catholic Church, the Jewish congregations, and the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints—which comprise a smaller percentage of adult membership than of total membership reported. In every other case the percentages are either the same or the percentage of adult membership is somewhat higher than that of the total membership. In the Roman Catholic Church the percentages are: Adult membership, 32.3, total membership, 37.5; in the Jewish congregations, 0.8 against 0.9 per cent; in the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, 0.7 against 1 per cent. Of other denominations, the Methodist Episcopal Church shows 9.5 per cent of adult membership against 8.9 per cent of total membership; the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, 4.2 against 3.8 per cent; the Northern Baptist Convention, 3.3 against 2.9 per cent; the Protestant Episcopal Church, 3 against 2.6 per cent. These comparisons are also graphically presented for 1916 in the two lower circles on page 31, for the denominations reporting at least 1 per cent of total members and of adult members.

It seems clear from this presentation that adult membership, as shown in these tables, furnishes a better basis for general denominational tables than does the total membership of all ages, even though the differences between the two are by no means so serious as materially to affect the significance of the figures given in the general tables and text.

MEMBERS BY SEX.

The distribution by sex of the membership of all the religious bodies as reported for 1916 is shown in Table 60 (p. 142). The table below gives, for those bodies reporting 10,000 members or over in 1916, the total membership reported by sex; the per cent of the aggregate number reported by sex; and the percentage which the males and females form of the total membership reported by sex for 1916 as compared with 1906.

Of the 85 bodies shown in this table, 12 made complete reports, and for 26 others the reports covered over 95 per cent of their membership. In some cases it was possible to secure a basis for estimates of sex, but in others, as in several of the Baptist bodies, the Disciples of Christ, Unitarians, and others, the emphasis laid on the individuality of the local church organizations, made it practically impossible to make use of estimates, and only figures actually reported could be accepted. The United Baptists had the lowest report on sex distribution, only 52.1 per cent of the organizations reporting, while the Regular Baptists ranked next with 61.1 per cent.

Of the 41,926,854 members reported, sex distribution was reported for 35,644,162, or 85 per cent of the total, and of these, 15,653,958, or 43.9 per cent, were males and 19,990,204, or 56.1 per cent, were females. The denominations showing more than 50 per cent of males in the membership are given in the following list:

DENOMINATION.	Per cent males.	DENOMINATION.	Per cent males.
Volunteers of America	90.1	Russian Orthodox Church	62.5
Greek Orthodox Church	83.4	Jewish congregations	60.7
Serbian Orthodox Church	76.9	Syrian Orthodox Church	55.5
Armenian Church	68.3	Polish National Catholic Church of America	52.3

The high percentage of males shown by the Volunteers of America is due to the inclusion in the figures for 1916 of the members of the Prison League, made up largely of men. It will be noted that, with the exception of the Jewish congregations, the remaining denominations are composed of those which are contributed to by immigration from countries in which the number of males coming to the United States exceeds the number of females. It should also be noted that in these cases the proportion of males is smaller in 1916 than in 1906. The high percentage of males in the Jewish congregations is doubtless due, as previously stated, to the custom of some organizations to make report only of heads of families or of the male members.

Of the denominations presented in the table, the lowest percentages of males in church membership are shown by the Seventh-day Adventists (32.9), the Free Methodists (34.2), the Universalists (35.2), the Free Baptists (35.5), and the Congregational Churches (35.7).

As compared with the figures for 1906, there has been an advance in the proportion of males in the total membership of all the churches from 43.5 to 43.9, and the same tendency to a proportional increase in male members is shown in a majority of the individual bodies. The very marked increase in the proportion of males reported by the Volunteers of America from 52 to 90.1 was due, as stated above, to the inclusion in the figures for 1916 of the members of the Prison League. Bodies in which there was a considerable increase in the percentage of male members were the Evangelical Protestant Church, the Protestant Episcopal Church, the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, the Reformed Episcopal Church, the Presbyterian Church in the United States, and the Lutheran General Synod.

In addition to the decreased proportion of males in those denominations having a high proportion in 1916, noted above, others showing large decreases are the Colored Free Will Baptists, from 43.9 to 39.3; the United Baptists, from 42.8 to 37.3; and the Colored Cumberland Presbyterian, from 46.5 to 42.3. Of these, the first two may have been due to incomplete returns.

Changes in the percentage of the sexes have taken place in several bodies closely related in denominational life which seem to indicate an approximation to a more uniform distribution by sex. For instance, in 1906 the percentage of males in the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, was 40.9 as against 37.4 in the Methodist Episcopal Church, a difference of 3.5, but in 1916 the corresponding percentages were 41.2 and 39.2, or a difference of only 2; the Presbyterian Church in the United States in 1906 showed 39 per cent of male members against 36.5 for the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, a difference of 2.5 in the percentage, which in 1916 had dropped to 1.9.

CHURCH EDIFICES.

The term "church edifice" covers any building used for religious services and owned in whole or in part by the organization so using it. The building may be consecrated or unconsecrated—a church, a chapel, or a mission; but if it is a separate building, and owned in whole or in part by the organization using it for services, it is classed as a church edifice. In some cases two or more organizations use the same building; if the ownership is a joint one, each organization is credited with an edifice; if, however, the ownership is with one body and the building is rented or used by another body, it is classed in the first case with church edifices, and, in the latter case, with halls, etc. Many organizations report more than one church edifice.

The number of church edifices is given for 1916, by denominations, in detail in Table 60 (p. 142) and for 1916, 1906, and 1890 in Table 67 (p. 526). The following table shows, for the three censuses, first, the number of church edifices reported for each denomination having 10,000 members or more in 1916; second, the proportion of all church edifices belonging to these denominations; and, third, the numerical and percentage increase during the specified periods.

In number of church edifices reported in 1916 the Methodist Episcopal Church led, with 28,406, and was followed by the National Baptist Convention (Negro), with 20,146; the Southern Baptist Convention, with 19,770; the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, with 17,251; and the Roman Catholic Church, with 15,120. These 5 denominations together reported almost one-half (49.5 per cent) of all church edifices. No other denomination reported as many as 10,000, while 13 of the denominations presented in the table each reported less than 100 edifices.

The number of church edifices, however, should be considered in relation to the number of church organizations. If the number of edifices as presented in Table 11 is compared with the number of organizations as presented in Table 4 (p. 25), it will be seen that in 1916 there were reported by all denominations a total of 203,432 church edifices and a total of 227,487 organizations. The number of edifices was thus considerably less than the number of organizations. For all denominations in 1916 there were reported 89.4 edifices to each 100 organizations, showing that in 1916 practically 1 organization in every 10 had no edifice of its own, but held its meetings in a rented edifice, a hall, a schoolhouse, or elsewhere. As a rule, the number of edifices reported by the different denominations in 1916 was less than the number of organizations reported, although the difference in number usually was not great. Some small denominations, however, reported the same number of edifices as of organizations, and a few denominations reported a larger number of edifices than of organizations. The church organizations that owned no church edifices constituted 10.6 per cent of all the church organizations in 1916, as compared with 9.2 per cent in 1906 and 13.7 per cent in 1890.

The per cent distribution of church edifices shows that the Methodist Episcopal Church owned 14 per cent of all church edifices reported in 1916. Next in order come the National Baptist Convention (Negro), with 9.9 per cent of the total; the Southern Baptist Convention, with 9.7 per cent; the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, with 8.5 per cent; and the Roman Catholic Church, with 7.4 per cent. These five denominations, as stated in a preceding paragraph, reported 49.5 per cent of all church edifices in 1916; no other denomination reported as large a proportion as 5 per cent. The per cent distribution of edifices in 1906 and in 1890 did not differ greatly from that in 1916.

The table shows that during the 26-year period 1890–1916 there was a very large increase in the number of church edifices—60,945, or 42.8 per cent. This increase, however, was not evenly distributed over the period, the rate of increase being much more rapid during the earlier than during the later years of the period. Thus, from 1890 to 1906 there was an increase of 50,308, or 35.3 per cent, in the number of church edifices, while, during the shorter period from 1906 to 1916, the increase was only 10,637, or 5.5 per cent. A comparison with the statistics of church organizations presented in Table 4 (p. 25) shows that the numerical and percentage increases in church edifices have corresponded roughly with the similar increases in church organizations. As already stated in regard to organizations, the rapid increase in number of church edifices from 1890 to 1906 doubtless was due mainly to this being a period of church organization and expansion, while the comparatively slow increase from 1906 to 1916 was due to this being a period of church consolidation and elimination.

Especially large increases in the number of church edifices from 1890 to 1916 are shown by the following denominations: National Baptist Convention, with 8,159; Roman Catholic Church, 6,336; Southern Baptist Convention, 6,268; Methodist Episcopal Church, 5,562; Methodist Episcopal Church, South, 4,563; and Churches of Christ, 4,342. The denominations showing the largest increases during the period 1906 to 1916 are: Roman Catholic Church, 3,239; Churches of Christ, 2,368; National Baptist Convention, 2,233; and the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, 1,318. Both during the entire period 1890 to 1916 and during the shorter and more recent period 1906 to 1916, a number of denominations show a loss in the number of church edifices. Those showing a loss include the Free Baptists and the Cumberland Presbyterian Church, due to consolidation with the Northern Baptist Convention and the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, respectively; the Evangelical Association, where the loss in the period 1890 to 1906 was due to the separation of the United Evangelical Church, and in the period 1906 to 1916 to consolidation; and the Primitive Baptists (white and Negro), where the loss was due largely to failure of the organizations to report and also to migration.

In the percentage of increase in the number of church edifices the rank of the denominations is quite different. During the entire period 1890 to 1916, each of 11 denominations shows an increase of over 100 per cent in the number of church edifices. Those showing an especially high rate of increase are: Free Will Baptists, 424.8 per cent; Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, 240.2 per cent; and Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, 213.1 per cent. The denominations showing the most marked rates of increase in number of church edifices during the decade 1906–1916 are: Churches of Christ, 120 per cent; Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, 45 per cent; and the Norwegian Lutheran Free Church, 42 per cent. A decrease in number of church edifices is shown by 13 organizations during the entire period 1890 to 1916, and of these, 8 showed a decrease of over 25 per cent. During the decade 1906–1916, 32 showed a decrease, in 6 of which the decrease was over 25 per cent.

VALUE OF CHURCH PROPERTY.

The term "church property" is used in this report in a very restricted sense. It does not include all the property owned by the churches, but only the edifices or buildings owned and used for worship by the organizations reporting, together with their sites, and their furniture, organs, bells, etc. The "value of church property," therefore, does not include the value of rented buildings or halls, or of parsonages, parochial school buildings, theological seminaries, monasteries, convents, or the like. In some cases the church edifice was combined with a parish house, a parsonage, or a school, while the site sometimes included a cemetery. When these were so identified with the church edifice that practically no distinction could be made between them, their value is necessarily included in the value of church property reported. In the case of monasteries or convents, the value of chapels is not reported except where they were separate and distinct buildings. When an organization worshiped in a rented building, but at the same time owned a lot on which it expected to build, the value of the lot is reported. Wherever two or more organizations shared the ownership of an edifice, each is credited with its proper proportion of the value, one-half, one-third, etc., as the case may be.

The value of church property and the number of organizations reporting are shown for 1916, by denominations in detail, in Table 60 (p. 142) while the value of church property is given for 1916, 1906, and 1890, by denominations in detail, in Table 67 (p. 526). The following table shows for all denominations and for each denomination having 10,000 or more members in 1916, first, the value of church property reported in 1916, 1906, and 1890; second, the proportion of the value of all church property owned by each of the specified denominations in each year; and, third, the numerical and the percentage increase from 1890 to 1916, from 1906 to 1916, and from 1890 to 1906, respectively.

Table 2 (p. 22) shows that in 1916 reports as to the value of church property owned were made by 197,807 organizations, or 87 per cent of the total number. The proportion of the organizations reporting value of church property, however, varies greatly for the different denominations. For example, Table 2 shows that value of church property was reported by only 814 of the 1,901 Jewish congregations, by only 189 of the 401 Regular Baptist organizations, by only 82 of the 254 United Baptist organizations, and by only 1,254 of the 2,011 organizations of the Seventh-day Adventist Denomination. Even in the case of the Roman Catholic Church, the proportion of organizations reporting value of church property—82.9 per cent—was considerably less than the proportion for all denominations—87 per cent. While the organizations which made no report of property owned consist largely of those which were worshiping in rented halls, in schoolhouses, or in private houses, and consequently owned no property which could be reported, yet it is undoubtedly true that some organizations which owned property failed to make any report concerning it.

The total value of church property reported in 1916, for all denominations, was $1,676,600,582. Each of 59 different denominations reported church property valued at over $1,000,000. The highest value was reported by the Roman Catholic Church—$374,206,895. Next in order came the Methodist Episcopal Church, with $215,104,014; the Protestant Episcopal Church, with $164,990,150; the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, with $150,239,123; the Northern Baptist Convention, with $94,644,133; and the Congregational Churches, with $80,842,813. The following statement shows each denomination which reported church property valued at over $10,000,000, arranged in order of the highest value of church property, together with the average value per organization reporting.

In using these figures it must be understood that the amounts given for 1916, as well as those given for 1906 and 1890, represent the value of church property so far as reported and therefore do not stand probably for the entire value of church property owned and used for purposes of worship.

While the average value of church property per organization reporting in 1916 was $8,476 for all denominations, the above statement shows that this average varied greatly for the different denominations. The statement indicates that in general those denominations which are largely concentrated in the cities, or which usually have large congregations to provide for, reported the highest average value of church property owned, while many denominations which have a large number of organizations and of communicants or members, but are principally located in rural districts, show a comparatively small average value. Thus, the Unitarians, the Jewish congregations, the Reformed Church in America, the Roman Catholic Church, and the Protestant Episcopal Church, which are largely concentrated in or near cities, stand at the head in respect to average value per organization reporting, while the Methodist and Baptist bodies included in the statement, which together reported more than one-half of the total number of church edifices returned in 1916, but which have a large proportion of their organizations in rural districts, rank low in average value per organization reporting. It will be noted also that those denominations which are numerically strongest in the largely urban states of the North and East show higher averages than do those whose strength is chiefly in the rural states of the South. Thus the average value per organization reported by the Northern Baptist Convention was four times as large as that reported by the Southern Convention; that by the Methodist Episcopal Church was twice that by the Methodist Episcopal Church, South; and that by the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America (chiefly in the North) was more than twice that by the Presbyterian Church in the United States. Similarly, high average values were reported by the Jewish congregations, several of the Lutheran synods, the Reformed bodies, and the United Presbyterian Church, all in the Northern states.

The rank of the denominations in total value of church property reported is quite different from their rank in average value per organization reporting. Thus, while the Roman Catholic Church ranks first in total value reported—$374,206,895—it ranks fourth in average value per organization reporting; and, the Unitarian denomination, though standing first in average per organization reporting—$38,797—is eighteenth in total value reported. The Methodist Episcopal Church is second in total value reported, but sixteenth in average value per organization reporting; while the Jewish congregations are second in average value reported, but twelfth in total value. The German Evangelical Synod ranks lowest in total value reported—$13,118,273—but is thirteenth in average value per organization; while the National Baptist Convention (Negro) ranks lowest in average value per organization reporting—$2,047—but is ninth in total value reported.

Considering the per cent distribution of the value of church property, Table 12 shows that the Roman Catholic Church owned 22.3 per cent of all church property reported in 1916. Then, in order, came the Methodist Episcopal Church, with 12.8 per cent; the Protestant Episcopal Church, with 9.8 per cent; and the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, with 9 per cent. These four denominations together reported considerably over one-half of the total value of church property reported by all denominations.

For the entire period 1890 to 1916, the increase in the value of church property reported was $997,174,093, or 146.8 per cent. The rate of increase, however, appears to have been much more rapid during the earlier than during the later years of this period. From 1890 to 1906, the increase amounted to $578,149,378, or 85.1 per cent, while during the shorter period from 1906 to 1916, the increase amounted to $419,024,715, or 33.3 per cent. The following denominations show especially large increases in the value of church property from 1890 to 1916: Roman Catholic Church, $256,083,549; Methodist Episcopal Church, $118,380,606; Protestant Episcopal Church, $83,771,033; and Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, $75,791,673. Especially large increases from 1906 to 1916 are shown by these same denominations: Roman Catholic Church, $81,568,108; Methodist Episcopal Church, $51,746,209; Protestant Episcopal Church, $39,949,652; and Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, $35,356,342.

During the entire period 1890 to 1916, and during each of the shorter periods which comprise it, a number of denominations show a loss in the value of church property reported. For the 26 years from 1890 to 1916, each of the following shows a very large loss: Free Baptists, $2,444,922; Cumberland Presbyterian Church, $1,580,438; Friends (Hicksite), $305,650; and Universalists, $178,230. The denominations which show a very large loss in the value of church property for the 10 years from 1906 to 1916 are: Cumberland Presbyterian Church, $3,868,888; Universalists, $2,699,553; Free Baptists, $2,303,410; and Evangelical Protestant Church, $1,362,600. The loss in value of church property experienced by the Cumberland Presbyterian Church was confined to the period 1906 to 1916, as the table shows, and is explained by the changes that followed the union of many of the churches of this denomination with the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, the figures for 1906 having been obtained just before the union was effected. The Free Baptist losses are similarly explained by the union of a large number of the Free Baptist churches with the Northern Baptist Convention, while those in the Evangelical Protestant Church are due to the fact that a considerable number of the organizations that were reported by the two constituent bodies in 1906 failed to respond as members of the united body in 1916.

In percentage increase in the value of church property, the rank of the denominations is quite different from their rank in numerical increase of this value. An increase of over 100 per cent in the value of church property is shown by each of 53 denominations during the entire period 1890 to 1916, and by each of 11 denominations during the period 1906 to 1916. Passing over the increase of 787.9 per cent shown for the Brethren, Plymouth, I to VI, which denominations are combined in this table, and in which the amount involved is quite small, an especially high rate of increase from 1906 to 1916 is shown by each of the following denominations: Syrian Orthodox Church, 461.3 per cent; Russian Orthodox Church, 341.3 per cent; and Pentecostal Church of the Nazarene, 336.5 per cent. Each of these denominations, however, is small and reported a comparatively small value of church property in 1906 and in 1916. Probably more significant, therefore, are the increases shown for the following large denominations: National Baptist Convention with 68.5 per cent; Southern Baptist Convention, 68 per cent; Methodist Episcopal Church, South, 67.5 per cent; United Brethren in Christ, 64.1 per cent; and Presbyterian Church in the United States, 54.5 per cent.

The census reports for 1850, 1860, and 1870 also give the value of church property (see Table 3, p. 24). The following tabular statement shows the value of church property reported for each census at which such statistics were obtained, together with the percentage of increase between censuses:

CENSUS YEAR.	VALUE OF CHURCH PROPERTY REPORTED.
	Amount.	Per cent of increase over value at preceding census.
1916	$1,676,600,582	33.3
1906	1,257,575,867	85.1
1890	679,426,489	91.7
1870	354,483,581	106.8
1860	171,397,932	96.3
1850	87,328,801	.....

The figures shown for the earlier periods are undoubtedly subject to the same limitations as those already indicated in the case of the figures for 1916, but on their face show a very considerable advance from one census to another in the value of property held for purposes of worship. The per capita increase is shown in the following statement:

CENSUS YEAR.	Population.	Per capita value of church property.
1916	[1] 102,017,312	$16.43
1906	[1] 85,837,372	14.65

1870	38,558,371	9.19

1850	23,191,876	3.77

[1] Estimated.

The value of church property reported for 1870 is probably on a currency basis rather than a gold basis, but the report on religious statistics at that census does not afford definite information on this point.

DEBT ON CHURCH PROPERTY.

The amount of debt on church property was ascertained for the first time at the census of 1906. At that census, as at the census of 1916, the amount of debt reported does not include the debt on all property owned by the church, but only the debt on such buildings, together with their sites, furniture, organs, bells, etc., as were owned and used for worship by the organizations reporting. The debt on church property, with the number of organizations reporting, is shown for 1916, by denominations in detail, in Table 60 (p. 142), and comparative figures for debt in 1916 and 1906 are shown in Table 67 (p. 526). The following table shows, for each denomination having 10,000 members or more in 1916, the number of organizations reporting debt on church property and the proportion they constitute of the organizations reporting value; it also shows the value of church property reported, the amount of debt reported, and the proportion the debt represents of the value, together with the amount and percentage of increase in debt during the decade. Figures are presented for the two censuses for which they are available, 1916 and 1906.

The table shows that in 1916 debt on church property was reported by 42,990 organizations, or by 21.7 per cent of all organizations which reported value of church property. While probably some organizations failed to report existing debt, it is to be presumed that with but few exceptions the remaining 154,817 organizations, which together constituted 78.3 per cent of the organizations reporting value of church property, held this church property free of debt. In 1916 the organizations reporting debt on church property formed a somewhat larger proportion of all organizations reporting value of church property than was the case in 1906—21.7 per cent as against 18.1 per cent. Since this is true quite generally of the different denominations presented, as well as of all denominations combined, it shows that from 1906 to 1916 there was a growing tendency in church organizations to contract debt on their property.

The Methodist Episcopal Church shows the largest number of organizations reporting debt on their church property in 1916—6,332. Then, in order, come the Roman Catholic Church, with 6,024 organizations; the National Baptist Convention (Negro), with 4,210 organizations; the African Methodist Episcopal Church, with 2,437 organizations; and the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, with 2,130 organizations. Together, these 5 denominations covered almost one-half of all organizations reporting debt on church property in 1916, and but a slightly smaller proportion of all such organizations in 1906. More significant than the number, however, is the proportion of organizations reporting debt on their church property. While for all denominations in 1916, 21.7 per cent of the organizations reporting value of church property also reported debt, the proportion of the latter varied greatly with the different denominations. Considering only the larger denominations, the organizations reporting debt on church property constituted a large proportion of all organizations reporting value in each of the following cases: Jewish congregations, 69.5 per cent; Roman Catholic Church, 41.6 per cent; African Methodist Episcopal Church, 39.1 per cent; Lutheran General Council, 38.5 per cent; and Lutheran Synodical Conference, 34.2 per cent. For each of the following large denominations, however, the proportion of organizations reporting debt on their property was small: Southern Baptist Convention, 8.5 per cent; Methodist Episcopal Church, South, 11.2 per cent; Presbyterian Church in the United States, 13.9 per cent; United Brethren in Christ, 14.2 per cent; and the Protestant Episcopal Church, 19.8 per cent. For the smaller denominations, the proportion of the organizations reporting debt on their church property in 1916 varied from less than 1 per cent for the Friends (Hicksite) to 78.1 per cent for the Russian Orthodox Church.

Debt of more than $1,000,000 was reported in 1916 by each of 21 denominations; and of the total debt of $164,864,899 reported by all denominations, the Roman Catholic Church reported $68,590,159; the Methodist Episcopal Church, $16,615,195; the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, $7,504,138; the Northern Baptist Convention, $7,302,769; the Jewish congregations, $6,502,872; the Protestant Episcopal Church, $6,380,117; the Lutheran General Council, $4,530,425; and the Disciples of Christ, $4,160,239. These 8 denominations together reported a debt of $121,585,914, which was 73.7 per cent of the total debt reported by all denominations; while the debt of the Roman Catholic Church alone constituted 41.6 per cent of the entire total.

With a church organization, as with a corporation or an individual, the total amount of debt considered alone shows little beyond the fact that an obligation of a certain size has been contracted. It is no index of the actual financial or economic condition of the debtor. To be really significant, debt on property must be considered in relation to the value of the property, or in relation to the number of persons who may properly be held responsible for the payment of the debt. Thus, the debt reported on all church property in 1916—$164,864,899—is large in total amount only. It represents, as the table shows, but 9.8 per cent of the value of all church property reported; and it represents an indebtedness of but $3.93 per capita for the 41,926,854 church members reported in 1916. The rate, therefore, is low, especially as compared with the present-day rate of indebtedness on property in general. Likewise, the debt of $68,590,159, reported by the Roman Catholic Church, is exceptionally large in amount only. It is equivalent to but 18.3 per cent of the total value of its church property reported, not a large proportion as compared with many of the denominations; and it amounts to but $4.36 per capita of the members reported.

In this connection it may be said that in a large number of cases this indebtedness represents advances by denominational societies, established for the purpose of church extension, to local organizations financially unable to meet the cost of erecting a church edifice. These loans are held at a low rate of interest, or without interest, the church being expected, as it becomes stronger, to reimburse the society.

While for all denominations, the amount of debt reported in 1916 represents 9.8 per cent of the total value of church property reported, the percentage varies greatly for the different denominations. The proportion is over 20 per cent for 10 denominations and is under 5 per cent for 24 denominations. The highest proportion, 45.9 per cent, is shown for the Russian Orthodox Church, and then in order come the Salvation Army, with 42.1 per cent, and the Volunteers of America, with 41.2 per cent. As a rule the Baptist, the Friends, the Mennonite, the Methodist, and the Presbyterian bodies show a low rate of indebtedness; and a rate of less than 1 per cent of the value of the church property reported is shown for 3 of these denominations—United Baptists, Primitive Baptists, and Friends (Hicksite). Of the denominations reporting high values of church property in 1916, the following show also high percentages of indebtedness: Jewish congregations, 21 per cent; Roman Catholic Church, 18.3 per cent; Lutheran General Council, 14.1 per cent; Lutheran Synodical Conference, 12.6 per cent; and German Evangelical Synod of North America, 11.4 per cent.

The total debt reported on church property in 1916 was larger, both in amount and as related to the value of church property reported, than in 1906. Thus, the total debt reported by all denominations in 1906 was $108,050,946, as compared with the total debt of $164,864,899 reported in 1916, making an increase for the decade of $56,813,953, or 52.6 per cent. In 1906 the total debt was equivalent to 8.6 per cent of the total value of church property reported, while in 1916 the total debt was equivalent to 9.8 per cent of the total value of church property reported. The increase shown in the total amount of debt and in its proportion of the value was general throughout the denominations presented in the table.

Thus, from 1906 to 1916, the increase in the amount of indebtedness was $19,102,104, or 38.6 per cent, for the Roman Catholic Church; $7,974,922, or 92.3 per cent, for the Methodist Episcopal Church; $2,593,757, or 206.5 per cent, for the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. Likewise, the increase was $2,387,239, or 46.7 per cent, for the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America; $2,367,626, or 132.1 per cent, for the Disciples of Christ; and $2,153,091, or 41.8 per cent, for the Northern Baptist Convention. A very large increase from 1906 to 1916 in the percentage which the debt constituted of the value of church property is shown by each of these smaller denominations: Armenian Church, from 10.5 per cent in 1906 to 22 per cent in 1916; Russian Orthodox Church, from 27.2 per cent in 1906 to 45.9 per cent in 1916; and Brethren, Plymouth, I to VI, from 13.2 per cent in 1906 to 29.8 per cent in 1916.

There were, however, exceptions to the increase in indebtedness. Eleven denominations show a decrease from 1906 to 1916 in the amount of debt reported, and for 21 denominations there was a decrease from 1906 to 1916 in the percentage of debt based on value of church property reported. A considerable decrease from 1906 to 1916 in the amount of debt reported is shown for the Salvation Army, $215,315, or 18.6 per cent. Three other denominations showed a decrease of over $100,000 in amount of debt, but in each case it was doubtless due to consolidations which took place during the decade. Two denominations showing a large decrease from 1906 to 1916 in the percentage which the debt constituted of the value of church property reported are the Serbian Orthodox Church, from 30.4 per cent in 1906 to 19.8 per cent in 1916, and the Polish National Catholic Church of America, from 43.9 per cent in 1906 to 33.9 per cent in 1916.

As stated above there was for all denominations an increase of $56,813,953, or 52.6 per cent, in the amount of debt reported on church property. While this increase appears to be very large, there was during the same period an increase of 33.3 per cent in the total value of church property reported (see Table 12, p. 45), and an increase of 19.6 per cent in total church membership (see Table 5, p. 29); therefore, while the increase in indebtedness was large, it was not exceptionally large as compared with the accompanying increase in value of church property and in membership. Likewise, with each separate denomination, the increase in indebtedness must be considered in relation to the accompanying increase in value of church property and in church membership to determine its significance.

If the total amount of debt reported be divided by the number of organizations reporting debt, it is shown that the average debt per organization was $3,835 in 1916, as compared with $3,214 in 1906. This is an increase in average debt from 1906 to 1916 of $621, or 19.3 per cent, for each organization reporting. During the same period, however, there was, for all organizations reporting, an increase per organization of $1,720, or 25.5 per cent, in the value of church property, and an increase of 18, or 10.8 per cent, in the average membership.

PARSONAGES.

Inquiry as to parsonages and their value was made for the first time in 1906. The value of parsonages and the number of organizations reporting them are given for 1916, by denominations in detail, in Table 60 (p. 142), while the value of the parsonages in 1916 and 1906 is shown, for each denomination in detail, in Table 67 (p. 526). The following table shows for 1916 and 1906, for each denomination having 10,000 members or more in 1916, first, the number and proportion of organizations reporting parsonages; second, the total value of the parsonages reported; third, the amount and the percentage of increase during the decade in the value of parsonages reported; and, fourth, the average value of parsonages per organization reporting.

[2] For changes in denominations, see pp. 530 and 531.

This table shows that the number of organizations reporting parsonages in 1916 was 65,272, or 28.7 per cent of the total number. The proportion of the organizations reporting parsonages, however, varies greatly with the different denominations. In each of 13 different denominations over 50 per cent of the organizations reported parsonages. The highest proportion of organizations reporting parsonages in 1916 is shown by the Christian Reformed Church—81.4 per cent. Then comes the Evangelical Protestant Church, with 75.7 per cent; the Reformed Church in America, with 73.8 per cent; and the Moravian Church (Unitas Fratrum), with 72.7 per cent. In a considerable number of the denominations the proportion of the organizations reporting parsonages was very small, being less than 5 per cent in 16 of the denominations shown in this table.

In this connection, it should be stated that there were no parsonages reported in 1916 for 69 out of the 202 denominations, as shown in Table 60 (p. 142). The denominations for which there were no reports as to parsonages are in general small and are mainly comprised in three classes: First, those having no regular ministry, as the Plymouth Brethren, three bodies of Friends, the Bahais, Theosophical societies, Vedantists, and others; second, those whose ministers are not set apart as a special class and receive no salaries, as in most of the Mennonite bodies, the Nonsectarian Churches of Bible Faith, several of the Evangelistic associations, and others; and third, those located chiefly in rural districts, and whose ministers are generally expected to supplement their salaries by other occupations, as several of the minor Baptist bodies, the Churches of the Living God, the Congregational Methodists, and some others.

The number of organizations reporting parsonages in 1906 was 54,214, or 25.5 per cent of the total number, as compared with 65,272, or 28.7 per cent of the total, in 1916. Thus, from 1906 to 1916, there was an increase of 11,058, or 20.4 per cent, in the total number of organizations reporting parsonages. Likewise with the different denominations, as a rule there was a considerable increase from 1906 to 1916 in the proportion of the organizations reporting parsonages. Passing over the large increases of small denominations with fewer than 100 organizations each reporting parsonages in 1916, the Churches of God, General Eldership, showed an increase from 15.3 in 1906 to 25.3 per cent in 1916; the Friends (Orthodox), from 16.6 in 1906 to 26 per cent in 1916; and the Swedish Mission Covenant, from 32.4 in 1906 to 41.4 per cent in 1916. The few large percentage decreases during the decade were reported by small denominations and appear to be exceptional cases due to special causes. Of the organizations of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church, 436, or 15.3 per cent, reported parsonages in 1906 as against 103, or 7.8 per cent, in 1916, the great decrease being due to many of the organizations having joined the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America. The decrease from 318 to 67 in the number of Free Baptist organizations reporting parsonages is explained by the fact, as stated elsewhere, that between 1906 and 1916 many of the organizations with their churches and parsonages united with the Northern Baptist Convention. This denomination, however, shows an increase in the proportion of organizations reporting parsonages, from 23.6 per cent in 1906 to 39.2 per cent in 1916. In the case of the Evangelical Protestant Church, with 28 organizations reporting parsonages in 1916 as against 47 in 1906, it appears that a number of organizations belonging to the constituent bodies failed to identify themselves with the consolidated body; the proportion of organizations reporting parsonages, however, increased from 71.2 per cent in 1906 to 75.7 per cent in 1916.

The total value of all parsonages reported was $218,846,096 in 1916, as compared with $143,495,853 in 1906, showing an increase for the decade of $75,350,243, or 52.5 per cent. For all except 7 of the denominations shown in the table as having reported parsonages both in 1906 and in 1916, there is also an increase in the value reported; and each of 18 denominations shows an increase of over 100 per cent. Most of the exceptionally high percentages of increase in total value are shown by denominations with only a few organizations reporting parsonages, but the Colored Methodist Episcopal Church, with 525 organizations reporting in 1916, shows an increase of $314,559, or 132.4 per cent; the Christian Reformed Church, with 184 organizations reporting in 1916, an increase of $328,845, or 113.3 per cent; and the Disciples of Christ, with 947 organizations reporting in 1916, an increase of $1,212,527, or 109.6 per cent. The number of organizations of the Russian Orthodox Church reporting parsonages increased from 25 in 1906 to 96 in 1916, and the value of the parsonages increased from $112,243 to $503,614, or 348.7 per cent. Marked increases in parsonage value are shown also by some of the denominations having 1,000 or more organizations reporting parsonages. The Southern Baptist Convention, with 1,820 organizations reporting parsonages in 1916, shows an increase in parsonage value from 1906 to 1916 of $1,978,592, or 79.4 per cent; the Roman Catholic Church, with 8,976 organizations reporting parsonages in 1916, an increase in parsonage value of $25,036,223, or 69 per cent; and the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, with 5,327 organizations reporting parsonages in 1916, an increase in parsonage value of $4,512,143, or 62.1 per cent. Similarly, the African Methodist Episcopal Church, with 1,867 organizations reporting parsonages in 1916, shows an increase from 1906 to 1916 of $770,306, or 61.4 per cent in parsonage value; the United Brethren in Christ, with 1,130 organizations reporting parsonages in 1916, shows an increase of $873,565, or 61.4 per cent; and the Lutheran Synodical Conference, with 2,220 organizations reporting parsonages in 1916, an increase of $2,171,812, or 60 per cent. The principal decreases from 1906 to 1916 in the value of parsonages reported are shown by the Free Baptists—$347,576, or 76.5 per cent—and by the Cumberland Presbyterians—$508,900, or 77.3 per cent. These decreases, together with the decrease of $15,850, or 8.5 per cent, shown for the Evangelical Protestant Church, are explained by the corresponding decreases in the number of organizations reporting parsonages, referred to in the preceding paragraph.

In 1916 each of 24 denominations reported parsonages valued at more than $1,000,000, and each of the 5 denominations following reported parsonages valued at over $10,000,000: Roman Catholic Church, $61,338,287; Methodist Episcopal Church, $34,751,557; Protestant Episcopal Church, $18,395,182; Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, $17,048,494; Methodist Episcopal Church, South, $11,777,753. Together these 5 denominations comprised almost two-thirds (65.5 per cent) of the total valuation reported by all denominations.

The Polish National Catholic Church of America shows, for 1916, the highest average value of parsonages per organization reporting—$8,341. Then, in order, come the Roman Catholic Church, with $6,834; the Unitarians, with $6,356; and the Evangelical Protestant Church, with $6,082. In contrast with these very high average values, however, many of the denominations show quite low average values in 1916. Thus, for example, in the Baptist bodies and in the Methodist bodies shown in the table each denomination shows an average value of parsonages per organization reporting which is below the average of $3,353 reported for all denominations. Other important denominations showing a very low average value of parsonages per organization reporting in 1916 are:

United Brethren in Christ (Old Constitution), $1,380; Cumberland Presbyterian Church, $1,451; and Friends (Orthodox), $1,556.

The comparatively low average value of parsonages per organization reporting shown for the Baptist and Methodist denominations, the United Brethren in Christ (Old Constitution), and the Cumberland Presbyterian Church is explained by the fact that in each of these denominations a large proportion of the organizations reporting parsonages are in small towns or country districts. On the other hand, the very high average value of parsonages shown for some of the other denominations is explained primarily by the fact that a large proportion of their organizations reporting parsonages are in cities or large towns.

There was an increase from 1906 to 1916 of $706, or 26.7 per cent, in the average value of parsonages for all denominations. This increased average valuation of parsonages per organization reporting in 1916 as compared with 1906 may represent, first, a better average type of parsonage in 1916 than in 1906, or, second, a higher average cost of construction, or, third, a higher average valuation reported by the church officials, or, what is most likely, it may represent a combination of these factors. In the Roman Catholic and Eastern Orthodox Churches the parsonage is frequently the residence of a number of priests, or is in some cases connected with the parish house.

The increase from 1906 to 1916 in the average value of parsonages per organization reporting was especially large for each of the following denominations: Polish National Catholic Church, $3,055; Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, $2,443; Spiritualists (National Association), $2,408; and Independent churches, $2,219. None of these denominations is large, however, and the Spiritualists and the Independent churches show a decrease from 1906 to 1916 in the number of organizations reporting parsonages. A large decrease from 1906 to 1916 in the average value of parsonages per organization reporting is shown by each of 4 denominations: Pentecostal Church of the Nazarene, $1,901; Salvation Army, $1,642; Jewish congregations, $1,575; and Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, $428.

CHURCH EXPENDITURES.

This report on religious bodies presents for the first time statistics showing the cost of conducting local church organizations. The statistics are based upon answers to an inquiry calling for the total expenditures of each local organization during the year 1916, classified as follows: (1) Running expenses, including all local salaries, rent, fuel, light, janitor service, etc.; (2) repairs or improvements, including payments on church debts; (3) benevolences, including gifts for missions (city, home or foreign), ministerial relief, charity, etc.; (4) all other expenses, including payments toward general denominational expenses, as the expenses of offices, meetings, the salaries of bishops, secretaries, etc., and any miscellaneous payments that passed through the hands of the church treasurer.

The answers received showed some divergence in the interpretation of the above questions, but in the main they seemed to indicate with reasonable accuracy the scope and distribution of the expenditures of the local church organizations. It should be explained that the amounts reported here under "benevolences" are in no sense comparable with the amounts contributed to missionary, educational, or philanthropic work, presented in the section on "Work of Denominations in Domestic and Foreign Fields." The latter represents the total contributions of the denominations for such purposes, whether made by church organizations, by individuals, or through specially organized societies; while the item "benevolences" in this section simply unites all the amounts given by the local church for benevolent purposes, irrespective of their distribution.

Church expenditures are given for 1916, by denominations in detail, in Table 60 (p. 142). The following table shows, for each denomination having 10,000 members or more in 1916, the total number of organizations, the number of organizations reporting expenditures, the total amount expended, and the average amount expended per organization reporting. As some organizations reported only the total amount of expenditures without giving the distribution, the table also shows the number of organizations making such report in detail, the total amount so reported, and its distribution under the various items of expense.

Of the 227,487 local church organizations in the United States in 1916, report concerning their church expenditures for the year was made by 203,859, or 89.6 per cent. The proportion of the organizations reporting their expenditures, however, varied greatly with the different denominations. In each of 18 of the denominations shown in the table, at least 98 per cent of the organizations reported their expenditures; and in 4 of these denominations expenditures were reported by all the organizations. On the other hand, in 4 denominations less than one-half the organizations reported expenditures. In most of the denominations, however, the proportion of organizations that failed to report expenditures was probably not great enough materially to affect the average amount of expenditures per organization.

The total expenditures reported for all denominations in 1916 amounted to $328,809,999. Of the denominations presented in the table, 33 show expenditures of $1,000,000 or more each, and 8 of these show $10,000,000 or more. The Roman Catholic Church reported the largest amount of expenditures, $72,358,136; the Methodist Episcopal Church, $43,993,681; the Presbyterian in the United States of America, $30,166,158; and the Protestant Episcopal, $22,509,942. Expenditures range from these large amounts to less than $12,000 each, reported by 2 small Baptist bodies, but for which the report covered not much more than one-fourth of the organizations. The only value of a statistical presentation of the total amount of church expenditures is to show the large sums of money expended by the denominations in support of religious organizations and their work, and the relative positions of the different denominations in regard to these expenditures.

Table 16 shows that of the 203,859 organizations reporting expenditures, 196,988 organizations, or 96.6 per cent, reported their expenditures in detail, and that such expenditures constituted 96 per cent of all expenditures reported. Expenditures reported in detail amounted to $315,523,206 and were distributed as follows: Running expenses, $168,425,225, or 53.4 per cent of the total; repairs or improvements, $74,986,159, or 23.8 per cent; benevolences, $47,473,981, or 15 per cent; and all other expenses, $24,637,841, or 7.8 per cent. It is apparent from the table, however, that the distribution of expenditures varied greatly with the different denominations. Thus, for all denominations, 15 per cent of the expenditures were for benevolences, but the percentage was 53 for the Seventh-day Adventist Denomination and only 6.1 for the Roman Catholic Church. Similarly, for all denominations, 23.8 per cent of the expenditures were for repairs or improvements, but the percentage fell below 10 for some of the denominations. There was, however, as the table shows, less variation among denominations in the proportion which running expenses constituted of the total expenditures.

The average amount of expenditures per organization reporting in 1916 was for all organizations $1,613, but the average varied greatly with the different denominations. The highest average per organization—$5,330—is shown by the Evangelical Protestant Church; for the Roman Catholic Church the average was $5,273; for the Polish National Catholic Church of America, $4,682; and for the Unitarians, $4,026. The lowest average per organization—$70—is reported by the United Baptists, and the next lowest by the Regular Baptists—$83. In contrast with the very low averages shown by these two Baptist bodies, the Northern Baptist Convention shows an average per organization of $2,049. Likewise, of the Methodist bodies shown in the table, the average amount expended per organization reporting varied from $524 for the African Methodist Episcopal Church to $1,528 for the Methodist Episcopal Church. In the Presbyterian bodies, the Colored Cumberland Presbyterian Church shows an average per organization of only $311, as against an average of $3,330 for the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America.

For many purposes, a statement of the average amount of expenditures per organization reporting is not entirely satisfactory, since the local organization is not a very good unit of measurement. Neither the need for expenditures nor the ability to contribute is the same in each organization, but, to a considerable extent, must vary directly as the membership. Therefore, the average amount of expenditures per member should be quite significant. This can not be precisely determined for the denominations which did not make a full report of both membership and expenditures. For a considerable number of the denominations shown in Table 16, however, both membership and expenditures were reported by a very large proportion of the organizations, and it is safe to assume for these denominations that the organizations which did not report membership, and those which did not report expenditures, were average organizations in these respects. On this assumption, the number of members and the amount of expenditures were raised to 100 per cent and the average expenditure per member computed therefrom. The results of these computations, in comparison with the average expenditure per organization reporting, are shown in Table 17, covering 51 separate denominations, in each of which substantially 90 per cent of the organizations made report concerning amount of expenditures. In this table the denominations are arranged in the order of their rank in average expenditure per member.

The table shows that of the 51 denominations represented only 4 had the same rank both in approximate average expenditure per member and average amount per organization. These 4 denominations are the Christian Reformed Church, with a rank of 6; the Northern Baptist Convention, with a rank of 12; the African Methodist Episcopal Zion, with a rank of 42; and the Colored Free Will Baptists, with a rank of 51. For 26 denominations there was a variation in rank of from 1 to 5, and for 6 denominations a variation of from 6 to 10, but for the remaining 15 denominations there was a much wider variation in rank. In the case of the Russian Orthodox Church, one of the denominations which includes all baptized persons as members (see p. 28), the wide variation was due to the very large number of members per organization, making a small average expenditure per member. This is also true of the Roman Catholic Church, which is omitted from the table on account of the large percentage of organizations making no report of expenditures. A similar computation for this denomination shows an approximate average expenditure per member of $5.83 and an average expenditure per organization of $5,271.

So far as can be determined from the table, there appears to be no uniformity among denominations as to the average amount of expenditures per member. Among the denominations shown, the average varied from $22.16 for the members of the Protestant Episcopal Church to $2.76 for the members of the Colored Free Will Baptist Church. Of these two denominations, the former reported more than half of its members living in cities of 25,000 or over, while the latter reported no members living in such cities. As a general statement, it may be said that most of the denominations which show a low average amount of expenditures per member have a large proportion of their membership in small cities or rural districts, but the reverse is not true in all cases that a high average expenditure per member is only shown by denominations having the greater proportion of members in large cities.

SUNDAY SCHOOLS.

The statistics of Sunday schools, as given in this report, relate both to denominational schools, as derived from the schedules returned by the local church organizations, and to undenominational or union Sunday schools, as supplied by the International Sunday School Association. Inquiries concerning Sunday schools were also made at the census of 1906, so that it is possible in this report to present comparative statistics for the two censuses.

DENOMINATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOLS.

Statistics for denominational Sunday schools for 1916 are given in Table 60 (p. 142), and comparative figures for 1906 are presented in Table 67 (p. 526). The following table shows, for 1916 and 1906, for each denomination reporting 10,000 members or more in 1916, the number and per cent of organizations reporting Sunday schools; the number of schools reported; the number of officers and teachers; and the number of scholars with their increase during the decade.

According to Table 18, the total number of organizations reporting Sunday schools in 1916 was 186,183; the number of Sunday schools reported was 194,759; the number of officers and teachers, 1,952,631; and the number of scholars, 19,935,890. Compared with 1906, the table shows that the percentage of organizations reporting Sunday schools rose from 79 to 81.8 and that there was an increase of 35.7 per cent in the number of scholars reported. There was also an increase during the decade in the number of schools and of officers and teachers, the percentages of increase being 9.3 and 18.4, respectively.

The number of organizations reporting Sunday schools increased from 167,574 to 186,183, or 11.1 per cent, which may be contrasted with the gain of 7.2 per cent in the number of church organizations as a whole, showing that the extension of Sunday schools has been proportionately greater than that of church organizations. This extension of Sunday school work is further indicated by contrasting the percentage of increase in the number of scholars, 35.7, with that in number of church members, 19.6. The increase may be in part explained by the increasing custom of including adult classes, and by the formation of a home department for those unable to attend the regular services, but it also indicates that churches are extending their work with respect to Sunday schools.

In comparing these statistics for the different denominations, it must be borne in mind that they relate entirely to what is known as the Sunday school, and do not cover parochial or other institutions which supplement, or sometimes take the place of, the Sunday school. Thus, it will be noted that the percentage of Sunday schools in the larger Baptist, Methodist, and Presbyterian bodies, the Protestant Episcopal Church, and kindred bodies is high, as compared with the Roman Catholic Church, many of the Lutheran synods, and the Jewish congregations, where the purpose of the Sunday school is met to a considerable degree by a different type of school—in the Roman Catholic Church and the Lutheran bodies by parochial schools, and in the Jewish congregations by various forms of religious schools, or what are known as Talmud Torah schools. It does not follow, therefore, that the actual measure of religious instruction to children is indicated distinctively by the percentage of organizations reporting Sunday schools. The parochial schools of the Roman Catholic Church and of some Lutheran churches, while conducted during the week, give religious as well as secular education, and, as has been stated, to a considerable extent take the place of Sunday schools.

The denominations in which 95 per cent or more of their organizations reported Sunday schools were the United Presbyterian Church, 98.5 per cent; the Colored Cumberland Presbyterian Church, 97.8 per cent; the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, 97.6 per cent; Reformed Church in America, 97.5 per cent; Colored Methodist Episcopal Church, 96.9 per cent; Associate Reformed Presbyterian Church, 96.2 per cent; Lutheran General Synod, 95.7 per cent.

The denominations reporting over 1,000,000 scholars were the Methodist Episcopal Church, 3,872,264; Roman Catholic Church, 1,860,836; Methodist Episcopal Church, South, 1,688,559; Southern Baptist Convention, 1,665,996; Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, 1,381,682; National Baptist Convention (Negro), 1,181,270; Northern Baptist Convention, 1,028,952.

Among the bodies that supplement the Sunday school with parochial or other schools, it is noticeable that in the Roman Catholic Church Sunday schools were reported by 67.2 per cent of the organizations; in the Jewish congregations by 32.4 per cent; and in the Synod for the Norwegian Lutheran Church by 43.5 per cent. In the Russian Orthodox Church, 116 organizations, representing 68.6 per cent of the total, reported 126 Sunday schools, with 150 officers and teachers and 6,739 scholars, which would indicate that in many cases the school was really a Sunday class led by a single priest. The situation was similar in the Greek and other Eastern Churches.

Of the denominations included in the table, only a few showed a decrease in Sunday school statistics. The decrease in the Free Baptists, the Evangelical Protestant Church, and the Cumberland Presbyterian Church was due in each case to partial consolidation of denominations, as explained in preceding sections of this report.

Table 19 gives, for 1916 and 1906, statistics of Sunday schools, by geographic divisions and states, with the increase in the number of scholars during the decade.

[1] A minus sign (−) denotes decrease.

Of the geographic divisions, the South Atlantic reported for 1916 the largest number of schools, and the Middle Atlantic the largest number of scholars. Among the states, Pennsylvania reported for 1916 the largest number of Sunday schools (12,720), officers and teachers (195,158), and scholars (2,253,418). Other states that reported over 1,000,000 scholars were Ohio, 1,330,312; New York, 1,296,956; and Illinois, 1,083,048.

Only one state—Vermont—showed a decrease since 1906 in number of scholars, although, besides Vermont, seven states belonging to the Middle Atlantic and North Central divisions showed a decrease in the number of schools—New York, Ohio, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, and Nebraska. The states reporting the highest percentage of increase in number of scholars were New Mexico, 125 per cent; Arizona, 106.3 per cent; Oklahoma, 80.2 per cent; Idaho, 77.4 per cent; and Montana, 76.4 per cent. In general, increases and decreases coincide with the development of church extension or the consolidation for greater efficiency, noted elsewhere in connection with church organizations and membership, the greater extension being in the West and South and the greater consolidation being in the North and East.

UNDENOMINATIONAL OR UNION SUNDAY SCHOOLS.

Undenominational or union Sunday schools are organized mostly in pioneer or evangelistic extension work in communities removed from the reach of organized church work, either in rural districts or on the outlying borders of large cities. Under the head of "undenominational schools" are grouped those schools independent of any denominational relations. Sometimes these schools are the result of local movements, but usually they are under the auspices of special societies, as the American Sunday School Union, or the International Sunday School Association, the former working chiefly in the Eastern states, the latter in the West but extending its work into Canada and the dependencies of the United States. Union Sunday schools are generally composed of representatives of different denominations, no one of which is strong enough in membership to establish an organization of its own. Both undenominational and union Sunday schools trend toward the establishment of churches, which often affiliate with one or another denomination according to circumstances, but sometimes become independent or union churches.

Through a system of county organization, the International Sunday School Association has been able throughout the country to keep in touch with Sunday schools that are not identified with local church organizations, and in 1916, as in 1906, this Association furnished to the Bureau of the Census for the report on religious bodies the most complete statistics for those schools that could be gathered.

The following table presents, for 1916 and 1906, the statistics for these schools, together with the increase or decrease in scholars during the decade, by states and geographic divisions:

[1] A minus sign (−) denotes decrease.

The total number of schools of this class reported for 1916 was 12,535; the number of officers and teachers, 89,952; and the number of scholars, 621,670. These figures, when compared with 1906, show a loss in each item. An examination of the table shows that the loss in number of scholars extended over half the states (24 out of 48) and the District of Columbia, and the loss in number of schools, which is probably more significant, extended over 29 states and the District of Columbia.

Considered geographically, the greatest losses occurred in the East North Central division, where every state lost both in number of schools and of scholars; in the West North Central division, where this was true in all but two states; and in the West South Central division, where every state lost in number of schools, and all but Louisiana in the number of scholars. These three divisions, with New England, showed a loss in number of schools and scholars, and three other geographic divisions showed a loss in number of schools, the Mountain and Pacific divisions being the only two that showed an increase in both schools and scholars.

Although the principal increases are shown in the western sections of the country, it is to be noted that Pennsylvania, in spite of a decrease in the number of schools, showed an increase of over 8,000 in number of scholars—the highest numerical increase in any state—due, no doubt, largely to the work of the American Sunday School Union in the rural and mining districts. High percentages of increase in number of scholars are shown in New Mexico and Arizona—365 and 280, respectively—and in Alabama—125.3.

In general, it appears from the table that, as sections of the country are more thoroughly reached by the denominational agencies and the need of pioneer work is less manifest, the number and strength of the undenominational and union schools lessen, but it does not follow that the Sunday school work itself grows weaker. This is shown by the review of the general Sunday school extension, including both classes of schools, which follows.

ALL SUNDAY SCHOOLS.

The following table gives, for 1916 and 1906, statistics for all Sunday schools, including both the denominational and undenominational or union schools, by geographic divisions and states:

From this table it appears that the total number of Sunday schools reported in 1916 was 207,294, of officers and teachers, 2,042,583, and of scholars, 20,557,560. These figures represent, as compared with those for 1906, an increase of 14,572, or 7.6 per cent, in number of schools; 296,509, or 17 per cent, in number of officers and teachers; and 5,219,749, or 34 per cent, in number of scholars. Each geographic division and each state showed an increase in the number of scholars, though three divisions—the New England and the East and West North Central—and a number of states showed a decrease in the number of schools reported. It appears that any loss in the number of scholars in one class is made up by an increase in the other. Thus, the East North Central division, which showed a loss of 30,531 in number of scholars in the undenominational or union Sunday schools, had a gain of 1,053,586 in the denominational schools, making a net gain of 1,023,055 for all Sunday schools. Vermont, the only state that showed a loss (168) in number of scholars in the denominational Sunday schools, reported a gain (530) in the number in undenominational schools; while all states that reported a decrease in number of scholars in the undenominational and union schools reported a gain in the denominational schools.

The opposite table shows, for 1916 and 1906, the per cent of all Sunday schools, and of each class of Sunday schools comprised within each geographic division, and, also, the per cent of all Sunday schools in each geographic division represented by denominational and undenominational schools.

This table shows that the proportion of the total number of Sunday schools was less in most of the eastern divisions in 1916 than in 1906, but was greater in the South and West, following closely the development of church organizations in the more settled sections and in those where pioneer work is still being carried on. Thus, the proportion of all Sunday schools in New England fell from 4.4 in 1906 to 4 in 1916, and in the Middle Atlantic division from 13.3 to 12.6; while in the South Atlantic division it rose from 19.4 to 20.4, in the Mountain division from 2.2 to 3, and in the Pacific division from 3.1 to 3.8. This was also true in general of the denominational Sunday schools, but in regard to the undenominational or union schools the trend was still more marked, showing a decided decrease in the New England and East and West North Central divisions, and an increase in the South Atlantic, Mountain, and Pacific divisions. In the Middle Atlantic division, the increase in the proportion of undenominational and union schools may be explained by the extension work carried on in Pennsylvania by the American Sunday School Union of Philadelphia.

In general, the Sunday schools of the United States in this development appear to follow the same general lines as the organized churches, and to be emphasizing effectiveness rather than extension, any decrease in either class indicating a change of relations rather than a lessening of activities.

MINISTERS.

The statistics of ministers, as given in this report, cover not only a statement of the total number of ministers connected with each denomination, derived from denominational sources, but also a classification of ministers according to their relation to church work and a statement of the salaries received by them for strictly church work, derived from individual returns.

NUMBER OF MINISTERS.

The number of ministers reported as on the rolls of the various denominations was obtained from denominational yearbooks and minutes, from lists furnished by denominational officials, or by special agents commissioned by the Bureau of the Census, and from persons acquainted with the conditions in bodies which publish no yearbooks or are loosely organized. The total number of ministers thus reported in 1916 is compared with similar figures for 1906 and 1890 in Table 23. In this table each denomination is credited with the number of ministers claimed by itself, irrespective of any difference in the interpretation of the term "minister." In general, those persons are included who are duly authorized to administer the sacraments and to perform all the usual functions of the ministry, whether or not in actual service as pastors of churches; or those who are regularly set apart or are duly authorized to perform the functions of leadership in religious services or in church life. In most Christian bodies the number is limited, as in 1906, to those fully ordained, but in a few bodies licentiates, or elders, evidently performing full ministerial functions, were accepted. In many cases the number includes evangelists, not identified with any local church; in Jewish congregations it frequently, though apparently not always, includes cantors and readers as well as rabbis; in the Society for Ethical Culture it includes those selected as leaders and authorized to perform the marriage ceremony; in the Salvation Army, Volunteers of America, and American Rescue Workers, it includes all commissioned officers, irrespective of the particular service to which they are detailed. The Churches of Christ have elders but refuse to recognize the title "Minister" or to use the prefix "Reverend." No ministers at all were reported for the following 16 bodies: Bahais, Christadelphians, Communistic societies (2 bodies), Hicksite Friends, Primitive Friends, Plymouth Brethren (6 bodies), and Theosophical societies (4 bodies).

In using the figures contained in this table, it is to be remembered that in many cases the numbers given are estimates. There is some divergence, as already noted, as to the persons to be included, and reports for successive periods are not infrequently made up on different bases. The figures, therefore, must not be taken as strictly accurate, though they may be regarded as sufficiently comparable for general purposes. The decrease in the number reported for the Disciples of Christ is due chiefly to more careful reporting and to a clearer distinction drawn between that body and two others with which it is frequently confused—the Christian Church (American Christian Convention) and the Churches of Christ. In the Cumberland Presbyterian Church the decrease is explained by the union of a large portion of that body with the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America; in the two Primitive Baptist bodies there has been considerable disintegration and loss both of ministers and churches; in the Methodist Protestant Church, the Salvation Army, and the Jewish congregations, there appears to have been a change in method of reporting, the number in 1916 being on a more restricted basis. In the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, on the other hand, the figures for 1916 are so much larger than those for 1906 that they appear to be on a broader basis than those for previous reports. The Pentecostal Church of the Nazarene included in its ministerial list a large number of evangelists.

Among the separate denominations, the Roman Catholic Church showed the largest number of ministers, 20,287, the National Baptist Convention (Negro), the next largest, 19,423, and the Methodist Episcopal Church, 18,642. The Southern Baptist Convention reported 15,946 ministers and the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, 9,299.

CLASSIFICATION OF MINISTERS.

The statistics showing the classification of ministers, and their salaries, were derived from schedules received from individual ministers. These schedules were sent to every minister whose name and address could be secured, and, in addition to the name and denominational connection of the minister, called for the following items: Location, including post office address; name and location of church or churches at that time being served by him; his ecclesiastical status, whether pastor, associate or assistant pastor, supply, emeritus, retired, etc.; the total salary received during the past year for church service; if in other than pastoral or preaching service, his present occupation and position; date of ordination; date of entrance on present pastorate; age at last birthday; whether graduate of college or theological school.

The number of schedules received from ministers in response to the inquiries sent out fell very far short of the number of ministers reported as on the rolls of the denominations. For this there were several reasons. Some of the denominations failed to give the addresses of all ministers included on their rolls. This was especially true of such denominations as the National Baptist Convention, several of the Evangelistic associations, the Negro Methodist bodies, the National Spiritualists' Association, and others. In such cases the bureau was unable to communicate with some of the ministers. Even in denominations where the lists were regarded as complete, as the Congregational, Methodist, Presbyterian, Protestant Episcopal, Roman Catholic, and others, changes were constantly taking place, by death or removal, so that the schedules failed to reach the ministers. In other cases the minister's schedule was confused with the church schedule, and in a certain percentage of cases through sickness, forgetfulness, or other cause, no reply was made.

Of the 191,796 ministers reported as on the rolls, schedules were received from 100,793, or 52.6 per cent. A review of the returns from the different classes of denominations shows that of the ministers reported for the larger bodies, about 70 per cent sent schedules, although for two—the Southern Baptist Convention and the Disciples of Christ—only about 30 per cent reported. Of the Negro Baptist ministers only 6.5 per cent reported, and of the Negro Methodists about 26 per cent.

In classifying the returns so as to show the relation of ministers to the different departments of church work, it appeared that of 100,793 schedules received, 95,702 gave fairly complete detail and were thus available for tabulation, while 5,091 furnished little more than the name and denomination of the minister, and, therefore, could not be included in the presentation.

Table 24 shows for each denomination represented the number of ministers from whom schedules were received available for tabulation, and the classification of such ministers according to their relation to church work, which may be described as follows: First, ministers who as pastors give their full time to the work of the church and depend for their full support upon the salary received; second, ministers who are pastors of churches but report some supplementary occupation; third, ministers of various grades, as supplies, evangelists, assistants, etc.; and fourth, those engaged in some other form of church work not distinctively identified with the pastoral office, and whose salaries are provided in different ways.

Among the denominations not included in the above table are the 2 bodies of Latter Day Saints, with 5,990 enrolled ministers; 14 Mennonite bodies, with 1,109 ministers; the National Spiritualists' Association; also several minor bodies. Schedules were received for most of these but they were so incomplete or evidently on such essentially different bases that they could not be tabulated.

Of the 95,702 ministers whose schedules admitted of this classification, it appeared that 80,435 were in pastoral work and 15,267 not in pastoral work. Of those in pastoral work, 64,899 were engaged in pastoral work only, that is, they gave their entire time to that work, and were in continuous service in charge of one or more churches, 6,735 combined with their pastoral work some other occupation, while 8,801 acted as supplies, more or less temporary, assistant pastors, etc.

Of the 15,267 not in pastoral work, 1,862 were engaged in denominational work, held some ecclesiastical office, or were secretaries of benevolent societies, etc.; 3,000 were in educational or editorial work; 2,165 in evangelistic or philanthropic work; 6,702 had retired from active service; and 1,538 were in other (nonministerial) occupations.

The line of demarcation between these classes was not always clear. Not infrequently the pastor of a church was also professor in, or even president of, an educational institution, in which case preference was given, usually, to what seemed under the general conditions to be the more important work of the minister reporting. It was not always easy to classify those reporting as supplies or assistants; thus, in the Presbyterian bodies a Stated Supply, from the viewpoint of the census investigation, is practically engaged in pastoral work only, as is also an associate pastor, where there is a pastor emeritus, or where two or more are associated together. In the Methodist Episcopal Church ministers "on trial," if in charge of churches and with full salaries were reported in pastoral work only. Student pastors, men in charge of churches but continuing studies in theological seminaries, were classed, as seemed to be indicated by the general tenor of the schedule, usually as supplies.

In considering these figures, it should be noted that those denominations that report a low per cent in pastoral work only generally report a considerable number of assistant pastors or those with other occupations. Thus, of the Roman Catholic ministers, 3,539 were assistants; in the Southern Baptist Convention, 1,496 reported other occupations, supplementing their support from the church. The Baptist, Congregational, and Presbyterian ministers not in pastoral work are very generally connected with educational institutions, benevolent societies, or public organizations. In the bodies with Episcopal organization, the bishops are included under the head of "not in pastoral work."

The denominations whose ministers are specially prominent in educational work, as shown by the table, include: Roman Catholic Church, 1,346; Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, 254; Methodist Episcopal Church, 234; Congregational Churches, 197; Methodist Episcopal Church, South, 121; Northern Baptist Convention, 121; Protestant Episcopal Church, 116.

The denominations showing the largest number of ministers engaged in evangelistic and philanthropic work are: Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, 296; Methodist Episcopal Church, 213; Roman Catholic Church, 195; Southern Baptist Convention, 170; Northern Baptist Convention, 144; Congregational Churches, 135; Pentecostal Holiness Church, 110.

Under the head of "retired" are included all ministers who have withdrawn from active service, designated as "superannuated" in the Methodist Episcopal churches and as "retired" in the Baptist and Presbyterian bodies, the Congregational Churches, and the Protestant Episcopal Church. The denominations reporting over 100 ministers under this head were: Methodist Episcopal Church, 1,774; Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, 659; Congregational Churches, 612; Northern Baptist Convention, 503; Southern Baptist Convention, 385; Protestant Episcopal Church, 294; Methodist Episcopal Church, South, 282; Roman Catholic Church, 186; Church of the Brethren (Conservative), 142; United Brethren in Christ, 129; Evangelical Association, 107; Friends (Orthodox), 105; Lutheran General Synod, 103.

Examination was made of the occupational returns of ministers, both for those engaged in pastoral work, as shown in column 5, and for those not in pastoral work, as shown in column 12. A classification of the occupations for the latter class was found to be impossible, as the returns were incomplete and the occupations were of great variety.

The occupational returns from pastors who were engaged in other occupations to supplement their income, or who rendered other than pastoral service apparently irrespective of additional income (column 5), had some uniformity, so a partial tabulation was made and the results are presented in Table 25, page 71. The table covers about two-thirds (4,015 out of 6,735) of the entire number of ministers of this class, and the figures for the few bodies selected are probably fairly illustrative of the general situation.

It is to be noted that the denominations included in this table are those with a large rural membership. Several other bodies, such as the National Baptist Convention, the Free Will Baptists, and others might well be included, but their returns were too incomplete for tabulation.

As was to be expected, rural pastors reported to a very considerable degree rural occupations, and of these farming took the lead, being returned by 2,368 ministers, or more than half the number reporting. Most of the 200 laborers reported are probably farm laborers as, it will be noted, more than three-fourths of them were reported by the 3 Negro Methodist bodies which are largely in rural communities. Those engaged in some form of teaching were 396 in number, while similar in type were the 130 who reported some form of professional occupation. There were 245 mechanics, 116 holding some official position in trade, manufacturing, etc., and 165 clerks, salesmen, etc. Under the head of "all other" were grouped a great variety of occupations.

Grouping the various occupations shown, there would be 2,568 distinctly rural workers; 526 identified with some form of business or trade; and 526 engaged in occupations of a professional nature. It may be noted that of the 396 reporting some form of teaching 134 belonged to the 3 Negro Methodist bodies included.

The relation between the number of pastors who give their full time to pastoral work, other pastors, and those who, though retaining their ministerial standing, are not directly engaged in pastoral duties is illustrated in the preceding table, which gives the number and per cent distribution of the 3 classes for those denominations reporting 500 or more ministers in pastoral work only.

SALARIES OF MINISTERS.

Among the questions included on the schedules sent to each minister was one calling for the "total amount of salary received during the past year for church service." Practically all the schedules received included some answer to this question, so that it seemed possible to obtain more satisfactory results than were obtained in 1906, when the question was submitted not to the ministers but to the single churches.

As regards salaries the denominations may be classed under three heads: First, those in which the salary of a minister is recognized as an essential factor in his settlement as pastor of a church and is expected to cover his living expenses; second, denominations in which the giving of salaries is recognized as legitimate, but the amount received by the pastor from the church is regarded as an allowance or contribution to the work of the church rather than as a definite amount for a specified purpose, and bears no direct relation to his support; and third, denominations which do not recognize a salary for the minister as a legitimate part of the church's expenditures.

In the first class belong most, if not all, of the larger denominations; in the second class are included such bodies as the Seventh-day Adventist Denomination, most of the minor Baptist bodies, the German Baptist Brethren, the Christian and Missionary Alliance, and Evangelistic associations, some of the Mennonite bodies, and others; the third class includes the Plymouth Brethren, the Primitive Baptists generally, the Churches of Christ, the Hicksite Friends, and others. There are also some denominations in a transitional state from the second to the first class, as the Disciples of Christ and the Orthodox Friends, while some belong partly to the second and partly to the third class, as the Latter Day Saints.

In the Roman Catholic Church the rector is allowed a certain fixed sum, the amount being the same for each church in the diocese, whether large or small. All the contributions for church work pass through his hands, and he meets the running expenses of the church and retains for himself so much of this fixed amount as may be available. In a number of cases where the rectors were not secular priests but members of the orders, and as such under vows of poverty, this portion was turned into the treasury of the order, and no salary was reported, so that the number reporting salaries was considerably smaller than the number of those reported as in pastoral work only.

Collating the returns as received, it was decided to limit the presentation of salaries to the class of ministers who were engaged in pastoral work only—that is, those who give their full time to the church work and depend for their support upon the salary received. It seemed that this would give a fairer statement of the salary status in the various denominations than was shown by the statement in 1906, which included all the different grades of ministers.

Of the 202 denominations, there were 104 for which reports on salaries were received from 5 or more pastors, and these denominations comprised 213,540 organizations and 40,728,616 members. The following table shows for each of these 104 denominations the number of ministers engaged in pastoral work only, the number reporting full salary, the total amount reported, and the average salary per pastor. There is also given the average salary reported by the denomination in 1906.

That the 104 denominations included in the table represent the strength of the churches is evident from the fact that, aside from 3 denominations—the Latter Day Saints (2 bodies) and the Churches of Christ—comprising 7,100 organizations, with a membership of 780,266, and 2 bodies for which no statistics are available, the remaining 93 bodies reported only 6,846 organizations and 417,972 members, an average per denomination of 74 organizations and 4,494 members. It would thus appear that the deficiency in the report of salaries is not very significant.

This table shows that the total number of pastors reporting full salaries was 63,543, the total amount of salary received by them was $68,496,072, and the average salary in 1916 was $1,078, as against an average of $669 reported for all classes of ministers for the same denominations in 1906.

With regard to some of the bodies included, it is evident that the average salaries are too small to permit of a pastor's living on them, as in the case of several of the Baptist and Methodist bodies, located chiefly in the Southern states, yet the schedules gave no indication of other occupations, and the total number, with the amounts received, were not so large as seriously to affect the general average. The situation in the Roman Catholic Church has already been noted. In the Salvation Army salaries of commanding officers only were included, as they seemed to correspond most closely to the ministry in other bodies.

Those denominations reporting average salaries of over $1,000 in 1916 were as follows:

Unitarians	$2,080
General Convention of the New Jerusalem	1,700

This list shows that in only 31 of the 104 denominations with 5 or more ministers who reported salaries, was the average salary over $1,000, leaving 73 in which it was less than that amount. Specifically, the average salary for these 31 denominations was $1,278, while the average salary for the 73 denominations was $738. The pastors in these 31 denominations numbered 39,970, or 62.9 per cent of all the pastors reporting full salaries, while the lower average salary was reported by 23,573 pastors, or 37.1 per cent.

Five denominations reported average salaries of over $1,500 and 1 denomination an average of over $2,000. These high averages indicate that in single instances pastors receive even much larger salaries, some metropolitan pastors receiving as high as $5,000, $10,000, or $15,000 annually.

In this connection two movements are to be noted: The providing of parsonages and the establishment of retiring allowances or pensions. The increase in the number of churches reporting parsonages is noted elsewhere (see p. 53). The establishment of retiring pensions or allowances has received a considerable impetus during recent years. In the Methodist Episcopal Church the proceeds of the Book Concern, or Publication Department of the Church, are applied to the relief of superannuated ministers and of widows and orphans of ministers. Special funds have been and are being raised by this and by several other denominations, notably the Protestant Episcopal Church, the Congregational Churches, the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, and others.

LANGUAGES USED IN THE CONDUCT OF CHURCH SERVICES.

At the census of 1906, for the first time, an attempt was made to secure complete reports from the various denominations as to the languages used in the conduct of religious services, by asking each organization to report the language or languages used. This inquiry was retained in the schedule at the census of 1916, so that it is possible to present comparable statistics concerning organizations using English only, those using one or more foreign languages in addition to English, and those using foreign languages only.

The following table shows, for 1916 and 1906, respectively, the total number of organizations and members reported for each denomination, the total number reporting the use of one or more foreign languages alone or in addition to English, and the total number reporting the use of English only or not reporting as to language. The organizations making no report as to language are combined with those reporting English only, as they constitute a small percentage of the total number of organizations and, in nearly every case, belong to English speaking denominations. It is assumed, therefore, that those submitting the reports regarded it as superfluous to mention the language, possibly interpreting the question as applying only to those organizations using a foreign language in conducting services. Such are the Separate, United, and Primitive Baptists, the Negro Baptist and Negro Methodist bodies, etc.

[3] Corrected figures; see explanation on p. 29 for changes in the number of members for the Roman Catholic Church.
[4] No statistics available.

From this table it appears that of the 200[1] denominations represented, 132 reported a part or all of their organizations for 1916 as using a foreign language, and 68 reported the use of English only. While the number of denominations reported as using a foreign language in conducting services was almost twice the number of those using English only, it is to be noted that, within these denominations, the number of organizations using a foreign language was usually a small proportion of the whole number of organizations. Thus, for all denominations combined, only 26,239 organizations, or 11.5 per cent of the total, reported the use of a foreign language, and these comprised 11,329,487 members, or only 27 per cent of the membership of all denominations.

The denominations reporting a part or all of their organizations as using a foreign language may be divided into four classes: (1) Those in which the use of English is predominant, and in which the organizations reporting the use of a foreign language may be considered the result of evangelistic or mission work; (2) those which are also predominantly English speaking, but in which organizations using foreign languages are provided to meet the needs of immigrant communities naturally affiliated with the particular denomination; (3) those which are solely or very largely made up of the immigrant element, to which the use of English, whether in church services or in ordinary life, is as yet unfamiliar, and in which there are comparatively few English speaking organizations; and (4) those which report no organizations using English only.

Among the denominations of the first class are the Seventh-day Adventists, the Northern, Southern, and National Baptist Conventions, Congregational Churches, Methodist Episcopal Church, and the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America. The percentage of organizations in these denominations using a foreign language is naturally small. For the Seventh-day Adventists it is 10.9 per cent; for the Northern Baptist Convention, 8.7 per cent; for the Congregational Churches, 7.6 per cent; the Methodist Episcopal Church, 4.3 per cent; and the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, 4.5 per cent.

Among the denominations in the second class, in which special provision is made for affiliated non-English speaking immigrants, are the Evangelical Association, in which the percentage of organizations reporting foreign languages was 35.8, and the Roman Catholic Church, in which the percentage was 34.7. Two of the four Reformed bodies were in this class, the Reformed Church in America, with 36.9 per cent, and the Reformed Church in the United States, with 34.9; while the other two belong in the third and fourth classes, respectively, the Christian Reformed Church, reporting 89.8 per cent of its organizations using a foreign language, and the Hungarian Reformed Church, reporting all of its organizations using Magyar.

The leading bodies in the third class, largely made up of non-English speaking organizations, are the Jewish congregations, the German Evangelical Synod, and some of the Lutheran bodies. Of the Jewish congregations, those reporting the use of a foreign language are 80.9 per cent of the total, and in the German Evangelical Synod the organizations so reporting are 95.4 per cent of the total. Among the Lutheran bodies conditions vary. Of the larger bodies, the General Synod and the United Synod, South, are predominantly English, and the remainder predominantly foreign, in regard to the language used in church services.

In the fourth class, denominations reporting no organizations using English only, are included, among others, the Armenian Church, the Japanese Buddhists, four of the Eastern Orthodox Churches, the Evangelical Protestant Church, and several of the Mennonite bodies.

A comparison of the figures in the table for 1916 with those for 1906 shows, in general, no marked difference except such as is accounted for by the growth, or other change, in the various bodies. The percentages of organizations and members reporting the use of English only for the two years are very nearly the same, or 88.5 per cent of organizations and 73 of members in 1916, against 88.4 per cent of organizations and 73.4 of members in 1906. Of the denominations reporting in 1906 the use of English only, 9 have now joined the ranks of those in which a foreign language as well as English is used. These are the Bahais, Primitive Baptists, Old Order German Baptist Brethren, Plymouth Brethren I and II, Christadelphians, Apostolic Faith, International Apostolic Holiness Church, and Volunteers of America. The Evangelical Association, the United Evangelical Church, and the Lutheran Synod of Iowa—composed mainly of German speaking people—show a tendency, as seen by the table, toward the exclusive use of English in church services. Thus in the Evangelical Association the number of organizations reporting the use of English only for 1916 was 1,051, or 64.2 per cent of the total, against 843 organizations, or 47.9 per cent, in 1906. The number of organizations in the United Evangelical Church reporting English only in 1916 was 908, or 94.9 per cent, against 820, or 83.8 per cent, in 1906, while the number reported by the Synod of Iowa was 168, or 17.2 per cent, against 9 organizations, or 1.1 per cent, in 1906.

The following table shows, for each denomination reporting the use of foreign languages in 1916, the specified languages reported, and the number of organizations and members making such report, subdivided according to those using the specified foreign languages only or the specified foreign languages and English. It will be noted that the American Indian languages are classified as foreign.

In this table it is shown that, of the 26,239 organizations, with 11,329,487 members, which reported the use of a foreign language, 11,684 organizations with 4,756,231 members use the specified foreign language or languages only, while 14,555 organizations, with 6,573,256 members use English also. It thus appears that only 5.1 per cent of the total number of organizations in the United States, and only 11.3

per cent of the total number of members are reported as using foreign languages only in church services. This is a considerably smaller percentage than was shown for 1906, the figures for that year showing 7.9 per cent of the organizations and 15.9 per cent of the members using foreign languages only.

This reduction in the number of organizations using foreign languages only in conducting services is brought out very clearly in Table 30, which presents, for each denomination showing 25,000 or more members belonging to organizations using a foreign language in 1916, the number of organizations and members using foreign languages only and the number using both foreign languages and English. This table is drawn from Table 29 and gives, in addition, corresponding figures for 1906, and the increase or decrease between the two censuses.

[1] A minus sign (−) denotes decrease.

[2] In 1906, heads of families only.

Of the 25 denominations included in this presentation, all but 5 show a decrease in the number of organizations using a foreign language only, and all but 6 show a decrease in the membership of such organizations. It is to be noted that these exceptions are largely denominations which have come into existence in the United States to meet the needs of natives of those countries which have contributed the larger part of the immigration of recent years. With regard to the Armenian, Greek, Russian, and Polish organizations, it is to be remembered that the priests conducting services are practically all natives of those lands, have never had English education, and even if the congregation understood English the priests would not be able to conduct services in it. The same is true measurably of the Jewish congregations, especially those composed of more recently arrived immigrants.

In the Evangelical Association, established originally to provide services in German for Methodists who did not understand English, the number of organizations reporting only German dropped from 554 in 1906 to 180 in 1916, a loss of 374, while the number of organizations reporting a foreign language and English rose from 363 in 1906 to 402 in 1916, a gain of 39; it would appear probable that the balance between the loss and gain passed into the "English only" class.

The German Evangelical Synod of North America[1] reported 527 organizations using German only in 1916 against 952 in 1906, and 747 using German and English in 1916 against 236 in 1906. Of the Lutheran bodies which have been especially interested in providing foreign language services, the General Council has dropped from 984 to 525 in number of organizations using a foreign language only (chiefly Swedish or German); the Synodical Conference from 2,433 to 968 (almost entirely German); and the Synod of Iowa from 722 to 458 (all German). In each of these bodies there has been a corresponding increase in the number of organizations reporting a foreign language and English, and in each case a comparatively small balance of organizations that have passed into the class using English only, or have met new needs of immigration by the use of both languages. Another notable decrease is shown by the Methodist Episcopal Church.

The average membership of the organizations which use the specified foreign languages and English was in 1916 usually larger than that of the organizations reporting specified foreign languages only, the table indicating for the denominations, as a whole, an average of 452 members for the former and 407 for the latter. A notable exception is in the Roman Catholic Church, where the average membership of the organizations using the specified foreign languages only was 1,483, while the average of those which use the specified foreign languages and English was 1,136. A partial explanation of this is found in the fact that a considerable number of Roman Catholic organizations using foreign languages only report a very large membership. Thus a Bohemian parish in Maryland reports 6,000 members, and two Polish parishes a total of 10,150 members, an average of 5,075; a Lithuanian parish in Ohio reports 6,000 members, while in New York 12 Italian parishes aggregate 95,259 members, an average of 7,938. Similar conditions exist elsewhere and indicate large non-English speaking communities provided in each case with a single church which, with its numerous services, meets the needs of the community.

Table 29 brings out more clearly, perhaps, than in any other way, the cosmopolitan character of the population of the United States. Undoubtedly some languages not listed are spoken by individuals, but the fact that these have a definite place in the religious service of so many communities is of the greatest significance. Scarcely less significant, moreover, than the variety of languages used is the combination of languages in use in the same local organization. Some combinations seem natural, as when one language is evidently that of the liturgy and the other that of the address, as Slavic and Serbian, or when two cognate languages are used, as Norwegian and Swedish, but such combinations as "Chinese, German, Italian, Russian, Yiddish, and English," or "German, Italian, Polish, Spanish, and English" illustrate very vividly the cosmopolitan character of the congregations. This is particularly noticeable in the Roman Catholic Church and in those Protestant bodies which are more closely identified with evangelistic work among the foreign population.

In Table 31 the languages reported are arranged alphabetically, and the number of denominations and of organizations, with membership, reporting them, whether alone or in conjunction with some other language, are given for 1916 and 1906, respectively. Since many organizations report the use of two or more languages it is evident that there is much duplication in the figures. The classification of languages is in accord with that used for mother tongues in the general census reports, and is practically the same as that of 1906. In the few instances of variation the figures for 1906 have been changed.

From this table it appears that German was the leading foreign language used in church services in 1916, as it was reported by the largest number of denominations comprising the largest number of organizations and members. This was also true in 1906. The language reported by the next highest number of denominations was Italian, which was second to the German in number of members but not of organizations, due probably to its use in the Roman Catholic Church, which, as was noted in connection with Table 29, is inclined to have a very large average membership per organization. Other languages used by more than 1,000,000 members were Polish and French, but they were exceeded in number of denominations reporting by the Swedish, American Indian, and Norwegian.

Only 5 languages showed a decrease from 1906 to 1916 in the number of members reported as using them—Bohemian, from 236,325 to 210,492; French, from 1,363,641 to 1,190,436; Indian (American), from 64,051 to 56,984; Norwegian, from 357,865 to 344,844; and Welsh, from 28,948 to 26,574.

Taken as a whole, the table shows the same tendency among the more important languages that was indicated among the larger denominations in Table 29—a decrease in the number of organizations and members using foreign languages only and an increase in the number using them in connection with English. The exceptions are found in those languages used by the more recent class of immigrants to this country.

Five languages which were not reported as being used by any denomination in 1906, but were reported by one or more denominations in 1916, were Albanian, Bulgarian, Korean, Persian, and Turkish. One language (Montenegrin) reported in 1906, was not reported as being used in 1916.

Table 32 presents a geographic distribution, by divisions and states, of the organizations and members reporting the use of foreign languages in 1916 and 1906 and the number of languages reported.

[1] Not available in 1906.

The two North Central divisions comprised in 1916 considerably more than one-half and one-third of the number of organizations and members, respectively, though the highest number of members in any one division was not shown in this section, as was the case in 1906, but in the Middle Atlantic division. The increase in members using a foreign language in this division was probably due to the large increase in Italian immigration in recent years, which is largely concentrated in the eastern section of the country. As compared with 1906, only one geographic division (the West North Central) showed a decrease in number of organizations, and only one (the West South Central) showed a decrease in number of members reported.

Only 18 states and the District of Columbia reported fewer than 100 organizations using a foreign language, and of these, 13 belonged to the southern section of the country, the exceptions being Maine, Vermont, and Rhode Island of the New England division, and Wyoming, Utah, and Nevada in the Mountain division. Maryland, in the South Atlantic division, and Louisiana, Oklahoma, and Texas, in the West South Central division, were the only Southern states reporting more than 100 organizations using a foreign language.

Minnesota showed the largest number of organizations (2,760) and New York the largest number of members (1,579,654), the latter state with Pennsylvania and Illinois being the only ones reporting over 1,000,000 members using a foreign language. Other states besides Minnesota showing over 2,000 organizations reporting the use of foreign languages were Wisconsin, Pennsylvania, and New York.

Of the 42 individual languages shown in the table, New York naturally reports the largest number, 35; while 15 states and the District of Columbia report less than 10 languages each. Of these, only 3—Arizona, Louisiana, and New Mexico—are included among the states reporting more than 100 organizations using a foreign language, and in each of these states some one language largely preponderates—Spanish in Arizona and New Mexico, and French in Louisiana.

Any comparison between the membership of church organizations reporting the use of foreign languages, and the foreign-born element of the population, however interesting, is impracticable on account of the widely different dates for which the information in the two cases is available, the figures for church membership being for 1916 and those for the foreign-born population for 1910. Such comparison is also rendered difficult by the fact that a portion of the foreign-born population is not identified with church life, and that in some sections, especially in the West, it is so scattered that organizations have not been formed, and consequently there is no report of membership.

A comparison of the figures in this table for the two years shows, in general, no marked difference in the distribution except such as may be accounted for by the natural growth of membership and the tendency, heretofore noted, of consolidation in number of organizations. In nearly all the individual states, according to the table, there is an increase in the number of languages used in church services in 1916 over that in 1906. Thus, the states of New York and Virginia each report an increase of eight in the number of languages; the states of Michigan and Wyoming an increase of seven each; the states of Alabama, California, Illinois, Indiana, Kansas, New Jersey, Texas, and Wisconsin, an increase of six each; Massachusetts and Iowa, five each; and Connecticut, Florida, Idaho, Kentucky, Montana, New Hampshire, Pennsylvania, and Rhode Island, four each. This increase in these and other states in the number of languages used is significant as showing the incoming into these states of new nationalities, or success in reaching new nationalities and bringing them into connection with church life. A general survey of the situation in regard to the languages used in church services, as illustrated in the preceding tables, shows that, while the churches have not failed to supply the need of immigrants for services in their mother tongue, there has been during the decade, in all parts of the country, a decided trend toward the substitution of English for foreign languages in church services.

WORK OF DENOMINATIONS IN DOMESTIC AND FOREIGN FIELDS.

SOURCES OF INFORMATION.

The statistics relating to work of the denominations were not obtained from the local organizations, but from various denominational boards, societies, etc., through which the local organizations act.

In the early history of the churches of the United States all activities, even those outside their own immediate bounds, were conducted for the most part by the local organizations. Gradually, however, it became evident that this was not the most effective way. At first a few individual churches joined forces, but soon for greater economy and efficiency they formed general societies to which they gave the necessary funds, these societies conducting the work and reporting its results and cost at such meetings as might be arranged. There were several such boards or societies in the Eastern states, whose chief work was among the Indians or in isolated districts, but the first general missionary society was the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions, organized in Boston, Mass., in 1810. This board combined work in foreign lands with work for Indians in America, and was supported by the churches of a number of denominations. Subsequently denominational societies were organized, and at the present time almost the entire work of the churches outside the limits of the local church organizations is conducted by them.

This has not been true, however, of the Primitive Baptists, the Plymouth Brethren, Churches of Christ, and some other loosely organized denominations. In the Southern states the term "missionary" is frequently applied to those churches that conduct their missionary work through societies. Certain churches called "antimissionary" are not so much opposed to missionary work in itself as they are to its conduct by organizations outside of the local church, which they fear may acquire some ecclesiastical authority over the churches. In the early history of the Disciples of Christ this was very manifest, and the formation of the two societies for the conduct of their missionary work, home and foreign, was looked upon with great disfavor and was a principal occasion for the refusal of the Churches of Christ to be identified with them. One body, the Two-Seed-in-the-Spirit Predestinarian Baptists, is opposed to missionary work on principle as interfering with the prerogative of the Almighty in the election of individuals to salvation. The Plymouth Brethren are active in missionary work, but with them it is conducted on a purely individualistic basis, which permits of no classification or even of report.

For those denominations having no organized societies for conducting activities outside the churches, it was impracticable to secure information directly from the individual organizations, so application was made to the denominational officers or others who prepared the descriptive statements of history, doctrine, and polity printed in Part II of this report. Sometimes they furnished the information themselves, sometimes they sent in published reports from which the desired facts were collected, and in some cases they gave the names of others from whom information could be obtained. In many instances there was considerable correspondence for the purpose of supplementing or correcting the figures obtained. Such items as are available for tabulation appear in the tables presented in this section, while others are noted in the text descriptions of the work of the denominations in Part II.

In this connection reference should be made to the diversity in the form of organization of these societies in different denominations, which rendered it frequently very difficult to combine in tabular form the data they submitted.

In most of the larger and more thoroughly organized bodies, as the Congregational Churches, the Methodist and Presbyterian bodies, and some of the smaller denominations, the different phases of work are under the care of distinct societies. Thus there is one society for home missions, which combines general evangelism, the erection of church buildings or parsonages, and special evangelistic and educational work among Negroes, Indians, and the foreign-born population; another society for Sunday school organization and the supplying of religious literature; another for the assistance of educational institutions or of students; another for foreign missionary work; besides a considerable number of minor societies for special objects. With the exception of the society for foreign work, these cover largely the same territory and often have similar general aims, but are independent of one another. In some instances, as in the Protestant Episcopal Church, a single general society nominally covers the whole field, but practically a considerable amount of the work in each department is done by diocesan organizations. In the Roman Catholic Church there is no general organization for any one of these various departments, but the religious orders, and sometimes the dioceses, carry on the work on mutually independent lines under general ecclesiastical supervision. In the smaller bodies there is a smaller number of societies, and in a few there is no society at all for the carrying on of general religious, benevolent, or foreign work, all initiative in these directions being taken by individual churches or by the regular ecclesiastical divisions.

Another serious difficulty in tabular presentation arose from the very diverse methods of financial statement. One general purpose of the tables was to show the amount contributed by the churches of the United States for the various departments of missionary and benevolent work during the year under review. The reports received included, however, in many cases, not merely the contributions of the churches, but income from invested funds, fees for tuition, or for treatment in hospitals or asylums, etc. In other instances the figures covered not the exact amount received during the year, but amounts expended or even appropriated for the respective departments of work.

In general, the work of the denominations, whether in the United States or abroad is conducted along three lines—evangelistic, educational, and philanthropic. In the United States these distinctions are reasonably clear, although there is much interlacing of different departments, and the contributions and property value for each are presented. In the foreign field, however, the entire work in these three departments is under one general direction, the evangelistic type being more pronounced than the educational or philanthropic, and no separate statement of contributions or property is feasible.

DOMESTIC WORK.

The following table gives for 1916 and 1906 a statistical presentation of the general missionary, educational, and philanthropic activities carried on in the United States under the auspices of the denominations.

The items include: (1) The contributions classified as missionary, educational, and philanthropic; (2) the number of home missionaries and the number of churches aided; (3) the number of schools of higher grades and of their students; (4) the number of philanthropic institutions and of persons relieved; (5) the value of the property and endowments held for educational and for philanthropic purposes.

Congregational Churches	1,206,139
Lutheran—General Council	1,180,746
Lutheran—Synodical Conference	1,111,694
Jewish congregations	1,100,000
Disciples of Christ	1,076,550
Latter Day Saints, Church of Jesus Christ	1,074,118

With regard to these contributions it is to be noted that all the denominations are not represented under each head. Of the 99 denominations reporting contributions, 92 reported gifts for home missions, 78 for education, and only 52 for philanthropy. This does not indicate that these bodies made no contributions for the objects under which they are not reported, but simply that they do not make their contributions through societies or boards organized for those purposes. Thus, among the denominations omitted from the philanthropic column are the Baptist, Congregational, and some of the Presbyterian bodies; from the educational column, the Roman Catholic Church, and from home missions, the Jewish congregations. It is to be noted also that some bodies that report the various activities do not report contributions. In the case of the Free Baptists, who reported separately in 1906, all contributions have been made in 1916 through the Northern Baptist Convention.

Home missions.—Under this head the table shows: (1) The number of persons in the employ of the recognized societies or boards of the denominations engaged in the general work of evangelization in the United States; some of these are resident pastors of churches which are unable to provide for all their own expenses but whose conduct is deemed important, others represent itinerant preachers in care of a section of territory; (2) the number of local churches aided by these societies or boards, whether in their establishment or their conduct, including the cost of erecting buildings, the support, in whole or in part, of the pastor's salary, etc. These figures have primary reference to what are called the national societies—those boards or societies that superintend home mission work over the entire country. Aside from these, in many of the denominations there are boards, under state or minor ecclesiastical organizations, associations, presbyteries, synods, dioceses, etc. Wherever practicable these were included, and mention is made regarding them in the statement of work of the separate denominations in Part II.

The total number of persons reported in 1916 as engaged in home missionary work was 27,982, and the number of churches aided was 29,283. It is evident from a review of the returns for some of the denominations, that the similarity between the totals for all denominations is not so significant as might appear. Thus, the Seventh-day Adventist Denomination reported 1,420 missionaries but made no report of the number of churches aided; the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, 1,660 missionaries and 145 churches aided; the Methodist Episcopal Church, 4,000 missionaries and 275 churches aided; the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, 268 missionaries and 2,390 churches aided; and the Lutheran Synodical Conference, 657 missionaries and 1,733 churches aided. In a number of other denominations, also, the number of churches aided exceeded the number of missionaries.

Colleges, etc.—Under this head are included the number of schools of higher grade—universities, colleges, theological schools, academies, etc.—under the auspices of each denomination, whether or not receiving financial assistance from it, together with the number of students connected with them. Roman Catholic and Lutheran parochial schools and elementary schools conducted by some of the denominations for Negroes, Indians, foreigners, or others, are, with few exceptions, not included in the tabular presentation, though reference is made to them in the denominational text in Part II.

The returns under this head show 2,529 educational institutions with 456,089 students, but these figures can scarcely be regarded as complete, for returns, especially as to number of students, were lacking from many of the institutions, notably the larger colleges and universities. Comparison with the returns for 1906, moreover, showed, in some cases, a falling off both in number of institutions and in students, while in general the increase was not what might have been anticipated. This may have been due to the fact that there has been a general movement to dissociate educational institutions from denominational relations, so that some institutions do not report to the societies through which denominational assistance is given when needed. Thus, in 1906, the Disciples of Christ reported 50 institutions, with 8,684 students, and in 1916, 44 institutions, with 8,545 students; the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, reported in 1906, 193 institutions, with 34,683 students, and in 1916, 79 institutions, with 19,736 students. Other bodies showed similar decreases and the natural inference from the reports is that the relation between these institutions and the denominational boards and societies is not as close as it has been in the past.

The denominations reporting over 50 educational institutions in 1916 were:

DENOMINATION.	Institutions.	Students.
Roman Catholic Church	994	152,905
Presbyterian Church in the United States of America	216	45,938
Protestant Episcopal Church	122	18,287
Methodist Episcopal Church	117	50,109
Baptists—Southern Convention	116	21,918
Baptists—National Convention	115	9,775

Methodist Episcopal Church, South	79	19,736
Baptists—Northern Convention	61	22,417

Hospitals, etc.—In most of the religious bodies philanthropic institutions as a distinct phase of church work are of comparatively recent origin. The Roman Catholic Church has developed this department of activity most effectively, and the Lutheran churches have done much in this line, as have also, especially in recent years, the Methodist Episcopal and Protestant Episcopal churches. The Presbyterian and Reformed bodies, the Congregational Churches, and others have given largely, but mostly for the establishment and conduct of undenominational institutions. The practical conduct of philanthropic institutions, whether denominational or undenominational in form, is everywhere broadly nonsectarian, and this accounts, in part at least, for the difficulty in securing complete statistics, and the diminution in some of the figures reported.

Denominations reporting special work in this line in 1916 were as follows:

DENOMINATION.	Institutions.	Inmates and patients.
Roman Catholic Church	1,188	616,513
Salvation Army	232	11,812
Protestant Episcopal Church	195	47,236
Methodist Episcopal Church	172	69,094
Jewish congregations	148	45,000
Lutheran—General Council	54	18,031
Lutheran—Synodical Conference	36	13,566
Baptists—Southern Convention	23	20,000
Volunteers of America	20	41,360
Seventh-day Adventists	20	14,149

The divergence in type in the different institutions is indicated by the great variation in the number of inmates and patients. Some are for permanent, others for transient relief; some are hospitals or sanitariums, others rescue homes and relief stations. As in the case of the educational institutions, the returns do not indicate the entire amount of work done along philanthropic lines, even by the denominations reporting, but the amount done under their auspices, or over which they exercise some supervision.

Value of property and endowments.—The figures under this head represent only property used for educational or philanthropic purposes. There is some property held by home mission boards, but it is usually in the form of church edifices, parsonages, etc., which in time passes into the hands of the local organizations. On account of this transient character no attempt was made to tabulate it.

The total value of property and endowments reported for 1916 was $496,271,951, apportioned as follows: Educational institutions, $387,763,922; philanthropic institutions, $108,508,029.

The denominations reporting over $10,000,000 value of property and endowments in 1916 were:

Methodist Episcopal Church	$89,553,204
Protestant Episcopal Church	80,779,901
Baptists—Northern Convention	79,539,499
Presbyterian Church in the United States of America	52,743,109
Methodist Episcopal Church, South	29,338,304
Lutheran—General Council	25,552,049
Baptists—Southern Convention	25,151,413
Presbyterian Church in the United States	12,380,066
Disciples of Christ	10,379,046

Changes since 1906.—A comparison of the returns for 1916 with those for 1906 shows, under the head of "home missions," an increase of 7,938 in number of missionaries, and of 6,692 in number of churches aided; under the head of "education" a loss of 3 in the total number of institutions, but an increase of 55,071 in the number of students reported; under the head of "philanthropic institutions" a gain of 537 in number of institutions reported and of 485,718 in the number of persons aided; under the head of "value of property and endowments" a gain of $148,073,195 for educational institutions and of $50,687,838 for philanthropic institutions.

FOREIGN WORK.

Table 34 presents statistics for 1916 and 1906 of the evangelistic, educational, and philanthropic work carried on in foreign lands by the churches of the United States through their various boards or societies. In general, the presentation follows the same lines as in the work carried on in the United States.

The items include, for each denomination reporting, the amount contributed in the United States for the conduct of work in foreign lands; the number of countries in which the work is carried on, and the number of stations occupied; the number of persons, American and native, employed in the work; the number of organized churches and their membership; the number of schools of higher grade and their students; the number of philanthropic institutions and their inmates and patients; and the value of property held for various purposes in those lands.

[1] Corrected figures. [2] Includes statistics for the Free Baptist Church. [3] For changes in denominations, see pp. 530 and 531.

The amounts contributed and the value of property are not distributed, as in the home mission work, under the different heads of evangelistic, educational, and philanthropic. Schools and hospitals are not conducted primarily with a view to church organization, yet they are distinctively evangelistic in type, and the line between the institutions is not always easily drawn. Also, the management of these departments is so unified that missionaries are assigned to one or the other departments according to convenience, and frequently share in two or even all three.

In view of the fact that the same country is frequently reported as occupied by several denominations, and sometimes the same city or town, the total number of countries and stations is not given. There is also wide divergence in the use of these terms. Some report Africa as one country, others report each section as a separate country; ordinarily a station is a place occupied by an American missionary, but in some cases the term is applied to any place where mission work is carried on.

The term "American missionaries," in accordance with the general usage in the United States and Great Britain, includes all those of either sex commissioned by the missionary societies. Of late the term has been held to include also the wives of missionaries. The term "native helpers" includes all those native to the country, whether preachers, teachers, colporteurs, or other workers of either sex, in the employ of a missionary society, but not the pastors of self-supporting native churches. The terms "churches" and "members" are used in the same sense as in the general tables of this report. The schools are, in the main, schools of higher grade—colleges, academies, normal schools, etc.—the primary schools connected with the missionary boards being to a considerable degree supported by the native churches themselves, and not included in the reports presented. The philanthropic institutions include hospitals, dispensaries, asylums, and orphanages. Under the head of "inmates of hospitals" it was intended to include all patients who were treated during the year, as well as regular inmates; in some instances, however, the capacity appears to have been given rather than the total number of inmates. The property value includes all buildings, whether for educational or philanthropic purposes, or for use as residences for missionaries. Sometimes it includes church buildings, though commonly these are not owned by the missionary society, but by the local church organizations.

Incompleteness of the figures.—The statistics of foreign work are even more incomplete than those relating to domestic work. In many cases, the situation in the missions is uncertain, and exact figures are not available; in others, the press of work prevents the furnishing of information; again, the methods of conducting the work differ so that the terms used in one field do not fit the conditions in another. Most of the denominations conduct their own work, directing it from headquarters in this country, but some, especially several Lutheran synods, contribute to European societies, and make no separate report, with the result that the statistics for those synods cover contributions only. The Moravian Brethren report the funds contributed in this country, but general statistics cover the entire Moravian Church, in England and on the Continent as well as in the United States. The Roman Catholic Church gives an estimate of its contributions but no detailed statistics, because the greater part of the work under the auspices of the church is carried on by the various religious orders which do not report to any central authority. Some denominations, as the Plymouth Brethren, I, the General Church of the New Jerusalem, and the Swedish Evangelical Mission Covenant give general statistics but no statement of contributions.

As shown by Table 34, the denominations reporting contributions for foreign work in excess of $500,000 in 1916 were as follows:

Methodist Episcopal Church	$2,941,422
Presbyterian Church in the United States of America	2,272,950
Baptists—Northern Convention	1,280,509
Roman Catholic Church	1,200,000
Congregational Churches	1,089,098
Methodist Episcopal Church, South	984,306
Protestant Episcopal Church	822,402
Seventh-day Adventists	736,046
Presbyterian Church in the United States	586,544
Disciples of Christ	569,416
Baptists—Southern Convention	529,405

It may be noted that several of the denominations which made no report of philanthropic institutions in the United States reported considerable work of this type in the foreign field, as the Congregational Churches, Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, and others.

The denominations reporting in 1916 more than 250 American missionaries in foreign lands were:

Methodist Episcopal Church	1,428
Presbyterian Church in the United States of America	1,353
Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints	1,183
Seventh-day Adventists	880
Baptists—Northern Convention	688
Congregational Churches	661
Methodist Episcopal Church, South	382
Presbyterian Church in the United States	377
Protestant Episcopal Church	346
Baptists—Southern Convention	307
Disciples of Christ	278
Christian and Missionary Alliance	273

Other items, as number of native helpers, number of churches, and number of members represent such diverse methods of reporting that comparison of different denominations is uncertain.

Changes since 1906.—A comparison of the total returns for 1916 with those for 1906 shows an increase in every particular. The number of American missionaries reported increased from 7,731 to 9,873, and the number of native helpers, from 35,388 to 52,253; the number of churches increased from 8,323 to 13,911, and the number of members from 922,567 to 1,687,824; the number of schools of higher grade increased from 8,708 to 13,653, and the number of students, from 321,452 to 575,916; the number of philanthropic institutions reported increased from 550 to 791, and the number of persons aided from 1,492,647 to 2,218,604; the total value of property reported increased from $26,496,672 to $52,777,299.

SUMMARY OF CONTRIBUTIONS.

In Table 35 is given a comparative summary of the amounts, as presented in Tables 33 and 34, which were contributed by the several denominations to both domestic and foreign work in 1916. Similar figures are presented for 1906. As stated on page 55, the total amount of contributions shown in this table are not comparable with the amounts reported under "Benevolences" in Table 16 (p. 56), in the section on expenditures, as the latter simply unites all the amounts given by the local church organization for benevolent purposes, irrespective of their distribution, while the amount shown in the present table represents the total contributions of the denomination for such purposes, whether made by church organizations, by individuals, or through specially organized societies.

[2] Corrected figures.

In interpreting this table two facts are to be kept in mind: (1) The amounts given are those reported by the organizations and societies of the denominations represented; (2) the amounts given do not represent a continuous period, but two limited periods of a year each, a decade apart, and such limited periods are always subject to fluctuation. Peculiar circumstances will arise in connection with some department of work in one year, calling forth special gifts, while in another year, the particular exigency being lacking, the contributions reported are much smaller. Thus the gifts reported by the Northern Baptist Convention in 1906 included a special donation to a single university, while those reported in 1916 probably more nearly represent the liberality of the denomination. The amounts reported by the Jewish congregations in 1906 included special gifts, so that the total was more than four times that reported in 1916; but it does not follow that these congregations have really fallen off in their general benevolences.

Of the 202 denominations included in the report for 1916, only 102 are represented in this table; and of the 188 denominations for 1906, only 88 are represented. Some bodies, which give, and give liberally, to certain departments of work, as already stated, have no organized boards to represent that work and hence those sums are not included in this presentation. The Free Baptist societies, which were reported separately in 1906, have been consolidated with those of the Northern Baptist Convention and their contributions for 1916 are included in those of the latter body.

The table shows total contributions for 1916 of $62,050,571 as against $47,420,770 in 1906, an increase of $14,629,801, or 30.9 per cent. These figures include $3,693,900 contributed in 1916 by bodies that made no report for 1906, and $25,939 contributed in 1906 by bodies that made no report in 1916. Considering only those denominations which made report in both years, the amount in 1916 was $58,356,671 as against $47,394,831 in 1906, an increase of $10,961,840, or 23.1 per cent.

Among the amounts reported by denominations presented for the first time in 1916 were: The Roman Catholic Church, $3,193,889; the Christian and Missionary Alliance, $269,044; the Evangelical Protestant Church, $81,600; the Pillar of Fire (Pentecostal Union), $70,000; three Mennonite bodies, $47,875. In no case do these reports mark a commencement or a cessation of gifts, but rather a rearrangement of method. The Christian and Missionary Alliance is a new organization of a number of churches listed chiefly in 1906 as Independent churches; the contributions of the Roman Catholic Church, as noted in the descriptive statement, are being gradually coordinated so that a presentation for 1916 was possible. The American Rescue Workers, as is indicated by the name, are engaged largely in philanthropic work, but no detailed statement concerning it was made in 1916.

Among the denominations not included in these tables, because they have no general organization through which reports can be made, are 11 of the 17 Baptist bodies; 6 of the 7 Eastern Orthodox Churches; 9 of the 15 Evangelistic associations; all of the Plymouth Brethren; 10 of the 16 Mennonite bodies; the Churches of Christ; the Independent churches; the Spiritualists; Theosophical societies; and others which give, many of them liberally, though in private or individual ways.

On the entrance of the United States into the European war, there was a general movement in the denominations to meet such needs as might develop, especially in connection with the supply of chaplains for the Army and Navy, and their appropriate equipment, and the provision of places of worship with adequate furnishings in the camps and cantonments. In the larger bodies special commissions were formed, and a considerable number united in what was known as the General War Time Commission of the Churches, in special relation to the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America. Large sums of money were called for and numerous ministers and laymen enlisted for service in one form or another. These, however, did not develop in such time as to warrant their distinctive inclusion in this report, except as in a few cases special reference is made to the general purposes and plans of a specific body.

Comparing the different departments, it appears that, of the $62,050,571 reported in 1916, $46,016,673, or 74.2 per cent, was for domestic work, and $16,033,898, or 25.8 per cent, for work in other lands, while in 1906 the amount for domestic work was $38,676,143, or 81.6 per cent, and that for foreign work was $8,744,627, or 18.4 per cent.

The direct comparison between foreign work as a whole and domestic work as a whole has always been considered a not altogether fair comparison, and in the report for 1906 there was presented a comparison of the respective amounts contributed, omitting from the domestic work the amounts contributed to educational and philanthropical purposes, thus limiting them to what is technically known as home missions. The past decade, however, has seen a considerable change in both lines. The foreign work has become more extensively educational and philanthropic, while the domestic work has dropped to a considerable degree certain educational characteristics of former years, and has been directed more exclusively to church organization. Accordingly, the comparison here presented embraces the entire scope of each department of work.

Of the denominations included in the table, those reporting contributions amounting to over $1,000,000 in 1916 are given in the following statement, with the amounts reported by them in 1916 and in 1906.

Of the 102 denominations whose contributions for 1916 are noted, 17 confined their gifts to domestic purposes, 2 sent all their reported contributions abroad, and 83 gave to both causes. Of the 83 contributing to both causes, 17 gave over 50 per cent to foreign work, and 66 over 50 per cent to home work, the latter including the larger and stronger bodies.

Of those bodies reporting for 1916 contributions of over $1,000,000, noted above, the percentages contributed for domestic and foreign work were as follows:

DENOMINATION.	Per cent, domestic work.	Per cent, foreign work.
Methodist Episcopal Church	65.7	34.3
Presbyterian Church in the United States of America	71.7	28.3
Baptists—Northern Baptist Convention	83.9	16.1

Comparing the total contributions as reported for 1916, with those reported for 1906, it appears that there was a gain in 1916 of $14,629,801, divided as follows: Domestic work, $7,340,530; foreign work, $7,289,271. As a result of this proportionate increase in gifts for foreign work the percentage of the total represented by those gifts has risen from 18.4 to 25.8 and the percentage for domestic work has fallen from 81.6 to 74.2.

As previously stated, these tables are far from complete, as they present only such sums as are reported by societies or ecclesiastical authorities in the various denominations and do not represent the total benefactions of local churches or of individuals. Their value is somewhat enhanced in the present investigation by having similar figures for 1906 with which to make comparison, but it is still true, as stated in the report for 1906, that "perhaps the most important result of a study of these tables would be that the various religious bodies should come to realize the desirability of keeping a complete record of their benevolences so that a clear statement of them in every particular may be available. There is an increasing demand for definite financial statements in every department of activity, including the benevolences of the people, and particularly of the churches. That those in charge of these benevolences were not only willing but glad to make such statements is abundantly evident from the correspondence in connection with these tables. Not less evident, however, is the fact that there is as yet not enough uniformity or even harmony of presentation to enable one not personally acquainted with denominational methods to gain an accurate conception of the work the religious bodies are doing."

SUMMARY OF STATISTICS FOR STATES.

The statistics of religious bodies are presented in detail, by states, in Tables 61, 62, and 68 of the general tables. Table 61 (p. 148) gives a summary of the statistics for 1916 for all denominations combined, and the principal items of this table are reproduced in Table 68 (p. 532) in comparison with similar figures for preceding censuses, so far as available; Table 62 (p. 150) presents statistics of 1916, in detail, for the principal denominations reported in each state.

GENERAL SUMMARY FOR 1916 AND 1906.

The following table presents the number and per cent distribution, by states, of the number of organizations, number of members, value of church property, debt on church property, and value of parsonages, for 1916 and 1906. The table also shows the estimated population of each state at these two censuses and their rank under each item.

[1] Less than one-tenth of 1 per cent.

It will be observed from the table that quite frequently the several percentages for a particular state are approximately uniform, and that with few exceptions no one state shows a marked variation. Thus, in 1916, Ohio has 5 per cent of the total population, 4.2 per cent of the organizations, 5.5 per cent of the membership, 6.1 per cent of the value of church property, 5.6 per cent of the total debt on church property, and 5.5 per cent of the value of parsonages. Illinois reports 6 per cent of the population, 4.1 per cent of the organizations, 6 per cent of the membership, 6.2 per cent of the value of church property, 7.9 per cent of the total debt on church property, and 6.9 per cent of the value of parsonages. Among the states of small population, Wyoming reports two-tenths of 1 per cent of the population, two-tenths of 1 per cent of the organizations, and one-tenth of 1 per cent, respectively, of members, of value of church property, of debt on church property, and of value of parsonages. A wider variation is shown by the percentages for New York—10.1 per cent of the population, 4.4 per cent of the organizations, 10.3 per cent of the members, 17.5 per cent of the value of church property, 22 per cent of the total debt on church property, and 13.2 per cent of the value of parsonages. Pennsylvania, with 8.4 per cent of the population, reports 12.4 per cent of the value of church property, 13 per cent of the debt on church property, and 11.7 per cent of the value of parsonages.

In regard to rank it is noticeable, for example, that New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois, and Ohio, which led in population in 1916 in the order named, maintained their respective rank in each statistical detail, except that of number of organizations, in which they are all superseded by Texas, which ranked fifth in population; Pennsylvania retained second place under organizations, but New York and Ohio were superseded by Georgia, which ranked eleventh in population. North Carolina, whose rank in population was 14, ranked fifth in number of organizations. Texas, which, as stated above, ranked first in number of organizations, was sixth in number of members. The only cases of stationary rank are Pennsylvania, which ranked second in every item, and Nevada, which ranked forty-ninth.

The 10 leading states in respect to population in 1916 together include almost one-half—49.6 per cent—of the entire population of the country, but only 35.5 per cent of the total number of organizations reported. On the other hand, they contain 52 per cent of the total members, 61.9 per cent of the value of church property, 68.2 per cent of the debt on church property, and 56.6 per cent of the value of parsonages.

The table shows that in a number of cases there was considerable change from 1906 to 1916 in the rank held by a given state under a particular heading. Except as to value of church property and parsonages, California ranked higher in each particular in 1916 than in 1906, though the changes in rank did not correspond with the increase in rank from seventeenth to tenth place in number of inhabitants. North Carolina, with an increase only from sixteenth to fourteenth place in population, rose from ninth to fifth place in number of organizations, and from eighteenth to thirteenth place in number of members. New Jersey, which changed from eleventh to ninth place in population, rose from twelfth to eighth place in number of church members. In rank as to value of church property, Texas, Michigan, and Florida show a considerable increase, while Connecticut, Maine, New Hampshire, and Vermont show a considerable decrease. A number of states also show a considerable change from 1906 to 1916 in rank with respect to amount of debt on church property, namely, Tennessee from thirty-fourth to twenty-third, New Hampshire from twenty-fourth to thirty-eighth, Maine from twenty-sixth to thirty-seventh, and Vermont from thirty-second to forty-second place.

Average per organization.—The following table shows the states arranged according to average number of members in 1916, based upon organizations reporting, with comparative figures for 1906. It also shows, for the two censuses, the average value of church property, amount of debt, and value of parsonages per organization reporting in each case.

The table shows that, with a single exception, five states and the District of Columbia reported the highest averages under each item. The states are Rhode Island, Massachusetts, Connecticut, New York, and New Jersey, the single exception occurring under membership where New Jersey is superseded by Utah. These states, with the single exception noted, are those in which a large proportion of the church membership belongs to the Roman Catholic Church, which in 1916 reported a larger average membership per organization than any other denomination. They also have a large proportion of urban population, and, as is evident, the relative proportions of urban and rural population in the different states have an important influence upon the figures. This is illustrated by the District of Columbia, which is entirely urban, and has the highest average value of church property reported, the highest average value of parsonages, and next to the highest average debt. The average per organization usually will be much smaller in states where the population is distributed to a large extent through small rural communities than where it is concentrated in cities or large towns.

Considering Table 37 in connection with Table 36, the differences in rank when based upon numbers as compared with averages per organizations reporting are very marked. For instance, New York, except in number of organizations, was first in rank according to Table 36, but, as shown by Table 37, it was sixth in average members and has first rank only in average debt. Pennsylvania, which ranked second in every item in Table 36, is not within the first five states mentioned above when the rank is based upon the average per organization reporting. Rhode Island, whose rank was low throughout Table 36, stands first in members per organization, fourth in average value of church property, third in average debt, and second in average value of parsonages.

A comparison of the averages of 1916 and 1906, as presented in Table 37, shows that 10 states and the District of Columbia decreased in members per organization, the most noticeable decreases being in Montana and Nevada. These 2 states, also, are the only ones showing decreases in average value of church property, and Montana, with 6 other states, shows a decrease in average amount of debt. Every state increased in average value of parsonages since 1906.

The following statement, drawn from Table 37, shows the number of states represented in the different classes of averages in 1916 and 1906.

The statement shows that 8 states reported an average membership per organization of over 300 in 1916, only 7 states having made such report in 1906. Six states reported an average value of church property amounting to over $20,000 in 1916, as against 5 in 1906. The most noticeable changes in this respect are shown in value of parsonages.

Of the 7 states, Connecticut, Massachusetts, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, and Utah, and the District of Columbia, which reported an average membership of over 300, all but Pennsylvania and Utah reported an average value of church property of over $20,000 and an average value of parsonages of over $5,000; 2 of them, New York and the District of Columbia, reported an average debt of over $10,000.

DISTRIBUTION OF MEMBERS BY PRINCIPAL DENOMINATIONS.

Table 38 gives the number and per cent distribution, by principal denominations, of the total church membership reported in each state in 1916, 1906, and 1890, respectively. The table includes those denominations which represented about 1 per cent of the total membership of the state in 1916 and combined covered 90 per cent or more of the total membership reported.

[4] Less than one-tenth of 1 per cent

An examination of this table shows that, as a rule, a very large proportion of the total membership of the state is in a very few denominations. Thus, in 1916, over 50 per cent of the total membership is found in the leading denomination in 17 states, in the 2 leading denominations in 15 states, in the 3 leading denominations in 15 states, and in the 4 leading denominations in 2 states—Oklahoma and West Virginia. Only in 6 states—Kentucky, Oklahoma, West Virginia, Florida, South Carolina, and Texas—does the fourth denomination in rank have as many as 10 per cent of the total membership of the state.

The table shows that in 1916, as in 1906, the Roman Catholic Church was first in number of members in 33 states and the District of Columbia, and in 1916 it represented over 50 per cent of the total number of members in 15 of these states as against 17 such states in 1906. The 33 states in which this denomination showed the largest proportions were identical at the two periods, with the exception of Indiana and Kansas, the Methodist Episcopal Church leading in the former in 1906 and in the latter in 1916. Geographically, the Roman Catholic Church led in the New England, the Middle Atlantic, the East North Central, and Pacific divisions, and in the West North Central division, except Kansas. In the southern divisions it led in Delaware, Maryland, and the District of Columbia, of the South Atlantic, and in Louisiana and Texas, of the West South Central division. Although the membership of the Roman Catholic Church is thus widely distributed among the states, yet a large proportion of this membership is concentrated in the larger and more thickly settled states of the North and East. There were 25 states for each of which there were reported in 1916 over 100,000 members of the Roman Catholic Church, and each of 4 states reported over 1,000,000 members—New York, 2,745,552; Pennsylvania, 1,830,532; Massachusetts, 1,410,208; Illinois, 1,171,381. These 4 states, together with Ohio, which had 843,856 Roman Catholic members, reported 8,001,529 Roman Catholic members, or over one-half the total membership of this church in 1916. It should be remembered, however, that since the Roman Catholic membership includes all baptized members, and therefore practically the entire Roman Catholic population, the basis of membership is different from that for most of the other denominations, and this fact must be taken into consideration in studying the figures contained in Table 38.

The denominations showing the highest proportions in the 15 states in which the Roman Catholic Church was not the leading denomination were as follows: National Baptist Convention (Negro) in 7 states (Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Mississippi, South Carolina, and Virginia); the Southern Baptist Convention in 4 states (Kentucky, North Carolina, Oklahoma, and Tennessee); the Methodist Episcopal Church in 2 states (Kansas and West Virginia); and the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints in 2 states (Idaho and Utah).

Comparing the proportions of these leading denominations in 1916 with 1906, it is seen that in the 33 states and the District of Columbia in which the Roman Catholic Church led, it was with a decreased proportion in 27, the most noticeable reductions being in the states of the Mountain division—Montana, from 76.2 to 56.8; Wyoming, from 46.9 to 32.4; Colorado, from 52.6 to 40.7; and Nevada, from 70.2 to 54.1 per cent. Among the other 4 leading denominations, the National Baptist Convention showed a decreased proportion in 4 out of 7 states, the Southern Baptist Convention showed an increased proportion in each of its 4 states, the Methodist Episcopal Church showed an increased proportion in 1 and a decreased proportion in the other, while the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints showed an increased proportion in each of its 2 states, that in Idaho rising from 41.4 to 53.5 per cent.

The changes in the proportions shown by the different denominations in each state, aside from the leading denomination, are not very marked. It may be noted, however, that the Roman Catholic Church showed a decreased proportion in each of the 15 states in which it was not the leading denomination; the proportion in North Carolina not being sufficiently large to be included in the table. The Latter Day Saints made a large gain in the proportion in Nevada, from 6.6 to 21.2 per cent, while the decrease from 5 to 1.2 per cent in the Free Baptists in Maine was due largely to some of the organizations being reported with the Northern Baptist Convention in 1916.

SUMMARY OF STATISTICS FOR COUNTIES.

The number of members in church organizations, by counties, is given in Table 63 (p. 238). The table presents for each state, by counties, the total population according to the census of 1910, the total church membership in 1916, and the membership of the principal denominations in the state. The denominations are selected and vary with the state, the purpose of the table being to present those denominations which were most strongly represented in the particular state in 1916. In the few cases where denominations have been consolidated, it is indicated either in the boxhead of the table or in footnotes.

DISTRIBUTION OF MEMBERS.

A study of Table 63 shows that out of over 3,000 counties in the United States, only 9 made no report of members. One of these—Alpine County, Calif., with a population of 309—is in the heart of the Sierras; another, with a population of 519, is in Yellowstone National Park, Wyo.; of the remaining 7, 6 are in western Texas, where the population is widely scattered and the facilities for intercommunication poor, and 1 is an unorganized county in South Dakota.

A further examination shows wide variations in the counties of some states with regard to the number of church members reported in 1916 as compared with the population shown by the latest census, that of 1910. This is especially true in some of the newly settled and sparsely populated states, but even in such old and densely populated states as Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, and New York frequently the variation in the different counties of the state is very marked. Counties containing large cities will show a proportionally large number of church members, while in isolated counties, especially in some of the very sparsely populated counties in the Western states, the number of church members is comparatively small.

The next statement shows the counties in which the church members reported in 1916 represent an exceptionally small proportion of their population in 1910.

The statement shows that the church membership in Pike County, Pa., which is to a large extent without railroad communication, represents but 21.6 per cent of the population of 1910, although the similar percentage for the state is 53.7. Knott County, in Kentucky, which is very inaccessible, shows a percentage of only 8.3, while the general percentage for the state is 42.3. The membership of Grand County, Colo., a mountainous county with scattered population, represents only 4.8 per cent of its population in 1910, as against 32.3 per cent for the entire state. In Kansas the church members of the very sparsely populated counties of Grant and Stanton represent 4 and 6.3 per cent, respectively, of their population in 1910, as compared with a percentage of 36.1 for the state as a whole. It will be noted that, with a few exceptions, these are counties of small population in the Western states. In a number of these western counties the population in 1910 was less than 1 per square mile.

It is very probable that in most of these and other sparsely populated counties the low proportion of church members reported is largely real, and not apparent only, and is due to the people being so widely scattered and the facilities for intercourse so poor that it is impracticable for them to come together for church organization and worship. In some cases the small proportion may be due to people worshiping in and being reported as members of churches in one county, while they live in and constitute a part of the reported population of another county.

In striking contrast to the small proportion of church members in each of the counties included in the foregoing statement, the next statement shows a number of selected counties in each of which the number of church members as reported in 1916 actually exceeds the number of people as enumerated at the Federal census of 1910.

The excess of the reported 1916 church membership over the 1910 population in any one of these counties, and also the very high proportion of church members in any other county, probably is due to one or more of the following causes: First, on account of a very rapid increase, the population of 1910 may be far below the actual population in 1916; second, a considerable number of the persons reported as church members in the county may have lived in and been counted as a part of the population of an adjoining county; third, because of the scattered population in these counties, the returns show that frequently the church authorities estimated the number of church members and it is probable that occasionally the estimate was too high; fourth, to the predominance of a particular denomination, as in 9 of these 16 counties the Roman Catholic Church, and in the remaining 7 the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, was the leading denomination, and reported a very large proportion (in 3 counties all) of the total church membership. As stated elsewhere, it is the custom in each of these denominations to report as church members all baptized persons, irrespective of age, in any way identified with the church. It is believed that the very marked predominance in each of these counties of one or the other of these denominations, together with its custom of reporting as members practically its entire population, explains largely the exceptionally high proportion of church members as compared with the population of 1910. In most, if not in all, of the counties the population in 1916 probably was greater than that in 1910 as given in the statement. Especially does it seem probable that the apparent great excess shown in Bernalillo and Grant Counties, N. Mex., is due to a great increase of population between 1910 and 1916. In the case of Presidio County, Tex., which borders on Mexico, it is possible that many of the members reported actually lived in Mexico. There may have been, also, a considerable increase in population in this county.

DISTRIBUTION OF DENOMINATIONS.

The Roman Catholic Church was distributed over a greater number of counties in 1916 than any other single denomination. Of the 3,033 counties in the United States in 1916, the Roman Catholic Church was represented in more than 2,400, or in approximately 80 per cent of all. The Methodist Episcopal Church was represented in every county of 17 states; the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in every county of 8 states; and one or the other of these two denominations in every county of 27 states. One or the other of these two very similar Methodist denominations was represented in over 2,900 counties, or in approximately 97 out of every 100 counties in the United States. Together they were represented in a larger proportion of the counties than was the Roman Catholic Church. The same is true of the two leading white Baptist bodies—the Northern Baptist Convention and the Southern Baptist Convention. The Northern Baptist Convention was represented in every county of 8 states; the Southern Baptist Convention in every county of 7 states; and one or the other of these two closely related denominations was represented in approximately 2,700 counties, or in more than 89 per cent of all counties in the United States. Other denominations which were represented in every county of several states were the Congregational Churches, which were represented in every county of the 6 New England states; the Protestant Episcopal Church, in every county of 4 New England states (New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Connecticut, and Rhode Island), Delaware, Maryland, and New Jersey; and the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, in every county of 3 states (New York, New Jersey, and Delaware).

SUMMARY OF STATISTICS FOR THE PRINCIPAL CITIES.

The statistics of religious bodies for 1916 are presented in detail for principal cities—those having in 1910 a population of 25,000 or more—in Tables 64, 65, and 66. Table 64 (p. 330) gives, for each city, a summary of the statistics for all denominations combined; Table 65 (p. 336) gives the number of members in selected denominations; and Table 66 (p. 354) presents statistics, in detail, for the principal denominations reported in each city.

In the tables these cities, 226 in number, are divided into four classes according to population, as follows: 18 cities of the first class, those having 300,000 inhabitants or more; 32 cities of the second class, those having from 100,000 to 300,000 inhabitants; 59 cities of the third class, those having from 50,000 to 100,000 inhabitants; and 117 cities of the fourth class, those having from 25,000 to 50,000 inhabitants.

It should be noted that the figures given for 1906 in the tables for the principal cities do not include the statistics of the Roman Catholic Church in Auburn, Elmira, and Rochester, N. Y., since the statistics for the diocese of Rochester were not furnished separately for these cities. Likewise, only a part of the statistics of the Roman Catholic Church for Cleveland, Canton, Toledo, and Youngstown, Ohio, and none of the statistics for Jackson, Mich., are included on account of a similar failure to report statistics of the respective dioceses separately for cities. These facts affect somewhat not only the 1906 figures reported separately for Rochester, Cleveland, and Toledo, but also the general totals for cities, and the totals for the various classes of cities to which those in question belong.

GENERAL SUMMARY FOR 1916 AND 1906.

The following table presents, for the different classes of cities, a summary of the statistics for 1916, and the number of organizations reporting under each item, with comparative figures for 1906:

[1] Corrected figures; see explanation on p. 29 for change in number of members of the Roman Catholic Church.

The preceding table shows that out of 227,487 church organizations in the United States in 1916, there were 23,713 in the principal cities of the country and 203,774 outside of such cities. As stated on page 22, "although the figures are derived from schedules returned by each separate church organization, a complete return for every item on the schedule was not made for all organizations reported in the first column. This was due in some cases to direct failure to answer the question, but in most cases it was due to the fact that the question was not applicable to that particular organization." The following percentages, drawn from the above table, show the proportion of organizations reporting the various items in the principal cities, in each class of cities, and outside of the principal cities, as well as for the United States as a whole.

The above percentages show that of the two items for which there should have been a full report—members and expenditures—the return for the former was not so good in cities as outside, but the return for the latter was much better. This would indicate that the membership rolls are not so carefully kept in cities as in the smaller areas, but that the system of keeping the financial statements is better. Of the other items, which are not applicable to all organizations, the summary shows considerable variation in the returns in cities as compared with the area outside. For instance, a smaller percentage reported church edifices, indicating that rented halls, etc., are more used in cities than outside, and, similarly, the percentage reporting value of church property was less; but of the other items the proportion in cities exceeded very largely the proportion shown for organizations outside of cities. Only 15.8 per cent of the organizations outside of cities reported debt on church property, while 45.6 per cent showed such debt in cities. Value of parsonages was reported by 38.5 per cent in cities as against 27.5 per cent outside, and 85.9 per cent reported Sunday schools in the former as against 81.4 per cent in the latter.

As compared with 1906, a higher percentage of organizations made report concerning each item in 1916 in the principal cities and also, with one exception, in the areas outside of such cities.

Average per organization.—The following statement, derived from Table 39, shows for the United States, for each principal class of cities, and for the area outside of the principal cities, the average per organization reporting for six of the principal items of inquiry in 1916:

Table 41	AVERAGE PER ORGANIZATION REPORTING IN 1916—
CLASS OF CITY.	Number of members.	Value of church property.	Debt on church property.	Value of parsonages.	Expenditures.	Number of Sunday school scholars.
United States	185	$8,476	$3,835	$3,353	$1,613	107

Outside of principal cities	131	4,802	1,863	2,639	1,071	89

The above statement shows that, while the average number of members per organization reporting was 185 for the entire United States, it was 653 for the principal cities and only 131 for the area outside of the principal cities. The average varied greatly in the different classes of cities, being 841 in cities of the first class, 564 in cities of the second class, 568 in cities of the third class, and 472 in cities of the fourth class. Similarly, the average value of church property per organization reporting was several times as large in the principal cities as in the areas outside of these cities; and in the principal cities the average value varied with the size of the cities. Likewise in the case of each other item presented in the statement, the average per organization reporting was far higher for the principal cities than for the areas outside of these cities, and in the principal cities the average usually varied with the size of the cities.

DISTRIBUTION BY CLASSES OF CITIES.

In the following table, the total for each principal item of inquiry in 1916, 1906, and 1890, respectively, is distributed by number and per cent among the different classes of cities and the area outside of the principal cities. It will be noted that the number of items of inquiry was larger in 1916 than in 1906, and larger in 1906 than in 1890.

[1] Corrected figures; see explanation on p. 29 for change in number of members of the Roman Catholic Church.

In 1916 the estimated population of the 226 principal cities was 33,334,907, or 32.7 per cent of the total estimated population of the United States; there were reported in these cities 23,713 organizations, or 10.4 per cent of the total number, and 15,291,245 members, or 36.5 per cent of the total number. Thus, in the principal cities, in 1916, there was 1 organization reported to every 1,406 of the estimated population, while for the country outside of such cities the proportion was 1 to every 337 of the population. The principal cities, in 1916, had the same proportion of the total number of church edifices as of organizations—10.4 per cent. However, with but 10.4 per cent of the church organizations and edifices, respectively, the principal cities reported 49.2 per cent of the total value of church property and 63.7 per cent of the total debt on church property. Of the total value of parsonages, 32.3 per cent was reported by the principal cities and 67.7 per cent by areas outside of the principal cities; and of the total expenditures, 40.8 per cent were reported by the principal cities and 59.2 per cent by areas outside of the principal cities. The proportion of the total number of Sunday schools reported by the principal cities—11.4 per cent—was slightly larger than the proportion of the total organizations reported by them—10.4 per cent—but the proportion of the total Sunday school scholars reported by the principal cities—25.7 per cent—was considerably below the proportion of the total number of church members reported by them—36.5 per cent. As compared with the proportion of the total membership reported by the principal cities in 1916, they reported a low proportion of the total organizations, church edifices, value of parsonages, Sunday schools, and Sunday school scholars, and a rather high proportion of the total value of church property, debt on church property, and expenditures.

Each class of cities, in 1916, reported a larger proportion of the total church membership than of the total population, and a larger proportion of the total church membership than of the total organizations, church edifices, Sunday schools, or Sunday school scholars. On the other hand, each class of cities reported a smaller proportion of the total church membership than of the total value of church property, the total debt on church property, or the total expenditures. Of the total membership reported by the principal cities in 1916, slightly over one-half was in cities of 300,000 inhabitants and over, somewhat over one-sixth in cities of 100,000 to 300,000, slightly under one-sixth in cities of 50,000 to 100,000 and slightly under one-sixth in cities of 25,000 to 50,000. The number of Sunday school scholars, as related to the number of church members, was much smaller in cities of 300,000 inhabitants and over than in any of the other three classes of cities.

As compared with 1906, the principal cities in 1916 show an increase in the proportion they report of the total for the United States in the case of each item of inquiry covered at the two censuses, except the amount of debt on church property, of which the principal cities reported 63.7 per cent in 1916 as against 65 per cent in 1906. However, the changes from 1906 to 1916 have varied for the different classes of cities. The cities of 300,000 inhabitants and over show an increase from 1906 to 1916 in the proportion of the total they report for the different items, except that they report the same proportion of the value of church property at each date and a slightly smaller proportion of the total debt on church property in 1916 than in 1906. The cities of 100,000 to 300,000 inhabitants report a smaller proportion of the total population, of the total membership, of the total value of church property, of the total debt on church property, of the total value of parsonages, and of the total number of Sunday school scholars, in 1916 than in 1906. The cities of 50,000 to 100,000, however, and also the cities of 25,000 to 50,000, report in 1916 a larger proportion of the total in the case of each item than was reported by similar groups of cities in 1906.

A comparison of the items that were covered in 1890, as well as in the other two censuses, shows that the changes in the proportions, noted above, were similar at the former period, namely, a decrease shown by the group of cities from 100,000 to 300,000 in the proportions of members and value of church property, with a general increase for the other classes of cities and for all cities combined.

Distribution of members by sex.—The following table shows, for the different classes of cities, the distribution of members by sex, in 1916 and in 1906:

[1] Corrected figures; see explanation on p. 29 for change in number of members of the Roman Catholic Church.

The table shows that, of the 41,926,854 church members reported in 1916 in the United States, 35,644,162, or 85 per cent, were reported by sex. Of the church members living in cities of 25,000 or more in 1916, only 81.6 per cent were reported by sex as against 87 per cent of the members living outside of such cities. The best return by sex was made by church organizations in cities of 25,000 to 50,000, of which 88.3 per cent of the members were reported by sex, and the lowest by church organizations in cities of 300,000 or more, of which only 78.2 per cent of the members were so reported. The table shows that the return by sex was much better in 1906 than in 1916.

Of the 35,644,162 church members reported by sex, 43.9 per cent were male and 56.1 per cent were female, these proportions being practically the same as in 1906. The highest percentage of males was shown in the group of cities of 300,000 and over, but as stated above, this was the group showing the lowest proportion for which sex was reported. However, the highest percentage of males was also shown by this class of cities in 1906 when the proportion reporting sex was much higher than in 1916. Although this class of cities showed the highest proportion of males at each census, it is the only class which did not show a slight increase in the proportion in 1916 over 1906. At each census the proportion of males among church members was higher in all the cities combined than in the area outside of cities.

DISTRIBUTION OF MEMBERS BY PRINCIPAL DENOMINATIONS.

The following table presents for 1916, first, a number and per cent distribution of the total membership of each principal denomination among the specified classes of cities and the area outside; and, second, a per cent distribution of the membership of each class of community by principal denominations. The denominations represented are those for which 100,000 or more members were reported in 1916. Diagram 4, on page 122, also shows the proportions, in these denominations, of membership reported for the principal cities as compared with the membership outside of cities.

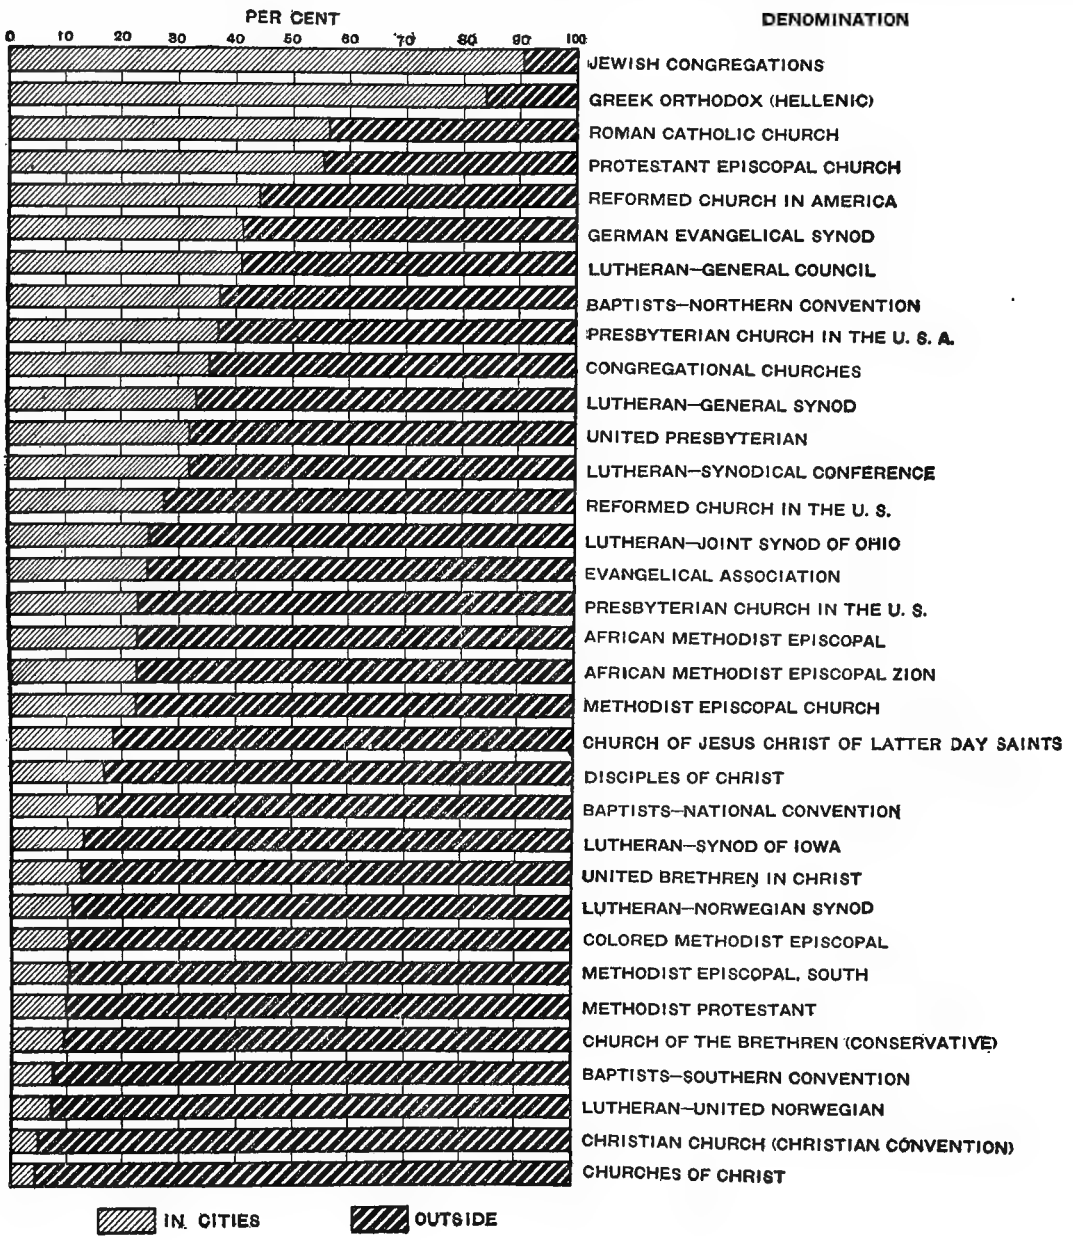
[1] Less than one-tenth of 1 per cent.

The table shows that of the total members reported in 1916 for all denominations in the United States, 7,686,860, or 18.3 per cent, were in cities of 300,000 inhabitants and over; 2,751,017, or 6.6 per cent, in cities of 100,000 to 300,000 inhabitants; 2,495,401, or 6 per cent, in cities of 50,000 to 100,000 inhabitants; 2,357,967, or 5.6 per cent, in cities of 25,000 to 50,000 inhabitants; and 26,635,609, or 63.5 per cent, in areas outside of the principal cities. Thus, in the entire United States in 1916, somewhat over one-third (36.5 per cent) of church members were in the principal cities and somewhat less than two-thirds (63.5 per cent) in areas outside of the principal cities. In comparison, of the total estimated population in 1916, slightly less than one-third (32.7 per cent) was in the principal cities and slightly more than two-thirds (67.3 per cent) was in areas outside of the principal cities.

The respective denominations show very marked variations in the distribution of their membership among the different areas. Most of the denominations reported a rather large majority of their members in areas outside of the principal cities, the proportion so reported being over 75 per cent for 19 of the 34 denominations presented in the table. Six denominations reported over 90 per cent of their members in areas outside of the principal cities: Churches of Christ, 95.5 per cent; Christian Church (Christian Convention), 95.1 per cent; United Norwegian Lutheran Church, 92.7 per cent; Southern Baptist Convention, 92.4 per cent; Church of the Brethren (Conservative), 90.4 per cent; and Methodist Protestant Church, 90.1 per cent. On the other hand, 4 different denominations reported a majority of their members as being in the principal cities: Jewish congregations, 90.7 per cent; Greek Church (Hellenic), 84.2 per cent; Roman Catholic Church, 56.5 per cent; and the Protestant Episcopal Church, 55.6 per cent. These 4 denominations also reported a high proportion of their membership in cities of 300,000 inhabitants or more. Other denominations which reported a high percentage of their membership in cities of this class are: German Evangelical Synod of North America, Reformed Church in America, Lutheran Synodical Conference, and United Presbyterian Church.

DIAGRAM 4.—PER CENT OF CHURCH MEMBERS IN PRINCIPAL CITIES AND OUTSIDE, FOR DENOMINATIONS REPORTING 100,000 OR MORE: 1916.



That portion of the table giving a per cent distribution of the membership of each group shows that the Roman Catholic Church constituted two-thirds of the membership in cities of 300,000 and over, more than one-half in each of the groups of 100,000 to 300,000 and 50,000 to 100,000, nearly one-half (46.1 per cent) of that in cities of 25,000 to 50,000, and approximately one-fourth of the membership outside of cities. In each group of cities the Methodist Episcopal Church is second in the proportion of membership represented, the only other denominations reporting more than 3 per cent in any group being the Protestant Episcopal Church, the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, and the Baptists (Northern and National Conventions). In the area outside of principal cities the Methodist Episcopal Church is again second, with 10.8 per cent; followed by the Southern Baptist Convention, with 9.4 per cent; and the National Baptist Convention, with 9.3 per cent.

Distribution by individual cities.—Table 45 shows, for 1916 and 1906, the number and per cent distribution, by principal denominations, of the total church membership reported in each of the 50 cities having a population of 100,000 or more in 1910. The table includes those denominations which represented 1 per cent or more of the total membership of the city in 1916 and combined covered about 90 per cent of the total membership reported.

Of the 50 cities included in the table, the Roman Catholic Church was the leading denomination in 45, representing in each of these 45 cities over 30 per cent of the total membership. Roman Catholics constituted over 30 and under 50 per cent of the total membership in 14 of the cities, over 50 and under 75 per cent in 27 of the cities, and over 75 per cent in 4 of the cities. The highest proportion of Roman Catholic members was reported by Fall River, Mass., 86 per cent. The proportion was 79.9 per cent in San Francisco, Calif., 75.5 per cent in New Orleans, La., and 75.3 per cent in New Haven, Conn. Even if allowance be made for the return of practically the entire Roman Catholic population as members in the Roman Catholic Church, still this denomination stands out quite prominently in many of the large cities.

The National Baptist Convention (Negro) was the leading denomination in 4 of the 50 cities, as follows: Birmingham, Ala., to which it contributed 26.1 per cent of the total membership; Memphis, Tenn., 26.6 per cent; Nashville, Tenn., 23.4 per cent; and Richmond, Va., 29.4 per cent. In Atlanta, Ga., the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, led in number of members, with 20.7 per cent of the total.

Each of 10 cities, in 1916, reported a membership of over a quarter of a million. Arranged in the order of the number of members, these cities, with their membership, are: New York, N. Y., 2,101,233; Chicago, Ill., 1,058,785; Philadelphia, Pa., 776,422; Boston, Mass., 401,498; St. Louis, Mo., 392,453; Pittsburgh, Pa., 377,703; Cleveland, Ohio, 357,261; Detroit, Mich., 330,600; Baltimore, Md., 296,599; and Buffalo, N. Y., 277,045.

New York City, with 2,101,233 members reported in 1916, had almost twice the membership reported by any other city. The Roman Catholic Church was the leading denomination, with 1,545,562 members, or 73.6 per cent of the total. The Protestant Episcopal Church was second, with 106,611 members, or 5.1 per cent of the total; and the Jewish congregations, third, with 93,819 members, or 4.5 per cent of the total. Chicago is the second city in number of members, with 1,058,785, of whom 718,114, or 67.8 per cent, belong to the Roman Catholic Church; 40,646, or 3.8 per cent, belong to the Lutheran Synodical Conference; 33,676, or 3.2 per cent, belong to the Methodist Episcopal Church; and the remainder is distributed among a number of other denominations. Philadelphia ranks third in number of members, with 776,422, of whom the Roman Catholic Church reported 436,700, or 56.2 per cent; the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, 62,929, or 8.1 per cent; the Methodist Episcopal Church, 55,848, or 7.2 per cent; the Protestant Episcopal Church, 52,629, or 6.8 per cent; and the Northern Baptist Convention, 46,414, or 6 per cent. Boston, the fourth city in number of members, reported 401,498. The Roman Catholic Church led in this city with 73.5 per cent of the total membership; next in order were the Jewish congregations, with 4.5 per cent; the Protestant Episcopal Church, with 4.4 per cent; and the Northern Baptist Convention, with 4 per cent.

As already stated, the Roman Catholic Church was the leading denomination in 1916 in 45 of the 50 cities of 100,000 inhabitants or more, the National Baptist Convention in 4 cities, and the Methodist Episcopal Church, South in 1 city. Of these denominations, the Roman Catholic held second place in Memphis, the National Baptist Convention in Louisville, New Orleans, and Washington, and the Methodist Episcopal Church, South in Birmingham and Nashville. The Methodist Episcopal Church was second in rank in the largest number of cities—14 out of 50. The Presbyterian Church in the United States of America held second place in 7 cities, the Protestant Episcopal Church and the Lutheran Synodical Conference in 5 cities each, and the Congregational Churches in 3 cities, 7 other denominations holding second place in either 1 or 2 cities. Of these 7, the Jewish congregations were second in rank in Boston and San Francisco, and the Greek Orthodox Church (Hellenic) in Lowell.

Of the denominations mentioned above, the Roman Catholic Church, the Methodist Episcopal Church, the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, and the Protestant Episcopal Church had their highest numerical strength in the cities of New York, Chicago, and Philadelphia; the Congregational Churches and the Jewish congregations in New York, Chicago, and Boston; and the Lutheran Synodical Conference in Chicago, Detroit, and Milwaukee.

While in many of the cities there were some changes between 1906 and 1916 in the rank of the different denominations according to membership, yet in each city, as a rule, the same denomination ranked first both in 1906 and 1916. There were, however, a few exceptions to this general rule. In Atlanta the National Baptist Convention ranked first in 1906 and third in 1916; in Birmingham the Roman Catholic Church was first in 1906 and third in 1916; and in Nashville the Methodist Episcopal Church, South was first in 1906 and second in 1916.

Notwithstanding the fact that both in 1906 and in 1916 each city of 100,000 inhabitants or more reported a number of different denominations, yet at each date a majority of the membership of each city was reported by a very few denominations. Thus, the table shows that in 1916 a majority of the membership was reported by the leading denomination in each of 31 cities, by the leading two denominations in each of 9 cities, and by the leading three denominations in each of the remaining 10 cities. In 33 of the 45 cities in which the Roman Catholic Church was the leading denomination in 1916, it was with a smaller proportion of the total membership than in 1906. As stated on page 116, there was no report of the membership of this church in 1906 for Rochester and only a partial report for Cleveland and Toledo. Of the 4 cities in which the National Baptist Convention was the leading denomination, it was with an increased proportion over 1906, as was also the case of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, which led in Atlanta.

SUMMARY OF STATISTICS OF NEGRO CHURCH ORGANIZATIONS.

This summary presents statistics of denominations composed entirely of Negro organizations and, also, of the Negro organizations of those denominations in which they constitute only a part. In the latter case, an entire ecclesiastical division may be composed of Negro organizations, or they may form a part of the general ecclesiastical divisions of the denominations to which they belong. As in 1906, the statistics are restricted to Negro churches, no effort having been made to ascertain the number of Negro members belonging to local white churches. Special effort was made to secure complete lists of Negro churches, which were difficult to obtain, particularly among the Baptist bodies, on account of the lack of any inclusive ecclesiastical organization. It is believed, however, that the statistics herein presented are more nearly complete than those presented at preceding censuses.

The denominations exclusively Negro in membership were 19 in number in 1916 as against 17 reported in 1906 and 11 in 1890. Three bodies, the Church of the Living God, the Colored Methodist Protestant Church, and the African American Methodist Episcopal Church, are presented for the first time, while 1 body, the Church of Christ in God, presented in 1906, has been consolidated with the Church of the Living God, Christian Workers for Fellowship. The body reported in 1906 as the United American Free Will Baptists has changed its name to Colored Free Will Baptists and was so reported in 1916.

The denominations composed in part of Negro organizations were 21 in number in 1916 as against 26 reported in 1906 and 18 in 1890. Seven bodies, the Free and Primitive Baptists, the Lutheran General Council, the Cumberland Presbyterian Church, the Associate Reformed Presbyterian Church, the Reformed Church in America, and the United Brethren in Christ, reported Negro organizations in 1906 but reported none in 1916; while two new bodies, the Regular Baptists and Churches of God, General Assembly, each reported one Negro organization.

GENERAL SUMMARY FOR 1916, 1906, AND 1890.

General statistics of denominations composed wholly or in part of Negro organizations are presented in Tables 70 to 73 (pp. 554 to 579), as follows: Table 70 presents statistics of these denominations for the United States; Table 71 presents statistics, by states, for all of these denominations combined; Table 72 presents statistics, by states, for each denomination reported separately in the state; and Table 73 presents comparative statistics for the United States.

The following table summarizes, for the United States, the statistics of all Negro organizations in 1916, 1906, and 1890, with number and per cent of increase:

[1] Corrected figures; see explanation on p. 29 for change in number of members of the Roman Catholic Church.

The summary shows an increase in 1916, as compared with 1906, in every item for which comparable figures are available, and in some cases the increases are very large. Only four of the items were common to the three censuses, and in comparing the increases for the two periods, it must be remembered that the former period covers 16 years and the latter only 10 years. This accounts largely for the smaller amount of numerical increase which is noticeable in the latter period as compared with the former, value of property being the only exception in the four items for which comparison can be made. The small amount of increase shown in number of organizations in the latter period, as compared with the former, corresponds with conditions in all denominations, where, as has been noted, the tendency is toward consolidation and strengthening of existing organizations rather than the formation of new ones. The acquiring of church edifices is, of course, dependent upon the formation of church organizations, so that the increase is similar. The difference in the amount of increase in members is easily accounted for by the difference of six years in the length of the two periods.

COMPARISON OF DENOMINATIONS CONSISTING IN WHOLE OR IN PART OF NEGRO ORGANIZATIONS.

The following table shows, by denominations classified as consisting in whole or in part of Negro organizations, the number of Negro organizations, the number of members, and the value of church property, as reported in 1916, 1906, and 1890.

The table shows that, with one exception, there was an increase in the number of organizations, the number of members, and the value of church property in both 1906 and 1916, for the total and for each class of denominations. The one exception was in the number of organizations from 1906 to 1916 in the class of partly Negro denominations. This slight decrease from 5,377 to 5,348 in the number of organizations in this class may be partly due to the tendency, already noted, to consolidation of organizations during the period from 1906 to 1916, while that of the preceding period was one of expansion; and it may be partly due to an increasing tendency of the race to unite with denominations wholly their own in preference to those of which they form only a part. These tendencies are confirmed by the following summary which shows the changes in the proportional distribution of the two classes at each of the three censuses, and also shows the per cent of increase during the two periods.

[1] A minus sign (−) denotes decrease.

According to this summary there has been an increase in each item in the proportions that the wholly Negro denominations constituted of the total and a consequent reduction in the proportions of the other class. It also shows that, with one exception, this increase in the proportions has been more rapid in the 10 years between 1906 and 1916 than in the 16 years between 1890 and 1906. This exception is in the number of organizations, in which the wholly Negro denominations constituted 86.5 per cent in 1916, as compared with 85.4 per cent in 1906 and 81.7 per cent in 1890.

In connection with the increases in the proportion of the total shown by the wholly Negro denominations, it should be stated that there is an increasing gathering of the Negro organizations into separate minor ecclesiastical divisions. Thus, in the Christian Church, the Methodist Protestant Church, the Wesleyan Methodist Connection, the Presbyterian Church in the United States, and the Reformed Episcopal Church, practically all the local Negro church organizations are combined in distinctively Negro ecclesiastical divisions. In the Congregational and Methodist Episcopal bodies the majority are so associated, and so, also, are a large number in the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America. In the Northern Baptist Convention, the Churches of Christ, the Disciples of Christ, the Protestant Episcopal Church, and the Roman Catholic Church there are no such ecclesiastical divisions with exclusively Negro organizations. The distinctively Negro Baptist associations in the Northern states, reported in 1890 as connected with the Northern Baptist Convention, are in this report, as in 1906, reported with the National Baptist Convention, which accounts in part for the decrease in the number of organizations and members reported for the Negro organizations and members in the Northern Baptist Convention in 1906, as compared with 1890.

DETAILED STATISTICS BY DENOMINATIONS.

Organizations and members.—The two following tables furnish detailed statistics for the Negro organizations in those denominations composed wholly or in part of such organizations and which reported a total membership of 5,000 or over in 1916. The denominations are given in the order of size of membership in 1916, and the details indicate, respectively, the total number of organizations and of members, in 1916, 1906, and 1890; the per cent distribution at those three periods; and the increase in number and per cent from 1890 to 1916, 1906 to 1916, and 1890 to 1906. Those bodies consisting in part only of Negro organizations are indicated by the term "part," inserted after the title.

From these two tables it appears that the Negro bodies have grown steadily if not uniformly since 1890, when for the first time they were presented separately. In the comparatively few cases where there has been a decrease in number of organizations or members the loss has been due to special causes. Thus, the African Methodist Episcopal Zion Church shows a gain of 500 organizations from 1890 to 1906 and of 512 from 1906 to 1916, but a loss of 165,246 members from 1890 to 1906, somewhat compensated by a gain of 72,627 from 1906 to 1916. This was due to erroneous reports in 1890, giving the churches a somewhat exaggerated membership. The Colored Primitive Baptists reported a gain in number, both of organizations and members from 1890 to 1906, but a loss under both heads from 1906 to 1916, due apparently to two causes: General disturbance during the second period in economic conditions in the Southern states, resulting in a considerable migration of Negroes and failure to retain church relations; and to certain internal dissensions, resulting from the extreme individualism of their church life. The Colored Free Will Baptists showed a decrease in the period 1906 to 1916, due to the fact that it was practically impossible to obtain reports from certain communities in 1916 that reported quite fully in 1906. The loss registered for the Disciples of Christ was due to the fact that a number of churches identified with the denomination in 1890 were reported with the Churches of Christ in 1906 and 1916.

In only two bodies included in Table 49—the Northern Baptist Convention and the Disciples of Christ—was the per cent of increase in number of Negro organizations reported higher for the period 1906–1916 than for 1890–1906; while in number of members the Colored Methodist Episcopal Church, the African Methodist Episcopal Church, the African Methodist Episcopal Zion Church, as well as the Northern Baptist Convention and the Disciples of Christ, showed a higher per cent of increase for the period 1906–1916 than that reported for the period 1890–1906.

Distribution of members by sex.—The following table shows the sex distribution, so far as reported, of the members of Negro church organizations in 1916 and 1906, for denominations reporting over 5,000 members:

[1] Corrected figures; see explanation on p. 29 for change in number of members of the Roman Catholic Church. [2] For changes in deneminations, see pp. 530 and 531.

From this table it appears that the per cent of membership for which sex distribution was reported in 1916 was, as a rule, higher than in 1906 in those denominations composed wholly of Negro organizations. In the other bodies failure to report was greater in 1916; the per cent of membership reported by sex in the Northern Baptist Convention dropped from 91.3 to 84.3; in the Methodist Episcopal Church from 88.1 to 56.3; in the Roman Catholic Church from 92.7 to 67.9; and in the Protestant Episcopal Church from 81.1 to 72.5.

The per cent of males in the membership for the Negro bodies as a whole rose from 37.6 in 1906 to 38.2 in 1916, but out of the 17 denominations shown in the table 10 showed a decrease in the proportion of males, the decrease being especially marked in the Colored Free Will Baptists, the Colored Cumberland Presbyterian Church, and the Free Christian Zion Church of Christ.

The denominations showing the highest proportion of males in 1916—the Roman Catholic Church with 44.8 per cent, the Colored Cumberland Presbyterian Church with 42.3 per cent, and the Christian Church (Christian Convention), with 41.2 per cent—also had the highest proportion of males in 1906. The denominations showing the lowest proportion of males in 1916 were the Colored Primitive Baptists and the Free Christian Zion Church of Christ, each with 36.1 per cent, and the Protestant Episcopal Church, with 36.2 per cent. Two of these bodies—the Protestant Episcopal Church and the Colored Primitive Baptist Church—also showed the lowest proportion of males in 1906.

Church edifices and value of property.—The next two tables show, for the Negro organizations in the specified denominations, the number of church edifices and the value of church property, respectively, for 1916, 1906, and 1890; the per cent distribution for each of the three years; and the number and per cent of increase for each of the three periods.

According to these tables, there were 37,371 church edifices and property to the value of $86,809,970 reported in 1916. The five bodies ranking highest, both as to number of edifices and value of church property are: The National Baptist Convention, reporting 53.9 per cent of church edifices and 47.4 per cent of the value of church property; the African Methodist Episcopal Church, with 16.9 per cent both of edifices and church property; the Negro organizations in the Methodist Episcopal Church, with 9.7 per cent of church edifices and 9.3 per cent of church property; the African Methodist Episcopal Zion

Church, with 6.7 and 8.7 per cent, respectively; and the Colored Methodist Episcopal Church, with 6.7 and 6.5 per cent, respectively. These five bodies together comprised 93.9 per cent of the total number of church edifices and 88.8 per cent of the total value of property in 1916.

As shown by the tables, the total increase in number of church edifices was 2,211, or 6.3 per cent, from 1906 to 1916; and 11,390, or 47.9 per cent, from 1890 to 1906. This wide difference in the increase in the number of church edifices in the latter period as compared with the first is due partly, as explained on page 44, to the difference of 6 years covered by the two periods, and partly to the consolidation of church organizations which necessarily affected the increase in number of church edifices. Notwithstanding the difference of 6 years in the two periods, the amount of increase in the value of church property in the later period was slightly greater than that of the earlier one, or $30,173,811 from 1906 to 1916, and $30,009,711 from 1890 to 1906. Much the greatest absolute increase for both edifices and value of property for the two periods is shown by the National Baptist Convention, namely, an increase of 2,233 edifices and $16,747,648 in value of property during the period 1906–1916, and 5,926 edifices and $15,398,723 in value of church property during the period 1890–1906. The highest percentage of increase in number of edifices, from 1906 to 1916, is shown by the Negro organizations in the Northern Baptist Convention—31.1 per cent—while for value of church property the Free Christian Zion Church of Christ showed an increase of 500.8 per cent for the same period.

The bodies showing a decrease, from 1906 to 1916, in the number of church edifices were the Colored Primitive Baptists, the African Methodist Episcopal Church, the Colored Cumberland Presbyterian Church, the Methodist Episcopal Church, and the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America. The cause of this decrease in some denominations was the consolidation of organizations and the elimination of weak congregations; the situation in the Colored Primitive Baptists has already been referred to (p. 131); in other bodies there appears to have been considerable readjustment. That there has been no serious loss is evident from the substantial increase in membership and in value of church property. The only body besides the Colored Primitive Baptists showing a decrease in value of church property is the Protestant Episcopal Church, a decrease, from 1906 to 1916, of $245,511, or 13.8 per cent. This decrease is due mainly to the failure of a few large Negro churches to report this item.

Debt on church property.—The following table shows for 1916 and 1906, for the Negro organizations in the selected denominations, first, the number of organizations reporting debt and the percentage which they form of the organizations reporting value of property; second, the value of church property, the amount of debt reported, and the per cent the debt represents of the value; and, third, the increase in debt from 1906 to 1916.

The total amount of debt reported by the Negro church organizations was $7,938,095 for 1916 and $5,005,905 for 1906, an increase of $2,932,190, or 58.6 per cent. Inquiry concerning debt was not made in 1890. The organizations reporting debt represented 27.3 per cent of the total number of Negro organizations reporting value of church property in 1916, as against 26 per cent in 1906; and the amount of debt reported represented 9.1 per cent of the value of property in 1916, as against 8.8 per cent in 1906. In the Northern Baptist Convention 50 per cent of the Negro organizations reporting church property in 1916 also reported debt, as compared with 56.7 per cent in 1906. This denomination also reported the highest percentage of debt, as compared with value, at the two censuses, the Roman Catholic showing the next highest. The denomination showing the lowest percentage of debt in 1916 is the Colored Cumberland Presbyterian, with 3.3 per cent, as against 5.1 per cent in 1906. The National Baptist Convention reported the largest increase in amount of debt—$1,676,176.

Parsonages.—The following table shows, for 1916 and 1906, for the Negro organizations in the selected denominations, the number of organizations reporting parsonages and the per cent they represent of the total number of organizations, the value of parsonages reported, the increase in value from 1906 to 1916, and the average value per organization reporting.

The total number of Negro organizations reporting parsonages in 1916 was 5,299 as against 4,779 in 1906, and these organizations represented practically the same proportion (about 13 per cent) of the total Negro organizations at each census. The value of parsonages reported in 1916 was $6,231,459, an increase of $2,503,575, or 67.2 per cent, over the amount for 1906, and the average value per organization increased from $780 in 1906 to $1,176 in 1916.

Parsonages were reported by nearly two-thirds (62.2 per cent) of the Negro organizations in the Roman Catholic Church, by more than one-third (about 37 per cent) of the organizations in the Free Christian Zion Church of Christ, and the Negro organizations in the Methodist Episcopal Church, and by slightly less than one-third (about 31 per cent) of those in the Protestant Episcopal Church and the Congregational Churches. All but 2 of the denominations presented in the table showed an increase in the proportion of organizations reporting parsonages. Two denominations—Colored Free Will Baptists and the Church of the Living God, Christian Workers for Fellowship—reported no parsonages in 1916, and the same was true of the latter in 1906.

The small percentage of organizations reporting parsonages is due probably to the fact that the Negro churches, especially in the South, are generally located in rural districts, and to the further fact, as stated in connection with the tables relating to ministers, that a large number of the pastors do not depend upon the salaries received from the churches for their support, but engage in other occupations, very largely farming. This is especially noticeable in regard to the National Baptist Convention, in which body only 3.3 per cent of the churches reported any parsonages at all, while the average value of those reported was $1,398, showing that they were evidently chiefly urban in location.

Of the total value of parsonages reported—$6,231,459—the African Methodist Episcopal Church reported $2,025,552, and the Negro organizations of the Methodist Episcopal Church $1,175,675, these two Methodist bodies representing over 50 per cent of the total value. The highest average value of parsonages was reported by the Negro organizations of the Roman Catholic Church ($4,885) and the Northern Baptist Convention ($4,157). The denominations showing the lowest average values are the Free Christian Zion Church of Christ, $654, and the Disciples of Christ, $681.

Expenditures.—The following table gives for 1916 the number and per cent of Negro organizations in the specified denominations reporting church expenditures, the amount reported, and the average per organization reporting.

As all church organizations must have some running expenses, it is evident from the table that 5 per cent of the Negro organizations failed to make report. With the exception of 4 denominations shown in the table, a report was made by more than 90 per cent of the organizations in each denomination. The report for these 4 denominations was very small, being only 40 per cent for the Church of the Living God, Christian Workers for Fellowship, 50.6 per cent for the Colored Primitive Baptists, 59.3 per cent for the Negro organizations in the Disciples of Christ and 77.8 per cent for those in the Roman Catholic Church. The total amount expended by the 95 per cent of Negro organizations in 1916 was $18,529,827, of which somewhat more than $8,000,000 was reported by the National Baptist Convention, more than $3,000,000 by the African Methodist Episcopal Church, and over $1,500,000 each by the 3 Methodist bodies following next in order of number of members. The highest averages per organization reporting are for 3 bodies which are composed in part only of Negro organizations and in which there are no separate Negro ecclesiastical subdivisions, namely, the Roman Catholic Church, $3,744, the Northern Baptist Convention, $2,805, and the Protestant Episcopal Church, $1,095. The highest average for a wholly Negro body is $665 for the Colored Methodist Episcopal Church, followed by the African Methodist Episcopal Zion Church, $644, the Free Christian Zion Church of Christ, $547, and the African Methodist Episcopal Church, $524.

Sunday schools.—The following table shows, for 1916 and 1906, the number and per cent of Negro organizations in the specified denominations reporting Sunday schools, the number of schools, of officers and teachers, and of scholars reported, with the increase in the number of scholars.

According to this table, 92.8 per cent of the total number of Negro organizations reported Sunday schools in 1916 as against 91.2 per cent in 1906. The table shows that there was an increase in the number of schools reported, with a corresponding increase in the number of officers and teachers and in the number of scholars, the gain in the latter case amounting to 413,744, or 23.8 per cent. The increase in the number of Negro organizations reporting Sunday schools from 33,538 to 36,797, or 9.7 per cent, and a percentage of increase of 23.8 in the number of scholars may be compared with the increase of 7.8 per cent in number of Negro organizations and of 24.7 in number of members. From these percentages it appears that the growth in number of church organizations was less rapid than in number of Sunday schools, but that the increase in number of scholars did not keep pace with the increase in number of church members. These percentages would indicate that the rapid extension of Sunday school work, shown on page 60, for all denominations, irrespective of race, is taking place among the white and not among the Negro organizations. It is to be remembered, however, that the period covered by the last enumeration was a period of some disorganization among Negro churches, the effects of which, as previously noted, are shown to a marked degree in the Colored Primitive Baptists and in several of the minor bodies.

In the National Baptist Convention the per cent of the total organizations reporting Sunday schools was the same at the two periods; in the Colored Methodist Episcopal Church it rose from 92.7 to 96.9; in the Northern Baptist Convention, from 94.4 to 96.5; in the Colored Free Will Baptists, from 39.8 to 51.2; and in the Disciples of Christ, from 86 to 92. In the Church of the Living God, Christian Workers for Fellowship, it fell from 90.6 to 63.9 per cent.

The National Baptist Convention comprised more than one-half of the total number of Sunday schools and of scholars and nearly one-half of the total number of officers and teachers. The next largest numbers were reported by the African Methodist Episcopal Church, the Negro organizations in the Methodist Episcopal Church, the African Methodist Episcopal Zion Church, and the Colored Methodist Episcopal Church, these four Methodist denominations and the National Baptist Convention together representing more than 93 per cent, respectively, of the total number of Sunday schools, of officers and teachers, and of scholars. In order of increase in the number of scholars, the National Baptist Convention reported 256,605, or 27.8 per cent; the Colored Methodist Episcopal Church, 75,423, or 81.6 per cent; the African Methodist Episcopal Zion Church, 27,410, or 25.5 per cent; the African Methodist Episcopal Church, 18,362, or 6.3 per cent; and the Negro organizations in the Methodist Episcopal Church, 10,172, or 5 per cent.

MEMBERSHIP BY STATES.

Table 58 gives the membership of Negro organizations, by states, arranged according to the highest membership in 1916, with the membership and relative position of each state at the two censuses of 1906 and 1890.

From this table it appears that in 1916, as in 1906 and 1890, the largest membership of Negro organizations was shown in the Southern states, Georgia leading at each period. Alabama, which ranked third in 1890, rose to second place in 1906 and 1916; South Carolina, which was second in 1890, ranked third in 1906 and 1916; Mississippi, which was sixth in 1890, ranked fourth in 1906 and 1916; and Texas rose from seventh place in 1890 and 1906 to fifth in 1916.

These five states, Georgia, Alabama, South Carolina, Mississippi, and Texas, reported 50 per cent or more of the entire membership of Negro organizations at each period; while these, with North Carolina, Virginia, Arkansas, Louisiana, Tennessee, Florida, and Kentucky reported, in 1916, more than four-fifths (85 per cent) of such membership in the United States. If the membership for Oklahoma, Delaware, Maryland, District of Columbia, and West Virginia be included, thus completing the membership reported for the South Atlantic and both South Central divisions, a total of 4,143,296, or 90 per cent of the total membership of Negro organizations in the United States, was reported by these 17 states as against 91.6 per cent in 1906 and 93.2 per cent in 1890. The only Northern state reporting over 100,000 members of Negro organizations in 1916 was Pennsylvania, with 108,672 members.

The District of Columbia more than doubled its Negro membership from 1890 to 1906, but the increase in 1916 was comparatively slight.

North Dakota and Vermont reported no members of Negro church organizations at any of the three censuses; Idaho and Nevada reported for the first time in 1916, and New Hampshire and South Dakota for the first time in 1906. In general, a continuous, if not uniform, increase is shown for the two periods. North Carolina, Michigan, Oregon, and Wyoming show a decrease in 1906 as against 1890, but in each of these states, except Oregon, the loss was more than made up in the period 1906 to 1916. Indiana, Massachusetts, South Dakota, and Maine show a decrease in 1916, as compared with 1906.

An examination of the table shows that, while the South Atlantic division comprised the largest membership at each of the three censuses, there was a very uniform decrease in the proportions. The East South Central division, which comprised the next highest number of members, showed a smaller proportion in 1916 than in 1906 or 1890, but the proportion in 1906 was slightly in excess of that in 1890. The West South Central division, which was third in number of members, differed from the other two southern divisions by showing a gradual increase in the proportions. Outside of the three southern divisions, the changes in the proportions were very slight, but with a general tendency toward increase.

TABLE 63.—NUMBER OF MEMBERS IN SELECTED DENOMINATIONS IN EACH STATE, BY COUNTIES: 1916.

[The term "County location unknown" is used in this table to cover those cases where the report of a church organization failed to specify the county in which it was situated, due either to a direct omission to so report or to the fact that the return of a circuit or charge, or the like, sometimes comprised two or more churches located in different counties for which no separate report was made.]
